SULZER CHEERFUL ON EVE OF TRIAL

Predicts Fair Treatment and Acquittal—Elated Over Up-State Primaries.

WILL VOTE NEW CHARGES

Assembly to Meet To-day to Formulate Five Additional Articles of Impeachment.

HIGH COURT SITS AT NOON

Stanchfield Added to Array of Anti-Sulzer Counsel—Judge Cullen Predicts Swift Action.

Articles of Impeachment.

The eight Articles of Impeachment voted against Gov. Sulzer by the Assembly are, in substance, as follows:

1. That William Sulzer filed with the Secretary of State a false statement of his campaign receipts, expenditures, disbursements, and liabilities.

2. That he was guilty of perjury in stating under oath that his statement of his campaign receipts, expenditures, disbursements, and liabilities was correct.

3. That he was guilty of bribing witnesses to withhold testimony from the legislative committee which investigated his campaign expenditures and receipts.

4. That he was guilty of suppressing evidence in using threats to keep witnesses from testifying before the legislative committee.

5. That he was guilty of preventing and dissuading a witness, Frederick L. Colwell, from attending under subpoena the sessions of the legislative committee.

6. That he used money and checks contributed to his pre-election campaign to speculate in stocks, and that he was thereby guilty of larceny.

7. That, as Governor, he threatened to use his office and influence for the purpose of affecting the vote or political action of certain public officers.

8. That, while Governor, he corruptly used his authority or influence to affect the current prices of securities listed and selling on the New York Stock Exchange, in some of which securities he was at the time interested.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 17.—Everything is in readiness for the trial of William Sulzer, the first Governor of New York to be impeached, before the High Court of Impeachment. Most of the members of that Court, which will be composed of the eSnate and the Court of Appeals, already are here. The members of the Board of Managers for the Assembly, which body is to prosecute the impeachment, as well as the lawyers on both sides, are assembling here to-night.

Beyond a brief statement, Mr. Sulzer chose to remain silent on the eve of trial. This statement he made to a friend who called on him at the Executive Mansion this afternoon.

"I expect a fair trial, and I know that I shall be acquitted," he said.

All day the blinds of the little inside office at the Capitol where Mr. Sulzer has spent most of his waking hours since the impeachment were lowered. Chester C. Platt, his secretary, said Mr. Sulzer had spent the day in conference with his counsel.

Friends of Mr. Sulzer said to-day that on the eve of his trial he was far more cheerful than at any time throughout the long days of waiting. In this anxious interval, Mr. Sulzer at times had been morose and brooding to a degree to cause his friends serious alarm. To-night it was said that Mr. Sulzer awaited the verdict with the utmost confidence, feeling certain that he would be able to explain away every semblance of guilt. Part of this cheerfulness Mr. Sulzer's friends ascribed to the result of the primaries held yesterday, which in many sections of the State showed a strong sentiment for Mr. Sulzer among the rank and file of his own party.

Plan Additional Charges.

The Assembly will meet under a close call to-morrow to consider additional articles of impeachment. After the showing made to-night, when the organization leaders were able to whip in line as many as 86 votes for measures opposed by Sulzer's followers, this plan was decided upon.

There are now eight articles of impeachment in the indictment filed against William Sulzer with the Senate. It was learned late to-night that five more were being prepared. These will be added to the eight, making a total of 13, if the 76 votes necessary to adopt them can be mustered when the lower house convenes to-morrow. The leaders were extremely secretive to-night regarding their plans, but expressed themselves privately as hopeful of putting the programme through.

One of the new articles, it is understood, will charge Mr. Sulzer with usurpation in hanging on to his office after the articles of impeachment were voted against him. This offense is catalogued as a "high crime and misdemeanor."

Another article, it is understood, will charge Mr. Sulzer with making inflammatory speeches fraught with falsehoods, uttered for the purpose of bringing the Legislature into contempt with the people. A similar article was filed

DEAN ROGERS FOR JUDGE.

Yale Educator Selected by Wilson for Second Federal Circuit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Connecticut members of Congress said to-night that President Wilson had decided to appoint Henry Wade Rogers, dean of the Yale Law School, as Judge of the United States Circuit Court for the Second Judicial Circuit, to succeed Walter C. Noyes of New London, Conn., who resigned last Spring.

The Second Judicial Circuit includes Vermont, Connecticut and the four Federal judicial districts of New York.

It was the gossip here to-night that if Mr. Rogers went on the Federal bench he probably would be succeeded as dean of the Yale Law School by ex-President Taft.

Dean Henry Wade Rogers is a Democrat, and made the speech nominating Gov. Baldwin of Connecticut for the Presidency at the last Baltimore convention.

He was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1874 and received the degree of Master of Arts there in 1877 after studying law for two years. He was made a Doctor of Laws of Wesleyan University in 1890, and received an honorary degree of Master of Arts at Yale in 1907.

Admitted to the bar in 1877, he became Tappan Professor of Law at the University of Michigan in 1883, and was dean of the Law School there from 1885 to 1900. He was President of Northwestern University from 1890 to 1900, lecturer in the Law School at Yale in the next year, Professor there in 1901, and was elected Dean in 1903.

He was the Chairman of the World's Congress of Jurisprudence and Law Reform in 1893 at the Chicago Exposition; General Chairman of the Saratoga Conference on the Foreign Policy of the United States in 1898, and served as Chairman of many legal and international church conferences.

W. K. VANDERBILT, JR., SELLS

Another Part of His Long Island Estate Disposed Of.

MINEOLA, L. I., Sept. 17.—A deed for thirteen and a half acres of Deepdale, William K. Vanderbilt, Jr.'s, estate at Lakeville, was filed with the County Clerk here to-day. The price is given as "$100 and other considerations." There is a first mortgage of $17,300 held by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company of New York, and a second mortgage of $12,000 held by Amy S. Gibson of 243 West Forty-fourth Street, Manhattan.

The significance of the transaction, taken in connection with the fact that last Spring Mr. Vanderbilt sold fourteen acres of his estate to a real estate concern, is taken to be that Mr. Vanderbilt has decided to give up Deepdale, one of the finest estates on Long Island, and will live permanently at Newport.

Deepdale has been practically closed ever since the Summer of 1909 when Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., who was Miss Virginia Fair before her marriage in 1899, leased the Barney estate at Wheatley Hills, Westbury.

In 1910 Mrs. Vandebilt acquired 71 acres of land near Jericho for a consideration of $75,359.76, which, added to her other holdings there gave her an estate of nearly 122 acres. The house which Mrs. Vanderbilt has been building on her estate has just been completed. It is within ten miles of Deepdale.

Mrs. Vanderbilt returned from Europe on the Imperator to-night.

BROTHERS LOST 40 YEARS.

Meet by Chance Now in Hotel Lobby Here and Embrace.

F. C. Waldman of Sydney, Australia, who has been stopping at the Hotel Astor on a world-girdling tour, was sitting in the main dining room of the hotel shortly after 6 o'clock last evening when a page passed among the tables shouting: "Call for Mr. Waldman." Supposing that the call was for him, F. C. Waldman took the message, but found it was addressed to S. C. Waldman and not intended for him.

He was so struck by the similarity in the names that he left his unfinished meal and followed the little page until the latter found the Mr. Waldman for whom the message was intended, in the lobby. The two Waldmans shook hands, commented on the similarity of their names, and then began to compare notes. Presently, to the vast surprise of the page the two gray-haired men threw their arms about each other, it turning out that they were long lost brothers.

More than forty years ago, they had left Berlin, two orphan boys, and embarked in a sailing vessel to seek their fortunes. The ship was wrecked off the coast of Australia, and the crew and passengers were forced to put off in boats. The brothers became separated and never saw each other again until they chanced to meet in the lobby of the Astor.

A sailing vessel bound for England picked up the boat in which was Samuel, the younger brother, and he eventually reachcd Berlin, where he remained. Franz, the elder brother, reached Australia in one of the other boats, and settled there. In all the forty years they had not seen or heard of each other, and each believed the other had been lost at sea, until the little hotel messenger unconsciously brought them together.

TWELVE KILLED IN RIVIERA.

Three Electric Cars Jump the Rails and Fall into a Ravine.

NICE, Sept. 17.—Three electric cars filled with passengers while passing over a bridge this evening near the village of Villeneuve-Loubet, between Grasse and Cagnes, jumped the rails and fell forty feet into a ravine.

Twelve persons were killed and thirty injured.

O'Brien Presents Letters of Recall.

PISA, Sept. 17.—King Victor Emmanuel at the royal hunting lodge at San Rossore this evening received American Ambassador Thomas J. O'Brien in farewell audience for the presentation of his letters of recall. The King expressed regret at Mr. O'Brien's departure and spoke highly of his work as Ambassador. Mr. O'Brien dined with the King and Queen. He will leave here to-morrow for Holland to meet the new Ambassador to Italy, Thomas Nelson Page.

TRACTION STRIKE THREATENS BRITAIN

Tie-Up on All Railways Likely to be Ordered To-day—7,000 Now Out in Birmingham.

LONDON 'BUSES MAY STOP

Trouble There Due to a Trivial Quarrel—Situation in Dublin Has Become More Serious.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—London is threatened with the total suspension of its motor bus and "tube" services on account of a very trumpery dispute.

One motor bus firm, Messrs. Tilling, suspended a number of drivers and conductors because they persisted in wearing trade union badges. This led to a general agitation among the London omnibus employes and to-night the union ordered all Messrs. Tilling's men to strike to-morrow.

Several meetings of omnibus and "tube" workers have already voted in favor of a general strike, and it is probable that all the trade union members will be called out on Friday.

The labor unrest is becoming widespread. The strikes of railway men at Birmingham and Liverpool continue in support of their comrades in Dublin, where 20,000 men are out and thousands of families are in distress.

Fighting in Dublin last night resulted in a youth being shot. The wound was inflicted by a bullet from a police revolver.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The United Kingdom will know to-morrow whether or not it will have to endure another national transport strike.

Acting on a demand from Birmingham, where the strike situation is serious, the Executive Board of the National Union of Railwaymen will meet at the London headquarters in the morning to discuss the advisability of calling a national strike.

Birmingham has taken Liverpool's place as the strike centre. Seven thousand men are now out there. The stoppage of freight shipments is complete; even local deliveries are impossible.

The only favorable indications are to be found in the return to work of a number of Liverpool freight handlers, and the agreement by the officials of the various railway companies involved to receive delegations of strikers.

A prominent labor leader of Birmingham said to-night that, no matter what action the Executive Board took, the passenger train employes would join the freight workers to-morrow. Already several hundred engineers and firemen have struck and freight is piling up. Various trades are beginning to suffer losses as a result of the disorganization of traffic.

The Directors of the Manchester Ship Canal have declined the offer of mediation made by the Mayor of Salford, declaring that they cannot grant any advances at the present time. The railways at Birmingham are refusing to receive any more consignments. Hearses are being utilized to carry meat from the depots to the butchers, as not a single railway dray is working.

At Dublin the unrest is increasing. James Larkin, the labor leader, in a speech to-night declared that the strikers would soon have all the workers with them. A procession numbering 5,000 marched through the streets and stoned a car when the motorman refused to quit it.

The boy who was shot in an affray between the police and strikers last night is still alive. The police assert that the shot was fired in the air and that the boy was accidentally hit on the return of the bullet.

Trade in Dublin is almost completely paralyzed. It is feared that as soon as the slender strike funds of the Irish union workmen are exhausted dangerous outbursts will occur.

The strike fever is spreading to Wales and Ulster. One thousand colliers are out at Pontypridd. They refuse to work until the only non-union man there joins the union.

A labor leader, who was returning from Dublin to Belfast, was mobbed at the station. A lively fight ensued between his supporters and opponents and a number of shots were fired.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—A "great national strike," as it is described by one of the trades union leaders, threatens the United Kingdom.

Beginning with the lockout of large numbers of workmen last week in Dublin in consequence of the strike of members of the Transport Workers' Union because of the employment of non-union laborers, rumblings of discontent have since been heard throughout the entire labor community of the British Isles, but thus far eruptions have occurred only in the larger cities.

The sympathetic strike of the Liverpool dock hands and the transport workers on the railroads there and at Birmingham has already partly crippled the three great trunk railways serving the midland counties of England, namely, the Midland, the London Northwestern, and the Great Western, while the Manchester Ship Canal Company is also contending with a strike of its dock laborers for better wages.

At Liverpool seven of the great freight depots were idle to-day and others are likely soon to be closed for want of traffic.

Peace seems to be a long way off between the workmen and employers in Ireland, as all attempts have hitherto failed to settle the Dublin trouble, which was the direct cause of the stoppage of work at Liverpool and Birmingham.

The difficulty of getting provisions into the Irish capital has become so great that it is believed that the markets there will have to close their doors.

The Labor Members of Parliament declare that the trouble in Dublin, London, and elsewhere has been caused by the determination of the employers to challenge the rights of labor to organize, and they state that the lockouts in Dublin and the refusal to allow the trades union workmen in London to wear their union badges were decided upon only after the men had begun to talk of seeking redress for other grievances.

TO PREVENT POLITICAL SCANDALS

R. Fulton Cutting suggests a plan for the promotion of cleanliness in State government in a strong interview in NEXT SUNDAY'S TIMES.

MITCHEL SEEKS MAN TO LEAD CAMPAIGN

Loeb Doesn't Want the Job, but He Holds the Matter Open.

The Fusionists want a manager for the municipal political campaign. The men they want don't want the job, for one reason or another, and the Fusion Executive Committee now is in doubt in what direction to look for the right man. William Loeb, Jr., had a long conference yesterday with John Purroy Mitchel, the Fusion candidate for Mayor, and ex-Deputy Police Commissioner Arthur Woods at his office at 165 Broadway. They asked him to undertake the direction of the Fusion campaign. He promised to consider the representations they made to him before giving a final answer, but it is not believed that he will undertake the job. He has taken up his new duties with the Guggenheims too recently to be willing to drop them now, as he would have to do if he were to undertake to run the Mitchel campaign.

It was hoped by Mr. Mitchel that Mr. Loeb would find it possible to accept his invitation because of the necessity of finding a man who would meet the peculiar conditions. It is held by friends of Mitchel that his chances of success depend on his power to amalgamate many factions, and he must be careful not to seem to be the candidate of any one of them. Thus if he were to get Herbert Parsons to manage his campaign, these friends say he would run the risk of antagonising the independent Democrats and the Progressives, and if he were to select William H. Hotchkiss, whose name has also been suggested, he might alienate some of the regular Republicans.

Mr. Loeb, on the other hand, always has maintained his party regularity, although he has been a warm friend of Col. Roosevelt. It is held by friends of Mitchel that he would appeal to both wings of the Republican Party, and his position with the Guggenheims would give him peculiar value.

Mitchel's Weak Points Recognised.

It is recognized that one of the principal weaknesses of Mitchel as a candidate is the fear felt by many solid business men of his radical tendencies. Now it is believed by the Fusionists that if Mr. Loeb, the executive manager of the Guggenheim interests, should take up his cause it would be proof positive that there is nothing in Mr. Mitchel's programme for the most timid business man to fear.

Mr. Mitchel called Mr. Loeb on the telephone yesterday morning and asked him to arrange an appointment. Mr. Loeb was so busy at his office that it was not until 4 o'clock in the afternoon that he could turn his attention to political affairs. Then Mr. Mitchel and Mr. Woods had a conference with him at which the entire situation was considered. It is understood that Mr. Mitchel urged Mr. Loeb to undertake the management of his campaign. Mr. Loeb felt that he was unable to give a definite answer yesterday. He left last night for Washington but promised on his return on Friday after he had thought the matter over, to give his final reply.

Mr. Loeb, it is understood, has undertaken important work for the Guggenheims, which he is loath to lay aside at the present time. He was obliged to stay at the Customs House for several weeks after he had resigned in order to suit the convenience of the new Administration, and now that he has begun to feel settled in his new job he does not want to leave it.

It is not likely that he will, as has been suggested, assume the nominal management of the Mitchel campaign and leave the detail work to others, for those experienced in political matters realize that if a manager is to be successful he must devote his entire time to a political campaign. Mr. Loeb has thrown himself into his new work with much energy. He did not take a vacation this Summer and hesitates to lay down his work for six or seven weeks merely to undertake a still more exacting task.

After talking with Mr. Loeb, Mr. Mitchel went with Frank L. Polk and George Mullan to Fusion headquarters at the Fifth Avenue Building, where he conferred with the Kings and Queens members of the Executive Committee. In accordance with his determination not to talk politics until after the Gaynor funeral he declined to discuss the matters they had under consideration.

New Plan of Fusionists.

A matter which now is engaging the attention of the Fusion leaders is the advisability of getting an independent nomination for the Fusion city ticket by petition. The advantage of this would be that it would provide another column on the ballot for the names of Mitchel, Prendergast and McAneny, which is considered by professional politicians, a matter of considerable importance. Then it would perhaps persuade some Democrats who would hesitate to vote under the Republican or Progressive emblems, to vote for the Fusion nominees. On the other hand as there are no Fusion candidates for the Assembly or the Board of Aldermen it would be impossible to provide a full ticket in the separate Fusion column. The Executive Committee is weighing these matters.

A number of independent Democrats headed by County Clerk William F. Schneider, called yesterday on Collector Mitchel at the Custom House and complained that the Fusion Committee was not making any effort to get the votes of independent Democrats. Mr. Mitchel replying, said that he would see that the matter received attention.

A. W. GANWELL STRICKEN.

Wisconsin Traction Head Seized by Apoplexy at Directors' Meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., Sept. 17.—A. W. Ganwell of Pittsfield, Mass., owner of the majority stock of the Sheboygan Traction Company, which controls the local trolley situation, was stricken with apoplexy to-day at the annual meeting of the Directors, and was removed to a hospital, where it is said that his recovery is unlikely. Late to-night he had not recovered consciousness.

Mr. Ganwell invested in the local company two years ago at the time of a re-organization, put some of his Eastern aids in charge, and began the development of an extensive system which is eventually expected to become a net work of interurban lines. Mr. Ganwell's investment represented nearly a million dollars and his associates provided the balance of the working capital.

MAID FIGHTS TO DIE AS CROWD LOOKS ON

In Window High Over Broadway Mistress Holds Struggling Girl from Death Leap.

Mrs. Sigmund Strauss, wife of a cigar manufacturer, put aside her sewing in her apartment at 240 West 102d Street early last evening, and stepped to the next room to see what had become of her maid, Rosa, whom she had dispatched some moments before to fetch a needle. The room was in darkness, and she switched on the electric light just in time to see the maid climbing out on the sill of the window looking down on Broadway, four floors below.

The woman was balancing on the ledge when Mrs. Strauss's arms closed around her waist. Then, and not until then, did Mrs. Strauss scream, but it was a cry of fear and a cry for help that could be heard a block away.

First one and then another person halted in the street below. Ten, twenty, thirty passers-by stopped. In a twinkling there was a knot of persons, in another there was a crowd. The shout of alarm was caught up and carried into Archambault's restaurant, and there was a scramble as the diners pushed and jostled their way to the street.

Up there at a window of the Magnolia apartments they could see mistress and maid struggling. The larger woman seemed to overhang the sidewalk, twisting and wrenching to free herself, the woman of slighter build hanging on grimly, and both uttering piercing screams.

For a few moments no one seemed to know what to do. Each seemed to think that, whatever ought to be done, some one else ought to do it, or that some one else was already doing it. The hundreds packing the sidewalk and spreading out across the trolley tracks just stood and stared, fascinated while one excited individual smashed in the glass of the automatic alarm in Archambault's and brought the fire engines to swell the crowd and double the confusion.

The first policeman on the spot was Patrolman O'Neil of the West 100th Street Station. Attracted by the staring crowd, he pushed his way to a vantage point, saw what was happening, buffeted his way back through the jam and around the corner to the apartment house entrance. As he went into the lobby he was joined by two others, Alfred Ellinger of 312 West 100th Street and Alfred Werner, the stalwart ex-policeman, who married Giulia Morosini. They rushed for the elevator, but it was somewhere up the shaft, and then they started up the stairs.

Meanwhile it seemed to Mrs. Strauss that hours were passing and that help would never come. When she first cried out she had been encouraged by the sight of men swarming at the street corner below and by the sound of their shouts coming up to her. But that had been long ago and no help had come. Every one seemed just to stand still and stare.

It seemed to her as if she could not hold the writhing, maddened woman another moment when there came a crash at the door, the sound of people breaking in. Into the hallway and into the room, three men rushed. She had a confused feeling of a dozen huge arms reaching over and past her and closing about her burden. Then things began to go round and she went down in a heap on the floor. For fifteen minutes she had stuck to her task.

When the doctor came from the Knickerbocker Hospital to pronounce the maid a sufferer from melancholia and order her removal in an ambulance, he found another patient in Mrs. Strauss, who was on the verge of hysteria. The maid's name was Mrs. Rosa Decissey. She had worked at the Strauss's for several months.

LAMAR HAPPY AT HEARING.

Listens to Arguments For and Against His Extradition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—For four hours to-day David Lamar, the Wall Street speculator, sat in the office of United States Commissioner Taylor and listened to arguments for and against his extradition to New York to answer the indictment found there in July by the Federal Grand Jury, charging him with the impersonation of Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, with the intention to defraud the United States Steel Corporation and J. P. Morgan & Co. Assistant District Attorney James M. Proctor of this city and Harold Harper of New York represented the Government.

Lamar was defended by Henry E. Davis of Washington, whose motion to discharge Lamar was denied by Commissioner Taylor. Mr. Davis argued that Representative Palmer was not a public officer within the meaning of the law, and that the indictment was defective in that it did not contain sufficient proof that there had been any violation of the statue.

Lamar appeared to enjoy the proceedings. He laughed frequently.

GEM-DECKED WIDOW HELD.

Mrs. Martha Centre Arrested in Philadelphia as Insane.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—A handsome young woman wearing several thousand dollars' worth of gems, who said she was Mrs. Martha Centre of New York, a widow, and that her father was a wealthy Boston man, was arrested in the Bellevue-Stratford today on the suspicion that she was insane. Her lavish expenditures and distribution of tips had attracted the hotel officials. When taken to City Hall she became hysterical, and tearing a string of pearls from her neck lashed one of the detectives about the head with it.

The woman said she was only pretending insanity and that her purpose was to get material for a play to be called the "Mad Widow", which she was writing.

She said her father was Max E. Fleming of 73 Tremont Street, Boston, who controlled a chain of banks in New England. She was taken to the Philadelphia hospital for observation.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Max Fleming was not at home to-night, nor at his delicatessen shop. The shop was closed all evening, which was not customary. A woman who answered the bell at the house said she did not know where Mr. Fleming was.

WANT ROOSEVELT AS ENVOY FOR FAIR

Wilson Urged to Send Him to England and Germany in Panama Exposition's Interest.

COLONEL TO SLEEP ON IT

Germany Receptive and St. Petersburg Has Heard That He Is Also Going There.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—It became known to-night that President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and officers of the Government interested in the success of the Panama Pacific Exposition, were considering a suggestion that Theodore Roosevelt be appointed a special Commissioner to Great Britain and Germany to endeavor to induce those Governments to reconsider their decisions not to participate in the exposition.

The suggestion has been discussed among the higher officials of the administration for about two weeks. It has met with some favor and there are intimations that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan now are inclined to believe that it would be worth while to ask Col. Roosevelt to accept the mission. No decision has been reached.

Whether Col. Roosevelt would be commissioned with the rank of special Ambassador or merely would be designated as a Commissioner is a question that could not be taken up until it was determined whether he should be asked to undertake the work. It has been customary for this Government to send Commissioners to foreign countries to request official participation in world's fairs in the United States, but none of these has had Ambassadorial or other diplomatic rank. Col. Roosevelt was President Taft's special Ambassador at the funeral of King Edward.

This Government was keenly disappointed over the action of Great Britain and Germany in declining the invitation of the United States to take part in the exposition. Efforts made by Secretary Bryan to induce both nations to reconsider have not met with success.

A TIMES reporter attempted last night to obtain from Sagamore Hill some idea of whether Col. Roosevelt would accept such a task as is contemplated by the Administration at Washington if it were offered to him. A member of the Roosevelt household answered the telephone and asked that the Washington dispatch be read, as the Colonel must not be disturbed unless it was a matter of importance. The dispatch was read over the telephone and a request made that the Colonel make a statement.

After a few moments the member of the household returned to the telephone. "Col. Roosevelt has gone to bed, and must not be disturbed," he said.

"But this is a matter of importance, and Col. Roosevelt will be greatly interested," was suggested.

"No, it would not do to wake him up," replied the voice at the other end of the wire, "and, anyway, if the Colonel has anything to say about it, he will make a statement to-morrow."

HEAR ROOSEVELT IS COMING.

St. Petersburg Dispatches Say He Is Expected in Russia.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—St. Petersburg telegrams in Berlin papers allege that ex-President Roosevelt will arrive in Russia "within a few days" to urge the Czar's Government to accept an invitation to take part in the ceremonies at the opening of the Panama Canal. Some newspapers express the hope that his mission may also include Germany and have some concern with the San Francisco Exhibition.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent here has reason for stating that if the United States Government takes prompt measures in Berlin in regard to Germany's refusal to participate in the San Francisco Exposition there is a prospect that the Kaiser's Government will rescind its previous action.

The German authorities are, as a matter of fact, desirous of help in the process of "saving their faces." If President Wilson and Secretary Bryan do not consider it beneath the dignity of the United States officially to suggest that the German Government reconsider its decision the Government might do so in view of German public opinion toward the exposition.

Since Germany's refusal was announced a month ago facts have come to light of which the Government had no knowledge when its decision was taken. There is reason to think that this Government would now reconsider its action, but it is essential that an invitation to that end should come officially from Washington.

REGRETS BRITISH ACTION.

President of Chambers of Commerce Congress Alludes to Fair.

ANTWERP, Sept. 17.—The great regret of British trade over the British Government's refusal to participate in the Panama-Pacific Exposition was expressed to-day in his inaugural address by Sir Algernon Freeman Firth, President of the Congress of British Chambers of Commerce, now assembled here.

The gathering comprises 500 delegates from all parts of the world.

Report Urges Spanish Exhibit.

MADRID, Sept. 17.—The Spanish Government has not yet reached a decision with reference to participation in the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Lack of funds through the drain on the treasury caused by the war in Morocco is the chief obstacle, but the Government is still considering the report drawn up by Marquis de la Vega Inclan, who has strongly urged that Spain be represented. The Government may find a way out of the difficulty by requesting the large business houses to donate a sufficient sum for the purpose.

WANTED—A MAYOR.

Three Tickets and No Candidate in Milltown—Other Offices Begging.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—The Borough of Milltown, near here, seeks a candidate for Mayor. The present Mayor, Conrad Richter, because of ill-health has declined a renomination. All three tickets, Democratic, Republican, and Progressive, have been printed for the primary without a candidate for Mayor on any of them.

The Democrats have only one borough candidate on their ticket, a County committeeman. Neither they nor the Progressives have candidates for Councilmen. The Republicans have named Councilmen and a County Committeeman. The voters will have to fill in the name of the candidate for Borough Clerk, if they wish to vote for him, and they will also have to write in the name of some one whom they would like for Mayor.

SAY HILL HAS GULF LINE.

Report That He Has Got the New Orleans, Mobile & Chicago Road.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—A dispatch from New Orleans announces a rumor there that control of the New Orleans, Mobile & Chicago Railroad has passed from the Frisco to the Hill lines. Concretely, the report takes the form that the Burlington, which connects with the New Orleans, Mobile & Chicago at Metropolis, has acquired the line and will make it the Southern outlet of the powerful Hill system through New Orleans and Mobile.

The line will be rehabilitated, according to the report, and not only built to the Ohio River crossing at the Burlington Bridge at Metropolis, but equipped with rolling stock second to none in the South.

SAY PAYMASTER IS SHORT.

H. T. Hauser of the Buffalo Charged with Being $1,400 Out.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 17.—Charged with being more than $1,400 short in his accounts, Assistant Paymaster H. J. Hauser, U. S. N., of the cruiser Buffalo, which arrived here to-day with a cargo of refugees from Chares Esterobay, is under arrest facing a court martial, when his ship reaches Mare Island Navy Yard, San Francisco.

Hauser has an excellent record in the service. He would make no statement to-day regarding the charges, except to say that all would be explained to the satisfaction of his friends when the time came.

PREACHES UNDER GUARD.

With the Sheriff in the Front Pew, Evangelist Holds a Revival.

MEXICO, Mo., Sept. 17.—Guarded by a Sheriff, who sat in the front row of the church, the Rev. Roy Hudson, an evangelist and former pugilist, held a farewell revival service here to-night. He had been arrested during the day on a charge of wife abandonment at the request of the authorities at Terre Haute, Ind.

The presence of the Sheriff did not in the least dampen the ardor of the evangelist. He has waived extradition and will return to Indiana. He denied that he deserted his wife, and maintains that she deserted him after he had paid a fine assessed against her in court for abusing her children.

ROBBED LINE OF $200,000.

Employment Agents Swindled Hamburg-South America Company.

HAMBURG, Sept. 17.—The Hamburg-South America Steamship Company has been swindled out of $200,000, according to the officials, by employment agents who hired stevedores for the company and systematically made returns for a larger number than actually worked.

Two of the agents have been arrested. It is said that some of the employes of the company are involved, having acted in collusion with the agents.

ARGENTINE BEEF CHEAPER.

It Is Sold at Philadelphia 1 1-2 Cents Below Home Product.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—Two carloads of beef from the Argentine Republic—40,000 to 50,000 pounds in all—arrived in this city to-day in good condition. This consignment was the first to come here in a fight to end the high prices exacted by Chicago packers.

Agents of the consignee said the Argentine beef was of better quality than the grass-fed Texas stock, and that the wholesale price was 1 to 1½ cents lower than for the best American beef. The Argentine beef sold at 12½ cents a pound wholesale, while the best American beef was bringing 14 cents.

If the duty of $1.50 a hundred pounds is removed, the agents say, the Argentine beef can be sold here 3 cents a pound cheaper than American meat.

FLYNN GAINS IN PITTSBURGH

His Candidate for Mayor Beats the Oliver-Penrose Nominee.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Sept. 17.—Congressman Stephen G. Porter, the Magee-Flynn candidate for Mayor, in the non-partisan primary election, yesterday beat his most formidable rival, Joseph G. Armstrong, the Oliver-Penrose candidate, by 281 votes, according to the latest semi-offical returns to-day from all districts. The victory was unexpected, and it is now the prevailing opinion that Mr. Armstrong will not be able to overcome Mr. Porter's advantage in the November election. Mr. Porter's success would signalize the downfall of the Oliver-Penrose factions politically, it is predicted, as well as the political careers of Senators Penrose and Oliver. The Oliver faction has been losing ground on every fight for years.

The whole anti-Oliver ticket, with some few exceptions, polled a tremendous vote throughout the county. In the City Council the factions fared equally, obtaining five nominations apiece.

With the city returning the Flynn candidates to power, they predict that it is only a matter of time for William Flynn, who has been a candidate for the United States Senate for many years, to be chosen for that office. Mr. Flynn will probably try to get the seat of Boies Penrose, whose term expires in March, 1915. The next move will then be to oust Senator Oliver, who will not come up for re-election until 1917.

FIND THIRD FLAT HIRED BY SCHMIDT

Had Begun to Move Crime Evidence—Quit When Girl's Body Was Discovered.

LOVE LETTER TO THE PRIEST

Also, "Dr." Muret's Note for $300 Found at Counterfeiting Plant—"Dentist" Exposed.

WANTED BY LONDON POLICE

Documents Show Him with Many Names and Roles—Once in Mainz, Where Schmidt Lived.

Detectives under Inspector Faurot broke into a flat at 2562 Eighth Avenue yesterday afternoon where Hans Schmidt, the priest at St. Joseph's Church in West 125th Street, had intended to hide the belongings of Anna Aumuller and other evidence that might lead to his detection as the murderer.

The detectives also found in the effects of Ernest Arthur Muret, who called himself a dentist, and is charged with partnership with the priest in a counterfeiting plant at 516 West 134th Street, a number of letters which proved that early in 1911 he had fled to this country from London where he was wanted by Scotland Yard men and that he had since 1911 assumed at least four different names.

A letter from a woman to the priest saying that she could not live without him, was found yesterday afternoon when Detectives Mulligan and Healy opened a small safe in Muret's office at 301 St. Nicholas Avenue, after working for several hours on the combination.

The letter, which was undated, was full of endearing expressions. The signature was "Helen," and this was followed by her telephone number.

The telephone number was found to be that of Hillel Hall at 201 West 100th Street. Detectives learned there last night that apartment 12, which had been named in the letter, had been occupied by a Helen Green, who had left a month ago for Chicago. Inspector Faurot telegraphed last night to Chicago to see if more could be learned about the woman.

Muret's Note to Schmidt.

Several other papers belonging to Schmidt were found in Muret's safe. One was a promissory note given by Muret to Schmidt for $300 in April, 1912.

One was a copy of a letter sent by Schmidt to a priest in South Dakota, asking for a position there. Schmidt wrote:

"Try to do something for me. There are great temptations here that a man has to contend with."

Among other things in the safe the police found a receptacle for holy oil, a book on the Confession and one on the Mass.

Letters were found written to "A. Van Dyke," a name which the priest has assumed, and which was found sewed in the coat he left in the apartment on Bradhurst Avenue after the murder. They were addressed to 124 West Eighty-fourth Street, where the detectives learned last night that the priest had had an apartment on the ground floor. The woman in charge of the premises was out of town last night, and the detectives could only learn that the tenant who had gone by the name of Van Dyke had left some time ago.

In the safe was also found a copy of a letter which Muret had written on Sept. 14 to a very prominent man in this city. The detectives refused to give out the letter, but said that it was an attempt to set up an alibi and showed that Muret anticipated arrest as an accomplice of Schmidt.

Inspector Faurot announced last night that the arrest would take place shortly of another man charged with being a confederate of the priest and Muret. He also said that his men were searching for a woman in the same case.

Schmidt engaged the apartment on Eighth Avenue on Sept. 5 and left there that night a suitcase and a small wicker basket, which were filled chiefly with clothes of Anna Aumuller, including baby clothes on which she was working. The day following, news was published of the finding of part of the torso of the murdered woman in the North River at Woodcliffe, N. J. After that Schmidt never returned to the Eighth Avenue apartment.

All His Apartments "At Present."

A note was sent to Schmidt in his cell in the Tombs last night asking him if Muret had any part in engaging the apartment and if he (Schmidt) had any other apartments undiscovered by the police. The places known to have been rented by Schmidt now number three; they are 68 Bradhurst Avenue, where he murdered and dismembered the woman; at 516 West 134th Street, where he had set up the counterfeiting plant, and the newly discovered place on Eighth Avenue.

Schmidt wrote this reply:

I alone rented that flat in Eighth Avenue. Muret was not associated with me in that.

There are no other flats of mine at present. I used to have a furnished room with Anna. But this is long ago.

HANS SCHMIDT.

When asked what he had rented the apartment for, Schmidt wrote, "It was a storeroom."

A knitted infant's undershirt was found in one of the suitcases with materias cut out and ready to be sewed into infant's dresses. There was a strip of white cloth on which a row of small "A's" was machine embroidered in red, intended to be sewed on garments for identification. This was in an embroidery box with an embroidery hoop of wood. In the hamper was a quantity of lavender cloth which, to all appearances, was to be made into a woman's dress. Under the cloth was a number of clippings from "Apartments to Let" columns of German papers and a photograph of Schmidt wearing a beard and in layman's garb, taken by a photographer in Munich. On the bottom of the hamper were textbooks in German and English which the young woman had been using to better her knowledge of English.

The night before Schmidt engaged the apartment he had scrubbed the floor of the place on Bradhurst Avenue and had burned the stained mattress. His efforts to destroy evidence ceased, however, on Sept. 6, when the first stories of the crime were printed. After that date Schmidt went neither to the apartment on Bradhurst Avenue nor to the one on Eighth Avenue.

Schmidt Traced By Pictures.

The discovery of the third apartment of Schmidt's was made through Miss Frances Blewett, daughter of Policeman George A. Blewett, who lives in the same building. Mrs. Dowd, the superintendent of the building, told Miss Blewett that on Sept. 5 she had rented a five-room apartment on the fourth floor to a man who looked like the pictures of Schmidt. Miss Blewett told her father who notified Detective Brawley of Lieut. Costigan's Strong-Arm Squad. When Inspector Faurot was notified yesterday he ordered the raid.

The finding of the third apartment strengthened Inspector Faurot's conviction that Schmidt was a sane and unusually cunning criminal. Schmidt failed to mention this apartment in his confession, Inspector Faurot believes, because he realized that the caution and foresight shown in his attempt to hide incriminating evidence would be inconsistent with the irrational style of conversation which he has used since his arrest.

Inspector Faurot examined yesterday a number of letters which were unearthed in Muret's apartment at 301 St. Nicholas Avenue by Detectives Mulligan and Haley of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station. It was these which portrayed the pseudo-dentist fleeing from Scotland Yard and assuming false names. Further proof that Muret had at some time been desirous of changing his identity was found in a false mustache and Van Dyke beard, both of an auburn color, which were hidden in his apartment.

The most interesting letters were from a woman who signed herself "Your Wife, Vera Harris." The first was written in May, 1911, and was addressed to "Ernest Muret, General Delivery, General Post Office, New York City, U. S. A." The address of the writer was "Vera Harris, 13 First Street, corner of Walton, Brompton Road, Chelsea, London." After saying she was pleased to hear from Muret now that he was in America and safe at last, she continues:

But oh, my sweetheart, do not be afraid to come back on account of the detectives. They will not know you because, darling, you remember once you had a man patient come to you in Gloucester, because that man, dear, was a detective. He was the one who got you into trouble, because he told mamma all this. He wanted a photograph of you. Of course we did not give him one. Mamma said there was none. He wanted to know how you looked. Mamma, of course, told him that you were rather short and just the opposite of what you really are.

Now, you see, you wear spectacles and all that. The thought that you may not come to me is driving me mad. I would not tell you to come, of course, if it wasn't all right. If anything happened between you and me it would kill me.

Again Sought by Detectives.

Muret is addressed as "My Own Dear Luiu," in another letter which was found without the envelope. One of its passages was:

Now I must tell you all the trouble we were in when you left that Saturday. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon a detective came for you. We gave him your message, that you had gone to France. He said you had not left London, and told me to tell you that you would only be fined five pounds. He went away but came back with more of them and they searched the place up and down. And, oh, your certificates and medals; they have taken them all. I know you will be so sorry. The case was in several papers.

In another place the writer says that she is threatened with consumption and begs Muret to take her over to America with him.

Inspector Faurot had no time yesterday to examine the letters at length, but he gave out the various names and addresses on the envelopes, showing how frequently the pseudo-dentist had altered his name and place of residence.

On June 7, 1909, a letter reached him at Hamburg addressed to "Herr Dr. A. Held, Grindelallie's." On the corner of the envelope was the name of the sender, "G. Lens, Mannheim, Germany."

He was called "Dr. Ernest" in a letter which was sent to him on Dec. 23, 1910, at Preston, England. Another letter that reached him in the same month was addressed to "Dr. Ernst, Messrs. Hugo's Language Institute, Oxford Street, London, W." A letter which left Munich, Germany, on Dec. 30, in the same year, was addressed to "Dr. A. Ernst, 20 Compton Terrace, London."

On an undated letter the address is "Dr. E. Muret, Portland Place, London, W." On Jan. 15, 1911, Muret was "Mr. Ernst, 64-66 Oxford Street, London, W."

A fuller search of the letters revealed how Muret was the "Herr Dr. A. Held" of Hamburg on June 7, 1909. A certificate was found issued to Dr. Arnold Held by the American College of Mechano-Therapy at Chicago on May 14, 1909. The certificate is signed by W. C. Schulze, M. D.; F. S. Tinthoff, Secretary; K. H. Schmidt, D. M. T.; W. H. Bedmund, M. D., and S. J. Tinthorff, Treasurer.

To the certificate was attached the photograph of Muret. Above this was written:

I, the undersigned, do herewith certify that Dr. Arnold Held is personally known to me to be the person living at 476 North Clark Street, in the City of Chicago, and practicing medicine. PAUL WALL,
Notary Public, Cook County, Ill.

Muret Once in Mainz.

Inspector Faurot's theory that Muret and Schmidt are kin, probably brothers, was strengthened yesterday by the discovery at Muret's apartment of a photograph of him taken at Mainz, Germany, where Schmidt was a priest. Schmidt admitted that he had known Muret in Germany, an admission which contradicted the story of Muret that he had first seen Schmidt less than a year ago, when the priest came to him for dental treatment.

Schmidt continued yesterday to assert Muret's innocence in regard both to the counterfeiting and the murder. The priest would see no visitors yesterday, but he wrote answers to most of the inquiries sent up to him by reporters.

A note was sent up telling him that Heim, a School Inspector at Moenschberg, near Schmidt's native place of Aschaffenburg, had committed suicide, and that it was reported that the man, who was a friend and regular correspondent of Schmidt, had killed himself on receiving the news of the priest's crime. Schmidt wrote: "I think this is a mistake."

The next question was whether the report was true that he had sold medicine for unlawful purposes to a woman penitent. His answer was:

"I never sold a thing in the confessional and I never took money from the poor. On the contrary, I gave to the poor freely."

Another note asked if Anna Aumuller knew that he believed in the "blood sacrifice." He replied:

"I told her a few times, but she would not believe me."

Asked if Muret had anything to do with renting the Bradhurst Avenue flat or with the killing of Anna Aumuller, he replied:

"Muret did not have anything to do with that. He did not even know of it. He never saw Anna."

Another note brought the reply:

"Anna knew nothing of my plans to solve the social question by creating money for all the poor people here and abroad."

Federal Warrants for Both.

Warrants for the arrest of Schmidt and Muret for counterfeiting were served yesterday by Capt. J. J. Henry of the New York District of the United States Secret Service, on Warden Fallon of the Tombs. If Muret raises the $5,000 bail, on which he is held for keeping a pistol, he will be promptly rearrested on the heavier charge. Both Muret and Schmidt were questioned at length yesterday by Capt. Henry.

Muret denied knowledge of the counterfeiting plant. Capt. Henry told him that bills in the name of Muret and his alias, George Miller, had been found for every article of the equipment of the plant. Muret's answer was that he had bought these things for Schmidt, but had no idea for what purpose they would be used. What Muret said he had purchased in ignorance included copper plates, engraving tools, bond paper of which counterfeits were partially made, a specially constructed camera suited for the exact reproduction of minute details, the printing press and various kinds of inks.

Questioned by Assistant District Attorney Murphy, Muret said that he had seen little of Schmidt except that the priest had made a practice for several months of coming to his offices to change his religious garb for the clothes of a layman. Their only tie, he said, was a common interest in fine photography.

Muret was asked about the telephone call which the record of his apartment house showed that he had made to the District Attorney's office on Aug. 11. He said that he had been swindled out of $700 in a real estate deal in New Jersey, and that he wanted Mr. Whitman to help him recover his money.

Muret denied that he was an accomplice in the murder of Anna Aumuller, or that he even knew her. Mr. Murphy did not question him about his telephone call to Schmidt on Sept. 6. Later in the Tombs Muret refused to answer the following question sent up in writing to his cell:

"The record of telephone calls at your apartment house shows that you called up Schmidt on Sept. 6. That was the day on which the papers first printed the news of finding a part of the murdered woman's torso. The record of telephone calls also shows that Aug. 1 was the latest date on which you telephoned to Schmidt previous to Sept. 6. Do you care to explain that peculiar coincidence?"

Schmidt told Capt. Henry and Chief William Flynn of the United States Secret Service that six years ago in Germany he had first conceived the plan of counterfeiting and that he had experimented several times before equipping the present plant.

"I have never made a counterfeit that satisfied me," he said. "The nearest that I ever came to it was in making the plate for the $20 gold certificate that was in my trunk at the rectory. That was imperfect. I hoped, though, soon to bring it to success."

Schmidt described in detail all the efforts he had made to perfect counterfeit plates. He said he had done the etching at the dentist's office as well as at the apartment in 134th Street.

"But Muret had nothing to do with it," he said. "In fact, he warned me not to do it, and predicted that I would get into trouble."

Capt. Henry said that Schmidt's talk during a conversation of more than two hours was entirely rational, and that he never lapsed into the manner he has used in the Tombs of claiming inspiration or saintly direction for his acts. Chief William Flynn joined with Capt. Henry in this opinion.

Not a Crazy Man's Plant.

"I have seen crazy men," he said, "who have tried to make counterfeits with pen and ink or a poor set of tools, but I have never known one with the brains to fit up a plant that could turn out high quality imitation money. I have gone over the whole outfit and there is only one flaw in it. The press should have been larger. It makes a 10 by 14 inch impression. That is large enough to print a bill, but a bigger press does better work.

"It seems to be true that no counterfeits were finished at this plant. But it is possible that these men may have been in some other counterfeiting scheme, for they answer the description of the men who have been circulating bad money in Connecticut and Massachusetts. In a few days we are going to bring to New York some of the men who have taken bad bills there, to see if they were passed by Muret or Schmidt.

"I have examined the paper and general type of work that Schmidt's plant could do, and I know that no money turned out by it had been detected and turned over to the Secret Service."

Capt. Henry examined yesterday afternoon the contents of a safety deposit box which Muret had at the Mount Morris Bank Safe Deposit Company, 125th Street and Park Avenue. It contained life and fire insurance policies and correspondence with relatives in Gemany which seemed to have no bearing on the case.

Capt. Henry seized at the counterfeiter's flat 100 negatives which had been used in photographing one, five, ten, and twenty dollar bills. Most of the negatives had been scraped, but on some traces remained which showed them to be reproductions of photographs. A book, "Morgan's Half-Tone and Photo-Mechanical Processes," was found in the flat. No traces of metals were found, but Schmidt admitted, according to Capt. Henry, that he had experimented in making coins.

A squad of harbor police dragged the river with grappling irons yesterday in the vicinity of 152d Street, where it was reported that a fisherman had hauled a heavy object to the surface, which broke away from the hook leaving a wisp of hair upon it. The fisherman reported that he had hauled up the head of a woman.

District Attorney Whitman, who returned yesterday from his vacation, said that Schmidt's trial for murder would probably take place before Judge Foster in Part V. of General Sessions. Mr. Whitman directed his assistants, Deacon Murphy and James A. Delehanty, to find out from Schmidt's counsel whether the defense of insanity would be made. If so, the District Attorney will have the priest examined so that the prosecution will be in a position to meet this plea.

It was reported yesterday that Schmidt had collected last Easter 200 envelopes containing money offerings and kept them for his own use; also that he had picked the pocket of a clergyman visiting at the rectory of $400. Schmidt denied both of these charges, and they could not be confirmed at the rectory.

NOT MURET'S BROTHER.

Father of Schmidt Denies Report—Priest's Friend a Suicide.

ASCHAFFENBURG, Sept. 17.—Regarding the reports from New York that Hans Schmidt, the confessed murderer, and Ernest A. Muret, an alleged counterfeiting accomplice, may possibly be brothers, Schmidt's father said today that he had no other son in America.

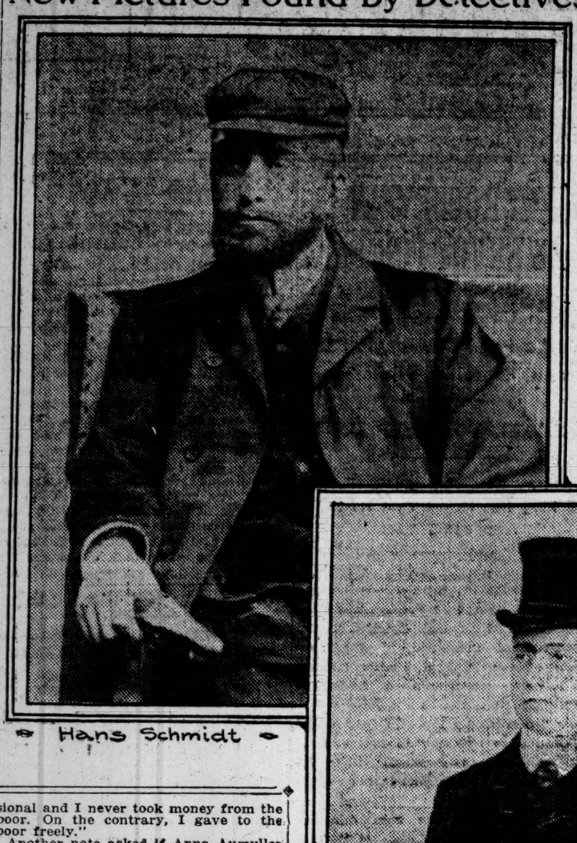
He talked freely of his son's career, and that he was known during his Mainz seminary days as "the mad doctor." He began to show signs of insanity seven years ago, and repeatedly made statements from the pulpit which caused his hearers to laugh loudly.

Schmidt's mother is prostrated by the affair, and is pronounced dangerously ill with heart disease.

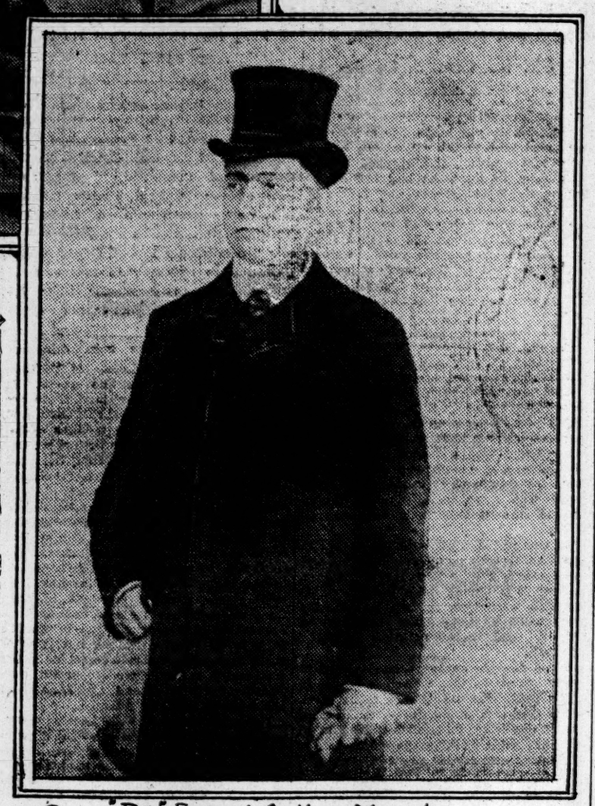
A School Inspector named Heim at Moenchsberg, near here, committed suicide to-day. He is reported to have been a regular correspondent of Father Johannes Schmidt and was considered insane by the villagers.

The authorities here are inclined to believe that Schmidt may have been responsible for the murder of a telephone girl named Haas, whose body was found near her parents' home a few years ago while he was living here.

New Pictures Found by Detectives



Hans Schmidt



"Dr." Ernest Arthur Muret

NOT KNOWN IN CHICAGO.

Physicians and School There Do Not Remember Muret.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Telephone communication with physicians and dentists in the vicinity of 476 North Clark Street, where "Dr." Muret, or Arnold Held, is supposed to have had an office, resulted to-night in a futile search for any one who could recall a man by that name.

Dr. William Schulze, President of the American College of Mechano-Therapy, where Muret is supposed to have obtained a diploma, said to-night that he could not recall him under the name of Held. Dr. William L. Le Boy, a professor in the college for a number of years, said that the name of Held was familiar, but that he could not connect it with any person or incident. He suggested that Held might have obtained his course through the Correspondence Department, which is an extension of the college. A search of the records of the institution will be made.

UP-STATE PRIMARY BALM FOR SULZER

His Friends Point to Results as Showing Growth of Sympathy for Him.

CLOSE FIGHT AT ALBANY

Defeat of Organization Men in Erie and Monroe Counties a Crushing Blow.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 17.—Friends of William Sulzer are greatly encouraged by the results of yesterday's primaries in nearly all the up-state counties. They point to these results as unmistakable evidences of sympathy for him in the impeachment proceedings. The crushing defeat of the Fitzpatrick organization in Erie County and the blow delivered to the anti-Sulzer element in Monroe County are balm to the wounded feelings of the Sulzer followers all over the State.

Here in Albany both Daniel J. Dugan, a Sulzer adherent, and Patrick E. McCabe are claiming a victory, with Dugan having a shade the better of the argument.

The unofficial figures give to each of the leaders 66 committeemen, but McCabe contends that under the cumulative system of voting, as prescribed by the committee's by-laws, he will have 119 ayes to Dugan's 66. Each committeeman, under the by-laws, has one vote for every 100 Democratic votes polled at the last election. The fight yesterday against McCabe's domination came nearer to dethroning him than any that has waged during the past ten years.

Rensselaer County for Sulzer.

Special to The New York Times.

TROY, Sept. 17.—The Democratic primary in Rensselaer County resulted in the renomination of Assemblyman C. Fred Schwarz and Tracey D. Taylor, both of whom voted against the impeachment of Sulzer. The Rensselaer County Democratic organization under the leadership of Joseph J. Murphy, has been on the side of Mr. Sulzer from the start, and the general sentiment through Rensselaer County is in favor of the Governor. As a consequence, there was no contest of any kind at the Tuesday primaries.

Orange County With Sulzer.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Primary elections in Orange County were not affected matrially by the situation at Albany. In the First Orange District, Caleb H. Baumes, Republican, who voted with Sulzer's measures, will not be returned, having declined a renomination. William Doty of the Second District was renominated. He was a Sulzer man. In the local selections Sulzer and anti-Sulzer cut no figure. The sympathy with the mass of the party in the county is with Sulzer.

Crush Sulzer's Foes in Monroe.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, Sept. 17.—Yesterday's primaries resulted in a crushing blow to the anti-Sulzer forces led by State Committeeman Thomas F. Finucane. He lost the First and Second Assembly Districts. The results at large show that the faction backing Mr. Sulzer and led by State Committeeman Buckley and County Chairman Noeth carried practically every election district in Monroe County. Sentiment in this county in Democratic circles always has been strongly in favor of Mr. Sulzer in his fight with Tammany. It is felt that the bitter feeling following the primaries of yesterday will greatly aid the Republican ticket and county ticket. Progressive strength is waning rapidly.

Cayuga in Sulzer Column.

Special to The New York Times.

AUBURN, Sept. 17.—The Democrats and Progressives have fused in Cayuga County on Charles A. Wright, Progressive, for member of the Assembly. He stands on the Sulzer State-wide Primary bill. The Republicans have named Charles A. Springer, who is favorable to the direct primary, but stands on the retention of the State Convention. Wright seems to have the better chances of election. The sentiment in Cayuga County is overwhelmingly pro-Sulzer, the Democratic organization, headed by Thomas M. Osborne, is wholly Sulzer. The Auburn central labor union and most individual unions have adopted resolutions favoring Sulzer and denouncing Tammany. The local Tammany organization, which has opposed the Osborne control in the past, made no appearance in this year's primary and has evaporated. Michael Grace, Republican Assemblyman, desired a renomination, but owing to his vote against the Sulzer bill was persuaded to withdraw in favor of Mr. Springer.

Anti-Tammany Revolt in Erie.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, Sept. 17.—The decisive victory won by the independent Democrats against the organization in the primaries yesterday was taken as an indication of Erie County's revolt against Murphy and Tammany Hall methods, and a pledge of support to Mr. Sulzer. Louis P. Fuhrmann, who won a renomination for Mayor in face of the organization's bitterest attack, was an out-and-out Sulzer man, and the party bosses refused to renominate him because of his attitude on the Direct Primary bill and other Sulzer measures. He carried the city by a vote of two to one, winning in twenty-four of the twenty-seven wards. The independent ticket swept from its path the strongest men the Fitzpatrick organization could line up.

The fact that the labor vote had been directed against Fuhrmann because of the outcome of the recent street car strike indicated that it was the desire to oust the Murphy faction rather than the popularity of the nominee that gave the independents their sweeping victory.

The result of the primary election changes the complexion of the Democratic County Committee. Fitzpatrick is entirely shorn of his power. He controls only about 50 of the 430 committeemen.

Leaders of the Fuhrmann faction said to-night that they construed the vote as a manifestation of the friendliness of the voters toward Mr. Sulzer.

Schenectady All for Sulzer.

SCHENECTADY, Sept. 17.—The Democrats, Republicans and Socialists all nominated strong Sulzer men for the Assembly at yesterday's primaries. Dr. Arthur P. Squires, the present Assemblyman from this county, renominated by the Democrats, voted against accepting the Frawley report and also against the impeachment of Mr. Sulzer. He has been a strong anti-Murphy man since assuming his duties at the capital. Because of the strong anti-Tammany feeling prevailing here, the Republicans also were forced to nominate a Sulzer man in Walter S. McNab. Herbert N. Merrill, the first Socialist who ever sat in the State Legislature, was renominated for the Assembly. In public addresses and previous actions he has shown himself strong against Tammany and a strong admirer of Mr. Sulzer. The district leaders in all three parties are also stanch admirers of Mr. Sulzer.

Small Vote in Herkimer.

Special to The New York Times.

HERKIMER, Sept. 17.—The primaries in Herkimer yesterday resulted in a very small vote, due to the fact that there was no contest in any of the parties. Assemblyman Pullman was not renominated by the Democrats and it was generally understood that he was relieved because of his vote in favor of the Sulzer impeachment. Nothing in the primary result has any bearing on the Murphy-Sulzer contest.

Ontario Favors Sulzer.

Special to The New York Times.

GENEVA, N. Y., Sept. 17.—There was no contests in yesterday's primaries in the Democratic Party in this city. The Salisbury Assembly nominee is for State-wide primaries. The Ontario County Committee probably is inclined toward Sulzer.

Chautauqua for Sulzer.

Special to The New York Times.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 17.—In the Chautauqua County primaries yesterday the Republicans nominated John Leo Sullivan, present member of the Assembly who refused to join in the action for the impeachment of Mr. Sulzer, and A. M. Cheney, who is opposed to the impeachment. The Democrats and Progressives joined in nominating George W. Hughes, present member of the Assembly who refused to go to Albany when the impeachment proceedings were under consideration, and Edward S. Moss, a Sulzer Democrat. The organization in both Democrat and Republican parties is opposed to Tammany.

Oneida Firm for Sulzer.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, Sept. 17.—There was no contest in Democratic primaries in Oneida County yesterday. The Democratic Assemblymen and Senator from this county voted against the impeachment of Mr. Sulzer. That state of affairs is satisfactory to the local members of the pary in this county.

PRIMARIES WORRY MURPHY.

Up-State Against Him—Brooklyn Contests Head of Aldermen.

Early next week, after the funeral of Mayor Gaynor, Tammany Hall will begin its municipal campaign. Democratic headquarters will be opened in the Hotel Martinique and a campaign manager will take charge. Of course, the real campaign will be directed from Tammany Hall, but the various candidates will make a separate fight from the Broadway headquarters.

Tammany has not yet decided upon its plans, but it was said yesterday that once started the fight will be vigorous. Several of the candidates are of the opinion that their attitude should be entirely defensive; that they should let the Fusionists make the attack, and then be ready with answers.

Charles F. Murphy and the other Tammany leaders were worried yesterday over the result of the primaries up State. In sections a strong pro-Sulzer feeling was shown, as was evidenced in the setbacks to the organization in Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, and Albany. Murphy is afraid that the results will have an effect upon the Democratic Senators, and that they will not vote against Mr. Sulzer at the impeachment trial.

Edward E. McCall, the Tammany candidate for Mayor, said he was perfectly satisfied with the result of the primaries in the city. He said he was celebrating the fact that he had been made the Democratic candidate at the polls by smoking a long Havana cigar.

The Democratic County and Borough Committees will meet Friday night at Tammany Hall for reorganization. On Saturday afternoon the Judiciary Committee will meet to select a new Chairman in place of Leslie J. Tompkins. The Congressional Committee will meet on Sept. 22, the Municipal Court Committee on the 23d, the Senatorial Committee on the 24th, and the Assembly and Aldermanic Committees on the 25th.

The Congressional Committee of the Thirteenth Congressional District will meet at 283 Grand Street to nominate a successor to the late Timothy L. Sullivan, and the committee of the Twentieth Congressional District will meet at 208 East 116th Street to select a successor to Francis Burton Harrison. No date has been set for the reorganization of the City Committee.

The Republican borough, judicial, Municipal Court, Senatorial, Aldermanic, and Assembly Committees will meet to-night at the Murray Hill Lyceum to reorganize. On Friday night the Republican City Committee will meet at the same place to elect a successor to John S. McKeon of Brooklyn, the present Chairman.

Tammany is manoeuvring hard to get the control of the Board of Aldermen from the Fusionists by electing Frank L. Dowling, the Tammany floor leader Vice President of the Board in place of Adolph L. Kline, Republican, now Mayor. This would give Tammany three three votes in the Board of Estimate and put Dowling in direct line of succession to the Mayoralty. In the absence or sickness of Mayor Kline, Dowling would be Acting Mayor. As Mayor Kline represented the Fifty-first Brooklyn Aldermanic district in the Board, the Brooklyn Republicans say they have the right to elect not only a successor to Mr. Kline as Alderman, but also to elect a Vice President from that borough. Alderman Dowling insists that there is no vacancy in the Fifty-first Aldermanic district by reason of Mr. Kline's elevation to the Mayoralty; that Mr. Kline is still an Alderman and is just "filling in" as Mayor. The Tammany men are relying on a division among the Fusion Aldermen to help them.

LEADERS ANALYZE THE VOTE.

Murphy Sees No Apathy and Fusion Leaders No Revolt.

Democrats, Republicans and Fusionists expressed themselves yesterday as satisfied with the result of the vote at the primaries on Tuesday. Charles F. Murphy went over the figures turned in by his election district captains, and told his associates that he was satisfied that the enrolled Democrats were going to support the entire Tammany ticket at the November election. Tammany leaders say that Tuesday's vote was normal. They see no indication of apathy.

The Republicans were pleased because the result showed that they had polled more votes than at the primaries in 1912. The Republican vote in Manhattan, with the First, Thirteenth and Twentieth Districts missing, was 14,228. In the thirty-one districts it was 14,658 last year.

The Fusion leaders were pleased because the result proved that neither the Republicans nor the Progressives were split over the selection of John Purroy Mitchel as the Fusion candidate for Mayor. The returns received yesterday showed that only 228 Republicans in Manhattan and the Bronx refused to vote for Mitchel. Their votes were scattered among William R. Willcox, James A. Allen, candidate for Mayor of the Independence League; District Attorney Whitman and Mayor Adolph L. Kline. The same proportion of votes for Mitchel held good in the other boroughs. There will be no official returns from the Board of Elections until to-day, and in their absence Progressive and Independence League leaders would not comment on the result. Moses M. McKee, Secretary of the Board of Elections, said yesterday that returns from about four-fifths of the districts had been received and he expected the revised figures would be ready by 11 o'clock to-day.

against President Andrew Johnson and was the one article of the eleven contained in the indictment against him which came nearest to being sustained by the United States Senate.

Mrs. Sulzer as a Witness.

Persons who had the confidence of Mr. Sulzer declared to-night that not only he, but also Mrs. Sulzer and Louis A. Sarecky, Mr. Sulzer's former confidential secretary, who tok a hand in the administration of the Sulzer campaign fund, would be witnesses for the defense. On Mrs. Sulzer and Mr. Sarecky, it was explained, would fall the burden of clearing away the damaging disclosures made at the hearings before the Frawley Committee and the Board of Managers for the Assembly. These indicated that many thousands of dollars contributed to Mr. Sulzer's campaign fund and not accounted for in the sworn statement Mr. Sulzer filed with the Secretary of State under the Corrupt Practices act had been used for speculation in stocks.

Mrs. Sulzer's testimony, it was predicted, would be along the lines of her alleged "confession," made on the eve of the adoption of the impeachment resolution. In this Mrs. Sulzer is alleged to have declared that she had indorsed her husband's name upon checks sent as campaign contributions and that it was she who really was responsible for their use in the stock transactions.

It was reported to-night that Mr. Sulzer would appear in court only to enter a plea of not guilty and again to receive the verdict. It is the privilege of a respondent in impeachment proceedings to remain absent from the trial and be represented only by counsel. This plan was followed by Andrew Johnson when as President of the United States he was impeached and was acquitted before the United States Senate.

The optimism reflected in statements from Mr. Sulzer's friends is in striking contrast with the views expressed by persons who have been in a position to familiarize themselves with the evidence which will be presented at the trial. Assemblyman Aaron J. Levy of New York, Chairman of the Board of Managers, said to-day that in his opinion Mr. Sulzer would resign before the trial was over, and that certainly he would not take the stand in his own defence. This opinion was echoed by Edgar Truman Brackett, one of the lawyers who are to prosecute Mr. Sulzer.

The trial has been set for noon to-morrow. Edward M. Cullen, Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, who will preside, said to-night that he would do all in his power to expedite the proceedings.

"There will be no unnecessary delay," said Chief Judge Cullen. "We will sit as long and work as hard as Judges do on the circuit. That means that we will sit six hours a day—longer if necessary. The Court of Appeals was to have convened on Sept. 29. Unless the impeachment trial is finished by that time the sittings of the Court of Appeals of necessity will be deferred. We cannot manage both things at the same time."

Chief Judge Cullen was asked if only the seven elected Judges of the Court of Appeals would sit as members of the Court of Impeachment or if the three members who serve on the Court of Appeals bench by designation of the Governor would join their elected colleagues.

"That is a very important question, and one which the Court of Impeachment itself must decide," was his reply. "It will probably be one of the first questions to be taken up by the court after it has organized. No, the Judges of the Court of Appeals have had no conference on the subject, and we do not expect to confer on this or any other matter prior to the meeting of the Impeachment Court to-morrow."

John B. Stanchfield Retained.

Chairman Levy arrived here early to-day to open headquarters for the Board of Managers and to make other preliminary arrangements. He announced that John B. Stanchfield had been added to the array of eminent lawyers retained by the board. These include Alton B. Parker, Edgar Truman Brackett, Eugene Lamb Richards, Isadore J. Kresel, and Hiram B. Todd, the latter a law partner of Mr. Brackett. All were at the Capitol to-night.

The lawyers who are to represent Mr. Sulzer, with the exception of Louis Marshall, were on hand to-night. They include Frederick Austen G. Fox, Harvey D. Hinman and Roger P. Clark. Irving G. Vance of Syracuse, ex-Judge of the Court of Appeals, it was learned to-night, was prevented by illness from attempting to attend the trial as one of counsel for Mr. Sulzer.

Mr. Levy said the Board of Managers might hold further hearings to obtain statements of witnesses, even after the Court of Impeachment had begun work.

"I do not know that it will be necessary," said Mr. Levy, "but if it should be, we have the power to sit and hear testimony. William Sulzer will have a fair trial and, in my opinion, will be fairly convicted. Not only will much of the evidence to be adduced before the High Court of Impeachment come as a surprise to the public, but it will be horrifying and repulsive to a startling point. When the testimony we have has been admitted in the record I judge I will conscientiously be in a position to vote for the acquittal of Mr. Sulzer."

"I am getting tired of all this talk that William Sulzer is being persecuted by Tammany Hall," said Acting President Wagner of the Senate. "Neither Tammany Hall nor any other political organization will sway the result of the impeachment trial. Mr. Sulzer will have an absolutely fair trial. The verdict will be influenced neither by the sentiment of the Senators nor by public opinion. Every Senator will feel as fully the responsibility resting upon him as if he were a Judge of the Court of Appeals."

Ex-Senator Harvey D. Hinman of Binghamton, who was regarded as the spokesman of Gov. Hughes on the floor of the Senate during the second Hughes administration, will be one of the pillars of the Sulzer defense. He reached the capital late last night and had a talk with Mr. Sulzer to-day.

"There has been no general conference of the lawyers for Mr. Sulzer," said the ex-Senator. "So far as I know, none of the counsel for Mr. Sulzer is authorized to speak for him or for the defense at the present stage. We do not intend to try our case in the newspapers, but before the High Court of Impeachment. I do not believe Mr. Sulzer ought to make any statement to the press."

It was learned to-night that Mr. Sulzer's predecessor in the Governor's chair, John A. Dix, would be a spectator at the trial. Mr. Dix, who makes his home at Thomson, Washington County, came to town to-night to attend the opening session to-morrow.

The city is beginning to fill up with visitors, who hope to gain admittance to the Senate gallery, the only space that will be allotted to visitors. The Senate lobbies are to be closed to outsiders.

From the Sulzer camp to-night came no intimation of his defense. There were only surmises. These, in effect, were that his counsel first would attack the validity of the impeachment on the ground that the Assembly had no authority to adopt articles while assembled in extraordinary session; and that efforts would be made to prevent Senators who served on the Frawley committee and those who may be called upon to testify from sitting as judges. If the preliminary objections are overruled—and it is the general opinion to-night that they will be—it is understood that Mr. Sulzer will base his defense upon the claim that, whatever he may have done prior to his inauguration last January, none of his acts while Executive constitutes a high crime or a misdemeanor.

While the opinion was general to-night that the preliminaries of the trial would consume the entire week, preventing the hearing of any testimony until next Monday or later, Chief Judge Cullen took a different view. He said:

"I expect we shall be able to decide the preliminary legal questions that may be raised within a few hours and proceed with the taking of testimony possibly on Friday morning."

Programme for To-Day.

According to present plans Senator Wagner will preside while the roll of Senators is called immediately after the high court is called to order tomorrow noon by Senate Clerk Patrick E. McCabe, acting as clerk of the court. The Court of Appeals Judges will assemble in the court chamber on the third floor. A committee of the Senate will notify the Judges that the Senate is ready to take up the business of the court, and the Judges will then go to the Senate chamber. Chief Judge Cullen will take his place at the presiding Judge's desk and the others of the court will occupy seats in the rear of the Senators.

Clerk McCabe will administer the oath to Judge Cullen, who will then administer the oath to the other members of the court. A set of rules will be presented for adoption. The Board of Managers of the Assembly will then appear and present the articles of impeachment. At this point Mr. Sulzer will be called to present his answer. This will be presented by his lawyers, although it is expected that before it is given the disputed points will be raised by his counsel.

A mass meeting of Sulzer sympathizers was held to-night in a local hall, which was crowded. The members of the committee in charge were made conspicuous by large colored badges on which was printed: "Citizens, on Guard! Treason Must Stop."

The Rev. Herman Hopkins of Albany presided and the speakers included Mayor George R. Lunn of Schenectady, the Rev. Milton D. Platt of Amsterdam, and several local Sulzer supporters. Resolutions were adopted offering Mr. Sulzer sympathy and support and calling upon the voters of the State to oppose members of the Legislature responsible for the impeachment.

LEGISLATURE PASSES BILLS.

Big Attendance in Both Houses—Direct State Tax Provided For.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 17.—The Legislature met to-night after a recess of several weeks. In the Assembly more than two thirds of the 150 members had responded to Acting Governor Glynn's urgent request that everybody attend. In the Senate nearly every seat was occupied. Both Houses will meet to-morrow prior to the meeting of the High Court of Impeachment.

Senate and the Assembly both passed a bill appropriating $75,000 for the expenses in the impeachment trial. In the Assembly the bill, which was recommended in a special message sent to both houses by Acting Governor Glynn, proved a lively debate. The vote in the Assembly stood 82 to 20. A dozen Republicans, Assemblyman Schaap, the Progressive leader, and several Democrats voted against the bill.

Minority Leader Harold J. Hinman, who is a law partner of L. J. Arnold, the Albany publisher, whose paper is looked upon as the Sulzer organ, spoke against the bill.

"Until the Court of Impeachment has determined the legality of the proceedings and the status of Lieutenant Governor Glynn as Acting Governor, we cannot say that his signature as Acting Governor will be valid," said Mr. Hinman. "We should wait until the Court of Impeachment has determined the validity of our proceedings, which probably will be done to-morrow."

The Assembly also passed over the objection of Minority Leader Hinman the bill for levying a direct tax of one-sixth of a mill, which it is expected will net the State Treasury some $9,000,000. Mr. Hinman thought this measure could wait until the Court of Impeachment has determined who was Governor. Mr. Schaap, the Progressive leader, also thought the bill could wait.

"We should pass this bill at once to vindicate the financial integrity and the honor of the State," said Mr. Levy.

"The good Democratic voters of the State did more yesterday to vindicate the honor of the State than anything this Legislature will do, and I expect that they will come nearer to completing that vindication at the election in November," said Mr. Schaap.

The bill was passed 86 to 12, Mr. Sulzer's friends voting in the negative.

The Senate passed a bill abolishing toll bridges across the Erie Canal over Mr. Sulzer's veto and also a bill appropriating $225,000 to reimburse farmers whose diseased cattle or horses have been killed by the State's health inspectors.

FIRST SULZER STEP KNOWN.

Will Oppose Trial as Irregular, It Comes Out in Court Here.

It came out yesterday in the United States District Court that William Sulzer intended to interpose at the beginning of the impeachment trial to-day the plea that the proceedings were irregular. His counsel will argue that as the Assembly voted to impeach the Governor at an extraordinary session, and as such action was not one of those matters for which the Legislature had been specially convened, under the law governing extraordinary sessions the proceedings were irregular.

The probability that this would be the course, which Gov. Sulzer's counsel would pursue, was revealed when the case of the United Fruit Company against the Atlantic Fruit Company was called before Judge Lacombe. Louis Marshall, who had been retained by Mr. Sulzer, was concerned in the case, and an adjournment was asked for on the ground that he was very busy preparing the defense to the impeachment.

Judge Lacombe was informed that unless the motion to dismiss on the ground of irregularity were sustained the impeachment proceedings were likely to take a considerable time. In order to meet the wishes of counsel Judge Lacombe adjourned the hearing until Sept. 27.

BURGLARS PLUNDER CLOSED RESIDENCES

Make Seven Rich Hauls in One Central Park District While Families Are Away.

LOSS $30,000, SAYS FAUROT

Chests of Silver, Vaulable Furs, and Paintings Cut from Frames Are Taken from Wallach Home.

With the return of families from country places to town houses in this city during the last few days reports of burglaries in the exclusive residential section east of Central Park and between Park and Lexington Avenues have multiplied at Police Headquarters. It is believed by Inspector Faurot that most of the burglaries were the work of one set of men.

The heaviest loss so far reported was incurred by Mrs. Karl Wallach, widow of a wealthy construction engineer, whose home is at 130 East Seventy-ninth Street. The fact that her home had been looted did not become known until yesterday, when the butler and two maids returned to the city to prepare the house

TWO EX-PRESIDENTS FOR GAYNOR CORTEGE

According to a wireless message received yesterday from Capt. Charles, the Lusitania, which is bringing the body of Mayor Gaynor to this city, was 804 miles east of Sandy Hook at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. She made 625 miles from noon on Tuesday until noon on Wednesday, and was making 25.7 miles an hour when the message was sent away from the ship. This should bring her to the lightship about 10 o'clock tonight, where the body will be taken off by the steamboat Correction, belonging to the Department of Charities and Correction.

Thomas W. Churchill, President of the Board of Education, and William H. Maxwell, City Superintendent, ordered all principals yesterday to conduct appropriate exercises in the schools on Monday morning. These exercises will consist of the reading of a passage from the Bible, the singing of a suitable hymn, as "Nearer, My God, to Thee" or "Abide With Me"; the reading or recitation of literary excerpts illustrative of ideals of personal and civic virtue, and an address setting forth the most striking features of Mayor Gaynor's life and character. The exercises will begin at 11 A. M. and will last about half an hour. The pupils will then be dismissed until the afternoon session.

Police Commissioner Waldo announced yesterday the official police detail to attend the funeral. This will be exclusive of the police who will be assigned to duty at the City Hall and at Trinity Church, and will consist of one regiment of infantry and one squadron of cavalry. The infantry will be divided into four battalions of four companies each, each company to consist on one hundred men. Inspector John F. Dwyer will command the infantry. The cavalry squadron will consist of four troops of one hundred men each and will be in command of Inspector Thomas Myers, who will also have a staff.

The Sinking Fund Commissioners met in the Board of Estimate room at the City Hall yesterday and adopted appropriate resolutions offered by Controller Prendergast on Mr. Gaynor's death.

The Board of Directors of the Merchants' Association at a special meeting yesterday adopted resolutions upon the death of the Mayor. These set forth that he was elected to office at a time when the city was confronted by heavy problems, that he faced these with courage, intelligence and a grasp of understanding which entitled him to rank high among the great administrators of his day. Philip Block, Chief Clerk of the Board of City Magistrates, announced yesterday that the Magistrates Courts would be closed on Monday between the hours of 10 A. M. and 2 P. M.

After a meeting lasting three hours last night the committee appointed by Mayor Kline to make arrangements for the funeral of Mayor Gaynor found that so many aplications for cards of admission to Trinity Church had been received that further arrangements would have to be made. It was decided to allow all organizations who have requested tickets to act as an escorting procession. The committee issued this statement:

Sept. 17, 1913.

To the Public—Owing to the limited capacity of Trinity Church, the Committee on Arrangements for the funeral of the late Mayor Gaynor, has found it to be impossible to accommodate more than a small proportion of those who have already applied for cards of admission to the church services. A great number of civic and other organizations have signified a desire to participate in some appropriate manner in the funeral ceremonies. Many of these organizations have suggested that an opportunity be afforded to the citizens to pay fitting tribute to the late Mayor's memory by uniting in a procession of escort to accompany the remains from the City Hall to Trinity Church, and thence, after the brief services there, to the Borough Hall in Brooklyn.

This committee at a meeting held this (Wednesday) evening, at which all the communications from organizations and individuals were considered, resolved to approve the suggestion for a citizens' procession as outlined above. It is therefore requested that those organizations desiring so to participate send their names, together with the number of their representatives, to Robert Adamson at the City Hall at the earliest possible moment, in order that suitable places in the line may be assigned. This plan the committee has found necessary in order to meet the widespread desire of all the citizens of New York to share in some way in the city's final tribute to its late Mayor.

R. A. C. Smith, Chairman; Robert Adamson, Robert W. De Forest, A. R. Watson, R. Waldo, Arthur J. O'Keeffe, Henry S. Thompson, and Thomas W. Churchill.

The committee also appointed these Deputy Commissioners and other city officials to act as ushers at the church: Douglas I. McKay, Henry W. Newburger, George W. Olvany, Charles J. Farley, Philip Fraley, Richard C. Harrison, Thomas L. Fogarty, W. A. Ross, Julian F. Scott, Edward J. McGoldrick, Louis Hahlo, Terence Farley, J. W. F. Bennett, Frederick T. Parsons, George M. Curtis, Jr., David Ferguson, Leo Arnstein, Tilden Adamson. Flags on all the Federal buildings in New York City will be lowered to half mast beginning to-day and remain until the day of Mayor Gaynor's funeral, by order of Secretary McAdoo.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 17.—The Senate at its session to-night passed resolutions on the death of Mayor Gaynor and "Big Tim" Sullivan. The Gaynor resolution was introduced by Senator James J. Foley who represents Tammany Leader Murphy's home district in the Upper House.

Senator Foley's was the only speech in support of the Gaynor resolution. Several Senators eulogized "Big Tim." Both the Gaynor resolution and that in honor of "Big Tim's" memory, which was introduced by Senator Christopher D. Sullivan, were adopted by a rising vote.

The Assembly adopted similar resolutions and a committee of fifteen Assemblymen were named by Speaker Smith to attend Mayor Gaynor's funeral.

NEGROES MOURN FOR GAYNOR.

Their Spokesman Says the Dead Mayor Did Much for Them.

Acting on the suggestions of many negro citizens of New York, Cleveland G. Allen issued a statement yesterday expressing the deep regret which the negroes of the city feel at the death of Mayor Gaynor.

"The Mayor was always especially friendly toward the colored men," said Mr. Allen, "showing his goodwill toward them by giving them representation on all public Reception Committees. Mayor Gaynor was also much interested in a colored school in the South, the Jenkins Orphanage at Charleston, S. C., and at a meeting of the school recently held in the city he was to have spoken, but was prevented from doing so by ill-health. For his many courtesies to them, the colored people of New York are mourning the dead Mayor."

HUNT SENDER OF OTIS BOMB

Dynamite Itself May Afford a Clue to Editor's Enemy.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 17.—"The mail that carried the bomb to the home of Gen. Harrison Gray Otis may bring a clue to the perpetrator of the crime," said Chief of Police Sebastian to-day. "Every big crime is followed by a flood of crank letters and I am looking for something definite today or to-morrow through the mail"

Gen. Otis refused to-day to offer a reward or make a compromise with the dynamiters.

"This man," he said, "must be hunted down on the merits of the case. He will not escape, for such men are always captured, and I have every confidence in the ability of the local police and the Federal sleuths."

Chief Sebastian, Postmaster Harrison, and the Federal authorities are trying to trace the criminal by the clues afforded by the explosive itself, the wrappings and handwriting on the package, and the fact that it was mailed in the downtown section and carried to Postal Station C.

"We shall probably locate the sender of this bomb," said Chief Sebastian today. "If it was sent by an insane individual, with a fancied grievance against Gen. Otis, he will be arrested soon. If it was mailed by a band of conspirators, it will be more difficult to detect them."

The Federal officers put some credence in the theory that the dynamiter was a sympathizer with the McNamaras, now in San Quentin for the previous attempt on the life of the General, and the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times Building.

The dynamite itself may aid the investigation. It contained 85 per cent. of nitro-glycerine, although the legal limit for explosives in Los Angeles County is 40 per cent. The police are inquiring what purchases of 85 per cent. dynamite have been made recently at the powder factories.

SUFFRAGISTS A BABY OVER.

Anti-Suffragist Mother Left It in Their Tent and Didn't Come Back.

Special to The New York Times.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Sept. 17.—The opening day of the Women's Political Union tent for babies at the Suffolk County Fair has proved to be a lively one, and the suffragists are placed in an unexpected dilemma.

A woman of strong anti-suffrage sentiments deposited a small boy at 10 A. M. to-day, and received Tag 27, which should have been Tag 23, in exchange.

When the fair closed the small boy was still contentedly playing with the toys, but his mamma had not turned up. A council of war was called and the authorities notified. As there is no matron at the jail, the suffragists still have him, greatly to the relief of the bachelor jail keeper.

Fully a hundred women availed themselves of the suffragist tent. Pandemonium reigned. Small children cried when left there, and then, after playing with toys under Miss Katherine Taylor's guidance, cried again when taken away.

Babies yelled for their dinners and kept Miss Mary Thornton on the run. The clergymen of Riverhead spontaneously made appeals last Sunday for funds for carrying on the commendable work of the tent. Storekeepers gave generously. The wife of Judge Griffing contributed blankets and furniture. Mrs. Anna Ostrander, the largest taxpayer in Riverhead, is Chairman of the committee.

Mrs. Harriat Stanton Blatch, President of the Women's Professional Union; Mrs. Thomas L. Manson, and Miss Katherine Taylor spoke to large crowds to-day in spite of rfequent interruptions by discontented babies. The fair continues to-morrow and Friday, and the suffragists hope that by that time the anti-suffrage mother will call for her baby boy.

GO TO PRISON UNGUARDED.

Twenty-two, Near Parole, Return to Great Meadow Unaccompanied.

Special to The New York Times.

HUDSON FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Eight convicts who had been working at the State farm at Valatie arrived at Great Meadow Prison at Comstock this evening. These men had been at Valatie since July. John H. Maley, agen of the farm, came with them as far as Albany. The men traveled the rest of the way alone.

On the same train were fourteen men who were sent from Great Meadow to Wingdale early in July to work on the new prison site. These men were unaccompanied. They traveled by the Harlem Division of the New York Central to Chatham, thence by the Boston & Albany to Albany and north to Great Meadow by the Delaware & Hudson.

Warden H. J. Homer of Great Meadow said to-night that he was highly gratified over the result of the experiment of permitting these convicts to return unguarded. The men, he said, were all glad to get home. The prisoners are all men whose terms will expire shortly, and who are eligible for parole. They will appear before the Parole Board in a few days.

This was said to be the first time in the history of prison administration in the United States that so large a body of prisoners traveled unaccompanied by guards.

Hetch Hetchy Vote Sept. 24.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Senate Public Lands Committee to-day agreed to take a final vote next Wednesday upon the bill to permit San Francisco to use part of the Hetch Hetchy Valley as a reservoir for its water supply system.

MEXICO MAY ASK HAGUE TO BAR SHIPS

Rumor That Huerta Would Invoke a Judgment on Our Vessels' Presence.

ANOTHER AMERICAN SLAIN

Mining Engineer Slain in Sinaloa—Washington to Await Election Results.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—The general feeling here in business and social circles was much improved to-day, and there were many evidences of strong confidence in the Government of President Huerta. The persistent humors, circulated previous to the Independence Day celebrations, of possible trouble, gave rise to great business uncertainty, but the fact that nothing happened and that the celebration was the most orderly cince Porfirio Diaz left was taken as an indication that Huerta was strong enough to handle any attempted uprising.

The President's message to Congress was favorably commented on here today and met the general approval of thepoliticians, who believe he can control Congress.

Reported statements by Secretary Bryan regarding the presence of United States warships in Mexican waters are not commented on by Mexican officials, who indicate, however, that the United States would be unable to retain the ships here under international law unless the beligerency of the rebels was recognized and the country was in a recognized state of war.

It was intimated to-day that possibly Mexico might take the question to the Hague court if Washington insists upon retaining the warships here.

It is stated here that if European bankers allow their options to lapse on the new Government bonds they could easily be floated in local markets. The Government is said to have recently obtained sufficient money to provide for expenses for some months to come and to meet all impending obligations and make payments on ammunition and new war materials already ordered.

Officials call attention to statements made in the United States that the coming elections could not be held while the country was in disorder, and point out that the electoral law merely says the elections would not be legal unless a majority of the electoral districts turned in legal returns. In such an event Congress would act, declare the elections invalid, and call for new elections.

LIND GIVES A BANQUET.

Entertains Officers of American Warships at Vera Cruz.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 17.—John Lind, the special envoy from President Wilson, refuses to comment on Provisional President Huerta's message, saying the matter is solely up to Washington. Mr. Lind gave a banquet tonight to Admiral Fletcher and the ranking officers of the American warships. J. N. Galbraith, Consul Canada, and the local military commander, Gen. Maas, attended.

Gen. Maas, at the end of the dinner, speaking to a friend, expressed pleasure at attending and congratulated Mr. Lind as a modern diplomat.

WILL WAIT FOR ELECTIONS.

Washington Unlikely to Make Further Mexican Move Before Oct. 26.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Until after the Mexican elections of Oct. 26 the Administration is not likely to make any further move. Officials, who read President Huerta's message to the Mexican Congress, found nothing in that document to make necessary any change in the present plans and little to comment upon except the reference to the expiration of the time granted to American warships to remain in Mexican waters.

Upon this point it was made apparent to-day that unless officials changed their minds Ameri acnwarships would be kept in Mexican waters for the protection of United States citizens and their interests even if Huerta carries out the implied threat contained in his message not to renew the permission for warships to remain at Vera Cruz and other ports.

Curiously enough no official to-day could recall that any permission for vessels of war to remain in Mexican waters had been asked for or obtained by this Government.

Secretary Daniels said he had never been informed that such authorization was required or that it had been granted.

One circumstance that brings an element of humor into the situation is that, owing to the shallow water there, the battleships now at Vera Cruz and Tampico are compelled to anchor out more than three miles from shore, and are therefore on the high seas where no law of Mexico can possibly apply to them.

Secretary Bryan sent a cablegram to John Lind at Vera Cruz advising him of the Government's view of the Huerta message, but the contents of the dispatch were not disclosed.

In some quarters here there is a strong disposition to doubt whether there will be a constitutional election in Mexico on Oct. 26. Constitutionalist representatives point out that with the election day only about a month away, nobody knows who the candidates are or what their platforms will say.

No Immediate Recognition.

It is said to be probable, however, that no matter who is elected the Washington Government will hold aloof for some time until it is convinced that stability and peace have been accomplished and that the choice of an Executive is approved by the Mexican people.

The identity of Morri Root, manager of the El Tigre Mining Company, who was killed in Tepic week before last by bandits, was established to-day by a letter from his brother, R. Morgan Root, who lives at Pottstown, Penn.

Consul Aiger at Mazatlan sent a dispatch to the State Department to-day saying that the bandits were known and that government troops were in pursuit of them. Secretary Bryan sent a dispatch to-day to Nelson O'Shaughnessy, Charge at Mexico City, to demand the arrest of the murderers and their punishment without delay.

WANT PROPERTY PROTECTED.

Refugees Say United States Should Look After Deserted Homes.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 17.—A statement setting forth their reasons for leaving Mexico, was issued to-day by 139 American refuges, who arrived here aboard the cruiser Buffalo from the west coast of Mexico this morning. The refugees, most of them destitute, were landed here, the ship proceeding to San Francisco.

The statement said in part:

No uneasiness was felt by the American residents until Consul Vail, located at Guaymas, Sonora, personally visited the Yaqui Valley on Sept. 6, accompanied by Lieut. J. R. Henley of the United States Marines, and exhibited a telegram, signed by Secretary of State Bryan, which stated that the President earnestly urged all Americans to leave Mexico and that the Buffalo was then waiting at Salinas to embark all those desiring to leave.

Relying entirely upon these representations, we have abandoned our homes, together with real and personal property of greater or lesser value.

While the continued disturbed conditions paralyzed business generally and made it impossible to realize returns upon any crops, thereby creating temporary financial embarrassment, nothing in the attitude of either of the contending parties made the situation any particular menace to our lives or property.

We have left Mexico entirely under the urgency of the United States Government, feeling that it had complete knowledge of the situation throughout the Republic of Mexico, and not desiring to in any way embarrass our Government, we have complied promptly with its request to leave Mexico, thereby suffering substantial financial loss, and we also feel that we are, therefore, justified and are relying upon the United States Government to protect our Mexican interests now and in the future.

An extreme case among the refugees was that of J. J. Donovan and family. They hid in the brush many times from rebel bands and arrived in Guaymas destitute.

ANOTHER AMERICAN KILLED.

William Robertson Slain by Rebel Leader for Not Giving Up Arms.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—William O. Roberts, an American mining man, was killed by rebels at El Lobo, in eastern Sinaloa, Sept. 10, according to advices which have just reached the capital. Roberts left Durango on Sept. 3 by the overland route for Mazatlan.

Jesus Madrigal, leader of the rebels in that section, in a signed statement to the American Consul at Durango, said that he killed Roberts because the American refused to give up his arms.

Fifty American refugees from Durango are reported to have reached Zacatecas in safety.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The State Department received to-day from members of the family of William O. Roberts, an Aerican mining manager in Sinaloa, Mexico, news of his death at the hands of a band of rebels while he was making a short trip inland in Sinaloa. There are no details of the affair, but it is supposed that Roberts was killed on Sept. 10.

The United States Consul at Mazatlan, William E. Alger, has been directed to make every possible effort to ascertain the facts.

PULL DOWN MEXICAN FLAGS.

United States Soldiers Resent Form of Celebration on American Side.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 17.—United States soldiers yesterday hauled down several Mexican flags at a Mexican Independence Day celebration about forty miles from here on the American side of the border. The Mexicans then raised an American flag.

Residents of Pharr, Texas, also pulled down Mexican flags until the Mexicans raised one American flag.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Sept. 17.—Clarence Reese, a constable of Pirtleville, Ariz., and Young Davis were under arrest today in connection with the Mexican flag incident at Pirtleville yesterday when the Americans pulled down a Mexican Independence Day emblem and were threatened with mob violence.

The men made their escape from infuriated Mexicans and later were arrested on a warrant charging them with malicious mischief.

TREVINO MILITARY CHIEF.

General Mentioned as Huerta's Successor Gets Important Appointment.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—Gen. Geronimo Trevino, former commander of the Monterey military zone, was to-day appointed Chief of the Military Supreme Court, the permanent military tribunal. His arrival in the Mexican capital recently gave rise to reports that he had come for the purpose of succeeding Provisional President Huerta in the chief magistracy of the republic.

José Maria Lozano, Minister of Public Instruction, at the same time was appointed Minister of Communications and Public Works, succeeding Col. David de la Fuente, who has been raised to the rank of Brigadier General, and is to proceed to the State of Sinaloa as Governor.

Adopt Our Gold Dollar as Standard.

EAGLE PASS, Texas, Sept. 17.—The American gold dollar was to-day by decree made the basis of financial operations in Constitutionalist territory. The decree, issued at Piedras Negras, resulted from confidential advices alleged to concern reserve funds now held by the Banco Nacional de Mexico as security for the issue of paper money. By another decree to-day a tax of $1, American, was levied by the Constitutionalists against all persons of whatever nationality crossing the International Bridge here.

CAUGHT IN HOISTING CHAIN.

Two Workmen Carried Aloft and Hurt in Long Island City.

Peter Dominic of 235 Potter Avenue, Astoria, a workman employed in building the walls which are to carry the tracks of the New York Connecting Railway through Long Island City, was superintending the hoisting of the bucket used to lift the concrete to the mold fifty feet above the ground when, late yesterday afternoon, his arm caught in the chain of the hoisting machine and he was carried off the ground. His cries brought other workmen toward him and one of them, John Brady, in reaching out to help Dominic, was himself caught in the chain and he, too, was lifted high into the air.

Both men freed themselves before the engine stopped and dropped to the ground, but Dominic's arm was crushed and his scalp torn off, and Brady suffered internal injuries. Both men were taken to St. John's Hospital, where Dominic's condition was considered grave. Brady, who lives at 56 Huron Street, Greenpoint, will probably recover.

NOT THE RECORDS THAT LIED

Mrs. McGowan's Defense was Consistent, Though Hard to Maintain.

When Mrs. Mary McGowan of 585 First Avenue, arrested on Tuesday for intoxication, was confronted in the Yorkville Court with a finger print record that pointed to two previous arrests for the same offense, her defense was simple. She said the records lied and she said it with such earnestness that Magistrate Schulz put the case over until yesterday morning when the two policemen were produced, Patrolman Fitzpatrick to say that he had seen her sentenced to five days in jail in July and Patrolman McCormick to say that he had seen her get ten days in August. What did Mrs. McGowan have to say to that?

"Why, your Honor," said Mrs. McGowan stoutly, "the finger-print man lies and his records lie and these two cops are also liars."

"Thirty days," said the Magistrate.

TARIFF AND MONEY BILLS NEAR PASSAGE

Progress of Measures Toward Enactment Signalizes Triumph for Wilson Regime.

GOLD STANDARD AFFIRMED

House Passes Currency Bill To-day —Simmons Expects Tariff Measure from Conference To-morrow.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—It was apparent to-night that the Wilson Administration's legislative programme is meeting with marked success. The Currency bill will be passed by the House of Representatives to-morrow and the Democratic Senators have agreed that it will be taken up in their chamber without delay and enacted into law at the present extra session.

The Tariff bill has been passed by both Houses, and the Conference Committee, which is engaged in adjusting the differences between House and Senate, is expected to report next week, though Senator Simmons says he hopes the measure will come out of conference on Friday morning.

From present prospects the tariff act will be on the statute books before Oct. 1, and if the confident predictions of Administration officials and leaders in Congress are realized the currency measure will become a law before the regular legislative session is begun in December.

Adherence to the gold standard was reaffirmed to-night by the House of Representatives through the adoption of an amendment to the Glass Currency bill. It was said in the debate that Secretary Bryan was in favor of the amendment and that it was understood that it had the approval of President Wilson.

Earlier in the day Representative Fess of Ohio, a Republican, had offered an amendment to the measure to provide that the gold standard established by the act of March 14, 1900, should not be repealed by anything in the Glass bill. In the debate the Democratic leaders were twitted by Republicans, who contended that the currency measure would impair the gold standard and compel the American workingman to accept his pay in depreciated currency. So the Democratic members of the Banking and Currency Committee submitted an amendment to-night to overcome this criticism. It was adopted after a spirited debate by 104 yeas to 38 nays.

The gold standard amendment reads:

Provided that nothing in this act contained shall be construed to repeal the parity provision or provisions contained in an act approved March 14, 1900, entitled an act to define and fix the standard of values, to maintain the parity of all forms of money issued or coined by the United States to refund the public debt and for other purposes.

The amendment was opposed by Democratic representatives among them Murray of Oklahoma, Crisp of Georgia, Wingo of Arkansas, and Witherspoon of Mississippi.

Mr. Wingo, who is a member of the Banking and Currency Committee, said he would demand a separate vote on the amendment when the bill came before the House for passage to-morrow. It was Mr. Wingo who asserted that he understood President Wilson wanted it although he (Mr. Wingo) was not authoritatively informed on the subject, and that he knew that Secretary Bryan favored it.

The previous question on the bill and amendments was ordered to-night and the measure will be placed on its final passage at noon to-morrow.

In order to complete the detailed consideration of the measure and leave nothing but the formal vote to be made, the House sat to-night and concluded the voting on proposed amendments. No material changes were made in the bill.

Republicans and Progressives concentrated their fight on amendments offered to the note issue which the Democrats disposed of with a chorus of "Noes," monotonously repeated. At one time sixteen amendments proposed from the minority side of the aisle were voted down in rapid succession.

The attack was directed principally on the provision making Government obligations of the Federal reserve notes proposed to be issued through the Federal reserve banks. The Republicans contended that this and another provision making the notes payable in "gold and lawful money" were a return to "greenbackism," and that Secretary Bryan had written into the bill the monetary theories "for which he has contended since 1896."

The committee proposed and the House wrote into the bill an amendment prohibiting Federal reserve banks from effecting loan transactions other than with the Government. This change was made to prevent the Federal reserve banks from engaging in a commercial business in competition with the member banks, which are forced to supply the capital upon which the reserve banks will operate.

No obstructive tactics were resorted to by the opposition, and the reading of the measure for amendment went along smoothly. A recess was taken before the evening session in order to allow the Banking and Currency Committee to perfect certain minor amendments to be offered to perfect the phraseology of the bill.

Problems of note issue and questions of whether the Government or the banks should control the issue of paper currency occupied much of the attention of the Senate Committee during its hearing on the Currency bill to-day, when William H. Berry, Collector of Customs at Philadelphia; John Claflin of New York, and Prof. O. M. W. Sprague of Harvard University were heard.

Prof. Sprague indorsed the general principles of the bill introduced by Senator Shafroth, which would provide for a general issue of Federal currency to replace all paper money now outstanding, including the national bank notes, the Government taking over the bonds and holding them as part security for the currency.

Mr. Claflin told the committee that he was not so much opposed to the pending bill as he was afraid of the transition period in which it would first be put into operation. His most pointed suggestion for amendment was that the proposed notes be issued on the credit of the regional reserve banks, and not on the faith of the Government. This suggestion was in harmony with arguments made by the Legislative Committee of the National Bankers' Association.

Mr. Berry suggested that additional credit might be created if the Government would buy back its own bonds, and pay for them with legal tender notes, which might be used for bank reserves, a service that national bank notes were not allowed to perform.

TARIFF REPORT TO-MORROW.

Simmons Expects Bill from Conference Then—Free List Through.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—At the conclusion of to-day's session of the Tariff Conference Committee, Senator Simmons of North Carolina, Chairman of the Committee on Finance, said that he hoped the bill would be completed in time for the conference report to be made to the two Houses on Friday morning. While others doubt that the report can be made so soon, the committee has made the usual speed in adjusting differences. The free list was finished to-day, with the exception of a few paragraphs, and the items passed over in the chemical schedule, the earthenware and glass schedule, and half the metal schedule were finally agreed to.

For several days past the lobby in front of the Finance Committee room, where the conferees meet, have been filled with representatives of parties interested. To-day ex-Representative Littauer of Gloversville, N. Y., was among those present. Mr. Littauer is interested in gloves.

The Democratic conferees decided not to make public any further agreements until the conference work was completed. Publication of agreements the last few days has brought many demands upon the conferees for the reopening of certain schedules, and they have determined hereafter to maintain silence.

The paragraphs in the free list still to be adjusted relate to art, wheat, flour, burlaps, and a provision for meat inspection. The most serious difficulty is over the countervailing duty on wheat. In the first half of the metal schedule all differences were settled except the rate to be imposed on ferromanganese, if the Senate amendment free-listing it is rejected.

The Senate amendment placing photographic and moving picture films, sensitized, but not exposed or developed, on the free list, was accepted by the House managers, the Secretary of the Treasury having the power to censor all imported films. The House rate of 15 per cent. on cameras and dry plates was retained, while reductions were made in the rate on exposed moving picture films.

The conferees agreed to leave pig iron on the free list, where the Senate put it. A compromise was effected on the automobile schedule, by which the low rates fixed by the law were increased slightly, and an agreement was reached on the glove schedule, reducing somewhat the increases in rates made by the Senate.

Secretary McAdoo began preparations to enforce the new tariff law immediately upon enactment. He has instructed Collectors of Customs to continue to assess estimated duties on importations at the rates of the existing law, and to suspend liquidation of the entries until the receipt of the official copy of the new tariff act. This follows the custom of former years.

As soon as President Wilson signs the bill, the Secretary will notify all Collectors by telegraph that the tariff act of 1913 is the law of the land. While they will continue to make appraisals and assessments under the old law, this notification will serve to suspend final payment of duties until a copy of the new law is received. In this way, it is pointed out, there will be no interruption of the entry of importations and at the same time the payment of correct duties will be guaranteed.

The new law will require a sweeping revision of customs regulations. The Secretary will continue all existing rules where practicable. It will require several weeks to promulgate all the necessary changes.

Plans for an adjournment of the House for a month or longer after the currency and tariff bills are disposed of were under consideration to-day by House and Senate leaders. It is expected that the Senate will be engaged on the currency bill for many weeks, while the House would have nothing of importance before it.

WANTS BANKERS CONSULTED.

Reynolds for Federal Board Admitting One or Two to Meetings.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—George M. Reynolds, President of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, and a member of the Bankers' Committee which recently conferred with the United States Senate Committee concerning the provisions of the Currency bill now before Congress, to which the bankers are opposed, said to-day that he had strong reasons for believing that the measure would be materially modified.

Mr. Reynolds suggested tentatively a compromise on the question of bankers' representation on the Federal Reserve Board, explaining that his proposal was a personal one and did not necessarily represent the views of other bankers.

"There is provided now," he said, "an Advisory Committee consisting of one member from each Federal reserve bank. If our suggestion is adopted that the number of Federal reserve banks be limited to five, this committee would have five members.

"I would suggest that one or possibly two members be permitted to attend the meetings of the Federal Reserve Board, in order to keep their committee informed, and that, on three or four specified matters of the first importance, the Reserve Board be required to obtain the consent of a minority of the Advisory Committee.

"On any proposal of reasonable soundness, I believe the board would have no difficulty in procuring the sanction of two out of five members of the Advisory Committee, but if they sought to do one of the wild-eyed things we fear most, I do not believe they would be able to gain the consent of any trained bankers. It simply would be a safety check against dangerous policies!"

WOULD CHANGE TAX ON ALIENS

Untermyer Wants Income Levy Modified for Foreign Bondholders.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Samuel Untermyer of New York has written a letter to Representative Oscar Underwood, Democratic House leader, urging a change in the income tax provision of the Tariff bill affecting the levy on bonds held by non-resident aliens. He writes in part:

"The bill in its present form will require every European and other non-resident alien holder of our bonds to pay the normal tax unless he makes return showing that his income is less than $3,000. It is doubtful whether he will not also be required to pay the surtax if his income from securities in this country is over $20,000.

"The large foreign investors and dealers in American securities are very much wrought up over this question. I had the opportunity of discussing it with some of the men who have placed many millions of our securities abroad, and it is the consensus of opinion that this requirement of the bill will seriously impair—if not largely destroy—our ability to place American bonds in Europe.

"As an academic question of abstract justice, there is no reason why the foreigner should be relieved from the payment of this tax that is required of a resident. The question is as to the wisdom and advisability of such action.

"I am aware of the fact that the English Income Tax law imposes the same tax, but Great Britain does not have to find a market for her bonds in foreign countries. She is distinctly a creditor nation, while we cannot now, and will not be able for many years to come, develop the vast resources of our country without the aid of foreign capital.

"Our securities are, as you know, scattered all over Europe in small holdings. The requirement that in order to secure exemption from this tax the individual shall file a return, claiming the exemption within thirty days after the tax is levied, is physically impossible of performance so far as concerns European investors."

LITTLE ONES AT LYNDHURST

350 of Them at Mrs. Finley J. Shepard's Japanese Party.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, in a Japanese costume, welcomed this afternoon 350 little girls of her sewing class at a party which she gave in their honor at Lyndhurst. She was assisted by Mrs. Edwin Gould, the Misses Marjorie and Helen Gould and Master Edwin Gould, Jr. They also wore Japanese costumes. The entertainment was provided in tents and consisted of a lecture on Japan and tricks by several magicians. Afterward all marched to a large tent which was gayly decorated and where refreshments were served. Each child also received a box of candy and a Japanese flag or umbrella.

This was the first party given by Mrs. Shepard since her marriage.

ALL CONCORD OUT TO GAZE AT THAW

Throngs Cheer Him at Stations on the Way—One Woman Tries to Kiss His Hand.

PUT HIM IN "THRONE" ROOM

He Occupies Presidential Apartment Made Famous by Winston Churchill.

Special to The New York Times.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 17.—Harry Kendall Thaw is a Federal prisoner tonight in the "throne" room at the Eagle Hotel, the room made famous by Winston Churchill in his novel "Conliston," and which has been occupied by four ex-Presidents of the United States, Pierce, Hayes, Roosevelt, and Taft.

It was from this room, according to Mr. Churchill, that Jethro Bass, boss of the State, ran the politics of New Hampshire to suit his will, calling before him Governors, Senators, and other leaders of lesser importance. In this room Mr. Roosevelt once gave a dinner to a gathering of his friends, and Mr. Taft welcomed the political leaders of the State, when he came here to speak on the question of reciprocity. William Jennings Bryan held a council of war there when he spoke in Concord during the campaign of 1900.

Thaw has No. 7, the main room of the suite on the second floor, as a parlor, and a smaller room has been provided for his bedroom. Rooms 1 and 2, where, according to Mr. Churchill, politicians waited until ushered into the presence of Jethro Bass, have been reserved for Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, who is expected here on Saturday. Other rooms which adjoin Thaw's have been assigned to ex-Gov. Stone of Pennsylvania, United States Marshal Nute, and Sheriff Drew.

The rooms are the finest in the big hotel, and every comfort has been provided for Thaw. The Thaw family is paying the expenses. The consultations of the attorneys were held to-day in the big parlor, where Thaw sat at the head of the council table, in appearance, at least, directing his fight and issuing orders to his attorneys.

Just across the street from there and in sight of the "throne" room is the old State House where Thaw will face Gov. Felker on Tuesday in the extradition hearing.

Met by Cheering Throng.

Thaw reached this place from Littleton this afternoon at 2:10 o'clock, and probably no political candidate ever got a more enthusiastic reception on his arrival in Concord. There were fully 2,000 persons jammed about the station. Half of those in the crowd were women, and they fought with the men to

BRITAIN OPPOSES COERCION OF CHINA

But Situation Between Tokio and Peking Governments Has Grown More Serious.

REPORT NANKING CRUELTIES

Ditpatches Being Sent to Washington by Our Legation—Gen. Chang's Dismissal Urged.

TOKIO, Sept. 17.—China's acceptance of Japan's demands in connection with the killing of Japanese at Nanking is confined thus far to minor points. No answer has been received to the demand for an apology for insults to the Japanese flag and uniform or to the demand for the dismissal of Gen. Chang-Hsun from the Governorship of Kiang-Su Province.

Before presenting the demands the Japanese Foreign Office sounded Great Britain regarding her attitude in the event of military action being taken, and learned that Great Britain would view it with apprehension, as such action would be likely to encourage the partition of China among the Powers. The British Government promised its support to Japan diplomatically at Peking in the demand for indemnity and an apology, but refused to countenance military or naval action.

Military circles are pressing the Government to amend the demands so as to obtain an extension of certain concessions and the right to establish military barracks at Hankow.

The Premier is urging Prince Yamagata and Prince Oyama, who are members of the Council of Marshals, to use their influence to modify the militarist attitude.

PEKING, Sept. 17.—The American Legation is sending to Washington detailed reports of atrocities committed by Gen. Chang-Hsun's army at Nanking. This information has been supplied by American and Canadian missionaries at Nanking, who express the fear that even the relief supplies which Chinese and foreigners at Shangahi are sending will be appropriated in large part by the soldiers. The American and other hospitals at Nanking are crowded, and most of the people are destitute.

Many Americans in Peking, as well as the citizens and subjects of other powers, are urging Gen. Chang-Hsun's dismissal, arguing that, if China has any serious thoughts of reform this can be brought about only by severe measures in the case of outrages such as occurred at Nanking.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—A Shanghai dispatch says that the Chinese—Japanese situation has become accentuated.

In Peking it is believed that Japan is acting with the tacit support of Russia.

The Chinese Government is determined to avoid a conflict by all means, but danger lies in Japan's possible insistance on the removal of Gen. Chang-Hsun.

RIOT AT PREACHER'S DANCE.

Tango Barred, the Crowd Wrecks the Rev. Mr. Gilbert's Ball.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Sept. 17.—Angry because they could not tango or turkey trot, a crowd of several hundred dancers at the model dance pavilion, conducted by the Rev. George B. Gilbert at Lakeview Park, started a small riot last night, which finally ended in a call for the local police. Decorations were torn down, furnishings broken, and the electric light wires disarranged by the crowd.

Mr. Gilbert, an Episcopal clergyman, opned the dance hall as an experiment early last Summer, hoping to counteract the effects of the other dance halls, where no restrictions were placed on the dancers. Last night was the first time that he had experienced any trouble, but he announced to-day that there would be no more dancing in his hall.

EXPLAINS CHICAGO PROXIES.

Only for Election of Directors, Committee of Railways Says.

The proxy committee of the Chicago Railways Company, consisting of Wallace Heckman, Seymour Morris, and Henry A. Blair, have issued a statement criticising the contents of a circular letter sent out recently by the Chicago Railways Protective Association. The proxy committee charges that the letter contained various misstatements, the one chiefly referred to being that if one read "between the lines" of the proxy sent out by the proxy committee he would discover that any holder in signing such proxy would authorize the company to sell, lease, or merge its property without further consent of the stockholder.

The committee explains that the proxy really related only to the election of Directors for the company in the present year.

NOBODY WOULD BUY PEARL FOR 2 CENTS

Finder of $650,000 Necklace in Vain Offered a Loose Stone for a Glass of Beer.

IT HAS NOW DISAPPEARED

Police When They First Saw the Gems Thought Them Worthless and Offered Them to the Matron.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The dramatic recovery of the $650,000 pearl necklace by no means disposes of the mystery. Indeed, the problem thickens.

It seems beyond doubt that the pearls were actually picked up in the street, butafter taking them to the police the finder, Augustus Horne, discovered that he had still one in his pocket. Not knowing that its worth was hundreds, if not thousands of pounds, the man offered it for 2 cents in public-houses, but nobody would buy. It was thought to be merely a bead or marble. The mystery now is, what has become of it?

Another problem is, who is to have the $50,000 reward? The finder of the pearls claims it. So do Messrs. Brandstater and Quadratstein, whose work led to the arrest of the men now in custody.

Other questions as yet unanswered are, Who placed the match-box containing the pearls in St. Paul's Road? Who were the "foreign-looking man and woman in black" who, Augustus Horne says, entered an omnibus near the spot where he found the pearls? Did they drop the box of pearls?

Several Londoners had an opportunity of buying for a penny the pearl which Horne found in his pocket after he delivered the matchbox to the police. According to the narratives of his companions, the police told Horne to offer the pearls to the matron at the police station, saying, "Oh, you can have 'em. Put 'em around your neck." Horne, it is said, also showed the pearls to a police Inspector, who said contemptously: "Take them home and play with them."

Indeed, everybody to whom Horne showed the pearls agreed that they were not worth keeping. Several persons advised him to throw them away, but fortunately he decided otherwise.

Afterward in a saloon Horne discovered a loose pearl in his pocket. It had evidently dropped out of the box. He offered to sell it to anybody for a penny or a glass of beer, but there was "nothing doing." Horne and his companions, including Horne's brother George, then visited another public house. Horne offered to the barman the pearl in exchange for a drink or a packet of cigarettes, but the barman, after an examination of the gem, decided it was not worth it.

The party then went to another public house, and there the pearl mysteriously disappeared. Horne handed it to his brother, who left the bar to wash his hands in the lavatory.

When he returned, according to a witness, he was asked what he had done with the "marble," and said he had thrown it away. His companions, however, declared that this was only a joke, anw itis said he returned it to his brother Augustus, but from that time its whereabouts has been a mystery. George Horne emphatically asserts that he returned the pearl to his brother.

As to the other three pearls that are missing the official idea is understood to be that, in view of what occurred subsequent to the finding of the pearls by Horne, they also were lost during the time when the finder was unaware of their value. A number of detectives were to-day engaged in a search for these pearls, which are said to be worth together $70,000 or $75,000, but the search was fruitless.

It is stated that an offer to purchase the recovered necklace for $750,000 has already been received from the Continent, but, in view of the world-wide reputation it has obtained some jewel experts think $1,000,000 would not be too much to expect.

Brandstater, interviewed in Paris regarding the reward, expressed confidence that he would obtain it for himself and Quadratstein. He intends to journey to London to-morrow to claim it.

ASK TOBACCO INQUIRY.

German Business Men Say Agents Masquerade as Independents.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—A petition requesting an investigation into the alleged relations of the Tobacco Trust with the German cigarette industry was sent to the Secretary of the Interior to-day by Hansa League, an association of business men.

A number of the most prominent firms are accused in the petition of masquerading as "independents" while they are really under the control of the trust.

BULGAR-TURKISH PROTOCOL

Frontier Question Settled—Ironical Reference to London Treaty.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 17.—Official announcement is made of the settlement of the frontier question between Bulgaria and Turkey in Thrace.

The frontier starts at the mouth of the Maritsa River, and ends north of Midia on the Black Sea. Turkey retains Adrianople, Demotika, and Kirk-Kilisseh, while Bulgaria retains Tirnovo, Mustapha Pasha, and Ortakoi. An agreement in principle has been reached on the subject of nationalities.

An ironical note is struck in one clause of the protocol, to the effect that the provisions of the Treaty of London not modified by the present protocol shall remain binding on both parties.

SEEKS HUSBAND IN PANAMA.

Laura Weed Johns Offers $5,000 Reward for Missing Actor.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA, Sept. 17.—Laura Weed Johns, daughter of the late Benjamin Weed, a New York banker, arrived here to-day in search of her husband, De Courcy Johns, an actor, to whom she was married a year ago in Yonkers. Johns is said to be many years his wife's junior. Mrs. Johns claims that her husband eloped with an actress, whom he deserted a short time ago in Havana.

Mrs. Johns came here with five servants, several dogs and cats, and twenty-two trunks. She announced to-day that she would pay a reward of $5,000 for the apprehension of Johns, who, she believes, is in this country.

JEWS IN WAR ON RIDICULE.

Anti-Defamation League Is Started by Chicago Leaders.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Prominent Jews to-day organized the Anti-Defamation League of America, whose object will be to stop by appeals to reason and conscience, and if necessary by appeals to law, the defamation of the Jewish people.

The new organization will be conducted under the auspices of the Order of B'nai B'rith, a philanthropic organization with a membership of 20,000, and will have branches in every large city in the country. The objects of the league are set forth in a statement issued by Adolf Kraus of Chicago, President of the Order of B'nai B'rith.

Stage defamation of the Jew will be dealt with by enlisting the co-operation of the producers and managers of the theatres. Newspaper and magazine defamation will be met by protests to editors. Defamation in textbooks will be met by attempts to eliminate them from the courses of study.

TO INCREASE MEAT SUPPLY.

Packers Want Calves Protected and Urge Farmers to Raise More Hogs.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Officers of the American Meat Packers' Association declared to-day that the organization at its annaul convention to be held here next week would go on record against the unnecessary slaughter of heifer calves as a step in a campaign of education inaugurated to prevent a further shortage in the country's meat supply. Another move contemplated is the adoption of resolutions urging farmers to go into the business of raising hogs for the market on a large scale as the present high price of pork should make the business exceptionally profitable.

The packers, it is said, realize that something must be done to increase the meat supply. Legislation may be sought to prevent the needless slaughter of live stock.

SHOT WIFE, THEN A SUICIDE.

Ohio Man Thought He Had Killed Her—Dies in Son's Arms.

MARTINS FERRY, Ohio, Sept. 17.—Thinking he had killed his wife at whom he had fired three times in her home here early to-day, August Roman fired a bullet into his heart and fell dead in the arms of his son.

The Romans were to have appeared in court to-day in Roman's suit for divorce. Mrs. Roman, who has two wounds, may recover.

THINKS HIS DOG IS DUMB.

Fido's Inability to Bark Worries His Boy Master.

If a dog won't bark, no matter what means you use to make it, it must be dumb. That is the way Gobbi reasons, and it explains why he decided that the $2.80 he had invested in a fox terrier was a mistake. Gobbi wanted the dog for his little son, and the boy wouldn't have a dog that couldn't talk.

Gobbi is a waiter at the St. Regis, and about a week ago he went to the Bide-a-wee Home at Thirty-eighth Street and the East River, and selected a little fox terrier from the stock of homeless canines the institution was offering. Counting the cost of his license, Fido, when he reached Gobbi's flat in Fifty-seventh Street, represented an outlay of $3 less twenty cents. Little Gobbi was delighted with the dog.

But Fido seemed strangely silent. He would come when called, but as for doing his share in a conversaion, the dog simply wouldn't utter a bark, or even a squeak. When Gobbi senior came home the next night he was told about the muteness of Fido, and he marveled. Thereafter he essayed to make Fido speak. He held out dainties from the supper table; he got behind a door and made strange noises; he jumped at the dog, but the latter made not a sound. Then he called in a friend, positively the ugliest man of his acquaintance, and had him shake his head and bark at Fido, but nothing resulted. Then he stepped on Fido's tail, but the dog took no interest in the proceeding. Apparently, so a council of the Gobbi family and friends decided that the dog was dumb.

Gobbi went over to see the Bide-a-wee people yesterday, and he said later that the lady who had let him take Fido away said that perhaps the dog didn't bark because he was such a young dog. Anyhow, she suggested that if Fido's inability to bark disqualified him from remaining a member of the Gobbi household, he could be exchanged.

WANT REGIMENT FOR WALL STREET GUARD

Bankers and Business Men Ask for New Governors Island Barracks.

PROTECTION IN A CRISIS

Regular Troops, They Say, Could Respond in Case of Riot or a Great Disaster.

Bank Presidents and merchants, more than 500 in number, want Governors Island so equipped that it will have quarters for a fegiment of infantry of the regular army. They want modern barracks built. They point out in a petition which will be sent to Senator O'Gorman that Governors Island is only twelve minutes from the great financial district, and they say that in the event of a disaster like an earthquake a body of regular troops would be invaluable in protecting financial institutions, including the Sub-Treasury, where there always is much gold. Regular troops also would be effective in case of mob outbreaks.

The petition was circulated by Charles Elliot Warren, President of the Lincoln National Bank, who said last night that Wall Street at present would be helpless at the hands of a mob. Governors Island, he believes, should have a garrison which should stand ready to respond to a call from Wall Street, because troops stationed there could reach the financial district much quicker than could militia from any of the armories.

The petition, which follows, advances other reasons for making Governors Island a regimental post.

Want a Modern Military Plant.

To the Hon. James A. O'Gorman, Washington, D. C.:

It having come to the knowledge of the undersigned that but a meagre garrison is at present maintained by the War Department at Fort Jay, Governors Island, and that the barracks at that post are obsolete in type and in need of renewal, and that a plan to quarter on Governors Island a regiment of infantry of the regular army was approved in March, 1908, by the Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff, and that in furtherance of this idea Congress was led to appropriate $1,000,000 for the increase in size of said island by the addition of 103 acres to the western boundary thereof; that the said addition is now complete and in use as a manoeuvreing and training ground for troops, and that all physical features incident to the approved plan are now in a state which would permit immediate building operations.

We, therefore request, as citizens of the City of New York that the Senators and Representatives in Congress from this State take what steps may be needful to cause to be erected on Governor's Island barracks and other quarters of modern type, sufficient to shelter a regiment of infantry of the size such a body would be by law in time of war, together with such adjuncts thereto as the War Department in its wisdom may deem appropriate. Your petitioners present this memorial for the following reasons:

First, the proximity of Governors Island to the financial centre of this city and this country, it being twelve minutes from the Sub-Treasury of the United States at Wall and Broad Streets, makes it the logical point at which should be quartered a sufficient force of the regular army to afford protection without delay to those institutions in the event of civic disturbance or great physical lives and millions of property; and preserve order in said district should any of the above contingencies present themselves, until troops, militia or otherwise, might be brought from a distance to meet the existing emergency.

Second, in order that the 6,000,000 residents of this city may have an opportunity to observe the Regular Army and its state of preparedness for war, so that this important aid to our national prestige, its necessities, and its needs may be better known to our citizens in general to the benefit of all concerned; that the militia stationed in this city may have a model at hand for ready observation, and that visitors to our shores may see for themselves that this country possesses a modern system for quartering its soldiers equal to any in the world.

Third, to preserve the historic associations surrounding this spot, which has been the quartering place for troops for 120 years, where the Government has maintained a garrison since its birth.

Value as an Assembling Place.

Fourth, for use in time of war as an assembling place for troops, supplies, &c. The unparalleled facilities it possesses for speedy transshipment by water, its nearness to railroad lines, and to sources of supply, making it the logical point, especially if prepared in advance, for such use.

Fifth, the fact that for years it has been an invariable practice to quarter troops of our army, other than those for service, in harbor forts in the vicinity of all of our largest cities, which commendable policy should give to the city of New York a body of troops of sufficient size, maintained in a modern post, to make the representation of our army within our limits at least equal in size to those now existing near cities much smaller in number and importance.

Your petitioners wish at this time to register their approval of the general policy of the War Department as expressed in the press of the country, to concentrate our army at the geographical points which would permit thorough training in peace and rapid assembly in time of need, and in no way do they feel that their request in this case is contrary to that policy.

No matter at what point in the interim it may be decided to establish a garrison in this vicinity, we consider it still a good policy to have ready in advance and located within our splendid harbor a body of mobile troops ready for immediate embarkation in time of war, while the more general concentration is being effected. Such an advance body would be invaluable, if for no other purpose than to assist in the preparation for the general movement, if immediately available for such use as would be a regiment stationed at Fort Jay.

The establishment of the post desired in no way precludes or interferes with the above-mentioned general plan. The value put upon buildings of the Federal Government on this island makes it imperative that this ground should be employed in some useful way before other holdings are acquired at probable large expense for the identical purpose suggested in this case.

It is submitted that any location for an army post, unless in a comparative wilderness, at a distance from settled communities, would entail the departure of the troops from the post proper, for certain phases of training, and it has in recent years been the invariable practice of the War Department to impart such training at the average post by means of manoeuvres.

It is further submitted that troops can be landed in suitable manoeuvring areas upon Governors Island at no greater expense than at any other place on the North Atlantic seaboard, likely to be selected for a permanent post, of regimental size or greater. Economy, therefore, dictates that the ground already owned by the United States be utilized in preference to the acquirement at added expense of another site no more suitable for special training than this, and not possessing the advantages of harbor, railroads, sources of supply, and ready access to the metropolis of our country, which latter advantage will do much to popularize the army with citizens in general.

To prove the possibility of troops on Governor's Island being trained in war exercises, it may be cited that the present garrison is now thus trained, by being sent to suitable grounds within 40 minutes by boat from Fort Jay, Governor's Island. For training within the post, attention is called to the fact that no post other than this possesses a fine training area, namely 103 acres of perfectly level ground to perfect which the Government has spent $1,100,000.

Your petitioners, therefore, beg that this memorial be brought to the attention of the Honorable Secretary of War in order that the plans of the War Department as recites above for the creation of a regimental post upon Governor's Island, New York City, may receive the consideration their importance demands.

Despite the fact tht the petition only recently was put in circulation it already has received more than 500 signatures. Some of the first to sign were:

SUFFRAGETTES TRY TO BURN PENSHURST

Famous English House Saved by Servants' Use of Fire Apparatus on Premises.

TWO WOMEN SEEN FLEEING

Birthplace of Philip Sidney Contains Many Art Treasures—Often Visited by Queen Elizabeth.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—A desperate attempt by a suffragette "arson squad" to burn down Penshurst Place, the historic seat of Lord de L'Isle and Dudley, near Tunbridge, Kent, part of which dates from the fourteenth century, was made in the course of last night.

The inmates of the great mansion, awakened by the crackling of wood and clouds of smoke, found the framework of a number of windows ablaze. A working party of household employes soon succeeded in extinguishing the flames with the efficient apparatus on the premises.

Two women were seen fleeing across the lawn in front of the building, and a large amount of suffrage literature was found in the grounds, while heaps of rags, soaked in petroleum, were discovered in several places.

Great indignation prevails among the neighboring residents, as it is thought probable that the mansion, hitherto open to visitors, may be closed.

Penhurst is one of the most famous houses in England. It contains portraits of ancestors of the holder of the titles, whose family name is Sidney. Among them are two of Sir Philip Sidney, who was born at Penhurst, and four of Algernon Sidney.

FAVORITES

There is one charge which can never be levelled at this Company, and that is, that it "plays favorites."

The only considerations which enter into our choice of one sub-contractor against another, are, first, the stability of his business, and thereafter the speed, the quality, and the cost of his work.

In other words, we do not "play favorites" with Tom, Dick and Harry, but we do "play favorites" with Economy, Quality and Speed.

TELLS WHY SLIPS OCCUR AT CULEBRA

Due to Rotting Coal, Says Dr. Cornish—Forest Must Be Regrown to Stop Them.

CANAL WILL AID BRITAIN

Conclusion of Prof. Kirkaldy in Paper at British Association Meeting—the Pittdown Skull Again.

BIRMINGMAM, Sept. 17.—The Panama Canal figured prominently in the proceedings of the last day of the meeting of the ritish Association, which closed to-day. In the Economic Section Prof. A. W. Kirkaldy described the economic effects of the canal, while in the Engineering Section, Dr. Vaughn Cornish, distinguished for geographical research, discussed the landslips in the canal, especially in the Culebra Cut.

Dr. Cornish declared that these slips were due to seams of coal underneath rotting, which resulted in the thrusting up of the granite and the melting away of the banks. This evil was unforseen by geologists and could be attributed to the cutting away of the forests along the canal that formerly absorbed the moisture which was now penetrating the stratum underlying the canal. Dr. Cornish said that nature would continue to take this revenge until the forests were regrown, when the underground flow would cease.

In the discussion which followed Prof. Kirkaldy and Sir Oliver Lodge said that without biological research the canal would have been impossible; it was only by the destruction of the microbe of malaria that white men were enabled to work there. What Americans called the "Panama ditch" was now as healthy, they declared, as was New York. This was a tremendous achievement.

Dr. Francis Watts, Imperial Commissioner of Agriculture for the West Indies, predicted a great development of West Indian trade through the opening of the canal.

Dr. Kirkaldy's Address.

The greatest interest was taken in the paper by Prof. Kirkaldy on "The Economic Effect of the Panama Canal." The subject was treated with great thoroughness.

"So far as the outside world is concerned," Prof. Kirkaldy said in opening his address, "the greatest effect of the opening of the canal will probably be to set commerce and trade out of the grooves and cause a more modern mode of business methods. The old will have to be scrapped, friction among the factors of production will have to be eliminated, capital and labor in competing countries will have to learn to work harmoniously together. Socially and economically this will effect a very great result. Is it what America dreamed of when she entered upon this stupendous undertaking?"

The question was treated by Prof. Kirkaldy under the two general heads of local effects and effects on world trade. From the industrial point of view, he said, three questions arose: Who shall supply certain markets, who shall perform the service of transport, and what routes shall shipping take?

The principal factors on the balance of advantages on which the foregoing questions would be decided were, distance, tolls on the canal, freights and the possibility of continuous freight earning, fuel stations, insurance rates, the political factor, rates of exchange, investments of capital and banking facilities, the human factor—manufacturing and shipping ability, experience of trade and markets, and present possession. He continued:

The canal will add enormously to the commercial facilities between the various regions of the American continent and the adjacent islands, hence, important developments may be expected. The West India Islands will enter upon a new period of prosperity, especially when the internal combustion engine takes the place of steam and oil replaces coal. English business and fiscal methods will have a great effect on making the West Indies important to shipping, and thus assist the development of local industries, especially the export of raw material.

America realizes the importance of the coal trade to the United Kingdom; there will be a strenuous attempt to displace British coal throughout the world in order to give American shipping the advantages at present enjoyed by British.

The published scheme of tolls which frees American coasting ships raises an international question. If the canal be worked on business principles, higher tolls will be exacted from other shipping; this will either cause a grievance, or decrease the tonnage using the canal. The question might be made domestic instead of international. If America charged equal tolls to all, and gave bounties to such shipping as it wishes to favor.

As to the effect of distance, he thought that on Australasian and Far Eastern markets it would be considerable, as the mileage run by a steamer was a serious factor in cost of service. In this shipping offered a contrast to railways for when trucks were loaded, length of haul had but little effect on cost of service.

"Taking London and New York as the typical European and American ports," he said, "the markets of the world fall into three classes: (1) Countries in close proximity to the canal; here the effect will be greatest and, in many cases, the use of the canal a necessity; (2) Australasia and the Far East. At present there is a choice of routes to these markets; Panama will offer another alternative; (3) ports not directly affected." He went on:

Question of Freights.

To benefit American shipping freight must be available both out and home. To benefit American manufacturers freights must be low. At present Europe supplies Australasia with manufactured goods, and the shipping goes via Suez. This route gives a maximum of trading possibilities and great facilities for coaling. The Cape route, too, offers to fully loaded steamers the advantage of cheap bunker coal. For the homeward voyage from Australasia a partly loaded steamer goes via the Horn to pick up cargo at ports like Montevideo. The canal would not attract these ships. When Panama is open, will all-around-the-world services be organized? Great Britain is in a better position to do this than any other country.

Fuel stations will be one of the decisive factors, and lead to the keenest commercial rivalry. The American Government is planning to supply good coal at either end of the canal at 10s. per ton. The English coal on the Suez route is at present much dearer; to maintain the Suez route in its integrity the supply of cheaper coal is a necessity. When oil replaces coal the British Empire resources will be ample to maintain our commercial position, but this must not in the meantime be placed in jeopardy, or disaster may ensue.

Great Britain is a great creditor nation. Her advances have been really made in goods, and though the interest has to be paid in gold, it comes in goods covered by bills in terms of sterling, so that investors get their interest in gold. The British, too, have banking establishments all over the world. London is the great settling place for international trade. All this gives England a very great advantage. Germany has followed England in this.

Finally, the Englishman is, roughly speaking, the man in possession, and though at one time he seemed somnolescent, at present he is very wide awake. He has many advantages: (1) For the transport services: cheap, economically worked ships, carefully organized trading facilities throughout the world, and the knowledge and experience which enable him to retain old trades and be the first to enter new ones; (2) so far as retaining the markets for manufactured goods is concerned he has an unrivaled labor force endowed with hereditary skill, he can get the pick of the raw material, thanks to his knowledge of markets, and a fiscal policy which favors England as a buyer of raw and semi-manufactured materials; finally, British goods are known all over the world for their quality. Honest goods and honorable dealing on the part of the seller are their own market.

The meetings of the association have been enlivened by a continuation of the controversial battle started, but left undecided, at the recent International Medical Congress in London over the question of which of the two reconstructions of the famous Piltdown skull is the closest to the original skull of the earliest European man.

Dr. Smith Woodward has procured fresh support for his reconstruction, which allots to the earliest European a far smaller brain capacity than Dr. Keith's model, which gives the Piltdown native more brains than his descendants of to-day.

William Dawson, who found the remains from which the reconstructions were made, has gone over the ground again, and it is said that he has found new and important evidence.

ITALIAN GENERAL SLAIN.

Thirty-three Others Killed in Battle in Tripoli—Arabs Defeated.

BENGAZI, Tripoli, Sept. 17.—The Italian commander Gen. Torelli and thirty-three Italian officers and men were killed and seventy-three others were wounded in a hard fought battle yesterday with a body of intractable Arab tribesmen, who were eventually forced to retire.

The Italian column, which had been operating for some time against the tribesmen, yesterday found them posted strongly on a height commanding the Valley of Tecnis.

When attacked the Arabs resisted with great stubbornness, being aided by the hilly, wooded nature of the ground. They disputed fiercely every effort of the Italian infantry to advance, but the Italian artillery, served with remarkable precision, poured a hail of shell on the position and compelled the Arabs to evacuate it and retreat to the desert.

Gen. Torelli fell at the head of his troops while urging them on to the attack.

RADFORD KNEW THE RISKS.

Miner Tells of Meeting New York Explorer Who Was Slain.

EDMONTON, Alberta, Sept. 17.—E. L. Dowling, a mining engineer, who arrived here to-day was one of the last white men that saw Henry V. Radford, the New York explorer, before he was killed by Eskimos, nearly two yars ago in Northwestern Canada. Dowling spent the Summer of 1911 in the arctic region, traveling as far north as Banks Land, within 900 mils of th North Pole. He saw Radford at Fort Resolution and again at Fort Norman, west of Great Bear Lake.

"Pretty risky" were Radford's last words when Dowling wished him a safe journey from Fort Norman. Dowling said thatIt Radford had aquick temper and that the Eskimos were childish and resentful.

FIND FOUR DEAD IN ALPS.

Searchers Get Bodies of Climbers Who Had Been Missing Five Days.

PONTRESINA, Sept. 17.—The bodies of four Alpine climbers who had been missing since Sept. 12 were found to-day in a crevasse on the Palu Peak in the Upper Engadine, near here.

They were said to be all experienced mountaineers, but were caught in a series of heavy snowstorms, which cost them their lives and also hindered the rescue parties in their search.

Mlle. Bunsil of this place was one of the victims. The names of the others, also believed to be Swiss, are not yet ascertainable.

SEVILLE, Sept. 17.—Marquis Valle de la Renia, a member of the Cortes, was shot and killed in a mysterious way while hunting with a large party of friends to-day on his estate near Sanlucar de Barrameda. The Marquis was lost sight of for a time, and finally two shots were heard. The hunters, proceeding in the direction of the firing, came upon the body of the Marquis, who had two bullets in his head. It is believed that the shooting was accidental, as suicide is thought improbable.

RADIUM APPARENTLY IS CURING CANCER

Series of Extraordinary Cases Reported from the Middlesex Hospital, London.

CURE SEEMED HOPELESS

Yet Patients After Short Periods Have Been Discharged as Cured —Radium Used in Platinum Tube.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 18.—The Daily Mail's medical correspondent describes a series of most remarkable improvements in cancer cases treated by radium at the Middlesex Hospital in the past six months.

In an interview one of the surgical staff accentuated the necessity of using the word "improvement" instead of "cure." He said:

"We do not maintai nthat we have cured these cases by radium. What we have done is to cause growths proved microscopically to be cancerous to disappear in a truly astounding way under radium rays."

A man was admitted on Aug. 25 with a large sarcomatous growth blocking up the back of the nose and throat. He had lostall sense of smell, was unable to breathe through his nose, and was deaf in his right ear.

A platinum tube containing 82 milligrams of radium was embedded in the tumor and left in position for twelve hours. Five days later the growth had shrunk perceptibly and the sense of smell and ability to breathe through the nose were regained.

On Sept. 10 no trace of the growth was found, the patient had regained his hearing completely, and he was discharged, apparently cured.

A woman was admitted suffering from large abdominal sarcoma. Twelve days ago an incision was made down to the growth, and a platinum tube containing 144 milligrams of radium—all that the hospital possesses—was embedded in the tumor and left there for twenty-five hours.

On her admission the patient weighed 70 pounds 1 ounce. Yesterday her weight had risen to 84 pounds 10 ounces. The tumor had shrunk to half its former size.

A man suffering from epithelioma of the tongue was admitted on July 21. He had been told that the disease was so far advanced that he could not be operated on. Eighty-two milligrams of radium in a platinum tube were embedded in the centre of the growth at the base of the tongue.

Three weeks later no sign of the tongue growth could be observed, and the patient was discharged apparently cured, except for the presence of two or three secondarily involved glands about the collarbone, which can be surgically removed later if necessary.

CARSON IS OBDURATE.

Against a Home Rule Conference—Referendum Idea Discussed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Sept. 18.—Public opinion is still waiting for a lead from the political leaders with reference to Lord Loreburn's appeal to the nation. The Times to-day gives prominence to THE NEW YORK TIMES's editorial article of yesterday pointing out possible lines on which some sort of working agreement might be reached. The Times lays stress on THE NEW YORK TIMES's suggestion that the Home Rule bill is suitable for application to a referendum as a means of discovering the opinion of the electorate on a virtual "amendment of the constitution," the phrase being picked out as a heading for its New York dispatch.

The Times's Dublin correspondent says the idea of a conference on the Home Rule bill receives no support in Ireland, but the possibility of an open conference on the whole question of Irish government is being canvassed.

There is much speculation as to the significance of the visits which the leaders of both parties are paying to the King at Balmoral, also regarding the expected return to London from the Continent of Mr. Lloyd George, who will go to Scotland next week.

Sir Edward Carson, speaking at Newry yesterday, said:

"We are not going into a conference where a conference means not even a compromise, but base surrender.

F. E. Smith also spoke, saying the Unionists wolud have no compromise on the Home Rule bill.

DRUG CRUSADE IN JERSEY.

Pharmacists Arrested for Selling Heroin and Cocaine Illegally.

Hearing that hundreds of young men in lower Jersey City had become addicted to the use of heroin and cocaine by the extensive sale of the drugs, and that within the year three of the victims had been killed by the habit, Director of Public Safety Hague launched three weeks ago an investigation which was marked yesterday by the arrest of four druggists and two clerks on charges of selling drugs illegally. They were held in $2,500 bail for examination to-day, and five young men were paroled as witnesses.

The arrested druggists were Harry Halper of Avenue C and Twenty-sixth Street, Bayonne; Frank J. Bangham of Claremont and Jackson Avenues; Harry Wackerhath of Hudson Boulevard and DeKalb Avenue, and Theodore Norwood, of 110 Palisade Avenue, Jersey City. Of the same address as William Burkley, one of the clerks, and the other clerk was J. A. Zabriskie of 131 Shippen Street, Weehawken.

New Rochelle Fire Loss.

The New Rochelle fire of last Monday night did not prove to be as serious as conditions indicated, although the entire building occupied by the department store of the Howard Ware Corporation was destroyed, and three other buildings were damaged. The loss of the Howard Ware Corporation amounted to $150,000, and the insurance companies settled with Mr. Ware yesterday for that sum. The other losses amounted to $50,000, making the aggregate loss $200,000.

WHALE BUTTS A STEAMER.

Four-Foot Hole Stove in Bow—Monster Probably Killed.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 17.—A collision with a whale caused such serious damage to the Danish steamer Wladmir Reits that the vessel was forced to put in here to-day for repairs. The accident occurred Monday afternoon about 250 miles east of St. Johns. The crew of the steamer saw the whale approaching at terrific speed, but could not alter the ship's course in time to prevent the impact. The whale struck the steamer head-on, knocking a four-foot hole in the bow. The accident is believed to have killed the whale, for the monster sank immediately, its blood discoloring the water over a large area.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—Dr. George W. Crile, a well-known surgeon, ran a race with death to-day but was beaten, though the special train on which he rodesmashed all Lake Shore records.

Dr. Crile was summened to the bedside of George W. Bennett, Vice President of the Willys Overland Automobile Company in Toledo, who had been operated upon for appendicitis. Peritonitis had set in and surgeons there despaired of his life. A special train wasm ade up and Dr. Crile started for Toledo. The run of 103 miles was made in 80 minutes, the fastest time ever made on the Lake Shore Railroad, but when Dr. Crile reached Toledo Mr. Bennett was dead.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 17.—A race with death beam on the fast express which left here at 2:30 this afternoon and which arrives in Boston at 7 p. m., when Mrs. James L. Hughes, was carried to her home in Arlington, Mass., to fulfill her desire to be in her own home when she died.

Mrs. Hughes has been a sufferer with Bright's disease more than two years and came here a few months ago to undergo hospital treatment. She sank continually, however, and pleaded to be taken home to die.

ARLINGTON, Mass., Sept. 17.—Mrs. James L. Hughes reached her residence here to-night after speeding from Bridgeport in an express train in order to be at her own home when death came. Her brother, Dr. B. F. Gallant, who accompanied her, said that her condition was very low.

MRS. WARFIELD IS MISSING.

As Her Daughter's Death Is Investigated She Leaves Her Home.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—As State's Attorney E. O. Weant of Carroll County began to-day to investigate the death of Miss Ella Warfield on July 23, Mrs. Marcellus Warfield, her mother and Mrs. Mary Josephine Ward, her daughter, suddenly left the Warfield home near Sykesville. Mr. Weant spent several hours this afternoon at the home cross-questioning Henry Jackson, the colored caretaker.

He was unable to obtain statements to-day from Dr. Daniel Sprecher, Mayor of Sykesville, who certified that the death was due to acute indigestion, or Justice Charles O. Miller, who acts as Coroner and is related to the dead woman.

Despite the evidence of Jackson, which points to suicide or the swallowing of poison by accident, Mr. Weant is working on another theory. In his possession is a letter which has not been made public, and a bottle, said to have been found by Miss Warfield's side.

Proclamation of a Strike Issued by Mine Workers' Official.

TRINIDAD, Col., Sept. 17.—An official call for a strike in District 15 of the United Mine Workers of America was issued to-night from the office of Frank J. Hayes, international Vice President.

"We are striking for improved conditions, better wages, and union recognition. We request all members to be peaceful and law-abiding, and conduct the strike on a high plane," was the way the strike order read.

Sheriff Grisham, who returned to-night from a conference with Gov. Ammons, said that no move had been made to order out the militia, and that the civil authorities were able to handle the situation. Everything in the city and camps is peaceable.

NAME SIXTEEN MEN AS RULERS OF ROADS

Trainmen Continue Arguments to Show Eastern Systems Are in Hands of a Few.

CHALLENGED BY OFFICIALS

Vice Presidents of Pennsylvania and New Haven Get Statistician to Modify Statements.

Dr. Warne's Sixteen Rulers of the Eastern Railroads.

*Deceased since list was compiled.

W. W. Atterbury, Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who is one of the arbitrators sitting in judgment on the demands of the conductors and trainmen on the eastern railroads, took vigorous exceptions yesterday to a generalization that had been made the day before by F. J. Warne, the statistician employed by the unions.

After showing that most of the fifty-seven railroads in the eastern territory were controlled through stock ownership by the six principal roads and that only seventeen of them were outside of these six systems, Dr. Warhe had gone on to say that if the analysis were pursued into their banking affiliations, it would be shown that there was still greater concentration of control in the hands of certain financial groups. Mr. Atterbury protested at the time that this was not true of the Pennsylvania system and he did not believe it was of the New York Central.

Yesterday, when Dr. Warne had finished his direct testimony, Mr. Atterbury, supported by A. H. Smith, Vice-President of the New York Central, who is the other arbitrator representing the railroads, returned to the attack. He asked Dr. Warne if, in view of the fact that he had not made no such investigation as he had referred to, he would not modify his statement to read that such a study "might" show such a concentration of control, rather than that it "would" so show. To this Dr. Warne readily agreed. Then Mr. Atterbury suggested that the entire statement be withdrawn, but Dr. Warne could not see it in that light.

"Then," said Mr. Atterbury, "I get back to the statement I made originally, that, so far as I know, no group of individuals or of financial institutions in any way controls the Pennsylvania Railroad. It has never been my understanding that the New York Central was in the hands of any group of financial institutions."

Mr. Atterbury pointed out that of the aggregate stock of all the roads concerned, the Pennsylvania and New York Central accounted for 60 per cent., that they employed 47 per cent. of the trainmen and 37 per cent. of the conductors and that neither of the systems representing this large portion of the field of controversy was under the control of anybody but the stockholders.

Dr. Warne suggested that his statement might be explained by his tables showing interlocking directorates, which he had just introduced.

"I would be glad," said Mr. Atterbury, "if you would take the table for the Pennsylvania and explain the statement by that."

"Would you allow me to substitute the New Haven for the Pennsylvania?" asked Dr. Warne.

"Well, I don't know enough about the New Haven to go into that," said Mr. Atterbury, "but I do know about the Pennsylvania.

Challenged by Atterbury.

"I think one of our troubles at the present time," Mr. Atterbury went on, "is the general impression that the country has of just that sort of thing and I think you would do the railroad cause as a whole a great deal of good—and that applies to employes as well as stockholders—if you could take the two large systems and develop just that very question. There is a suggestion which, if it goes out broadcast, is harmful, and I question the advisability of letting a statement of that sort go out unchallenged."

"It is not our desire," said A. B. Garretson, President of the Order of Railway Conductors, "to give anybody a mistaken idea in regard to these things, but when the position is taken here that this or that system is not dominated by a certain number of men or a certain number of interests, the idea is at variance with every channel of public information in regard to some of the properties that is available to every man."

Dr. Warne, in his examination, went on from the exposition of his charts showing the creation of a few great systems through stock ownership to the question of interlocking directors. He took up several of the systems separately, saying of the New York Central:

"The exhibit showing stock ownership among railroads in the Eastern territory involved in the requests of trainmen and conductors indicated no relation between the New York Central system and other roads in the Eastern territory involved in the requests excepting a slight ownership in the New Haven and joint ownership in three other companies. The diagram, however, shows a very extensive relation through this system of interlocking directors. The inference is plain that through this relation virtually none of the roads are strictly independent but that they all are under an extensive system of concentrated control."

After showing the interlocking directorships among the individual roads, Dr. Warne passed on to interlocking directorships among the several systems and the "independent" roads.

"It has already been demonstrated," he said, "that among the railroads included within the systems in the Eastern territory, as determined by intercorporate stock ownership, there exists a closely knit and at the same time an extensively diversified scheme of interlocking directors. The far-reaching significance of this condition should be apparent; it should be equally clear that the practical operation of this method of control affects fundamentally the questions raised in this arbitration.

Men Deal With Few Systems.

"First and foremost in its bearing upon these proceedings is the very important fact that in the final analysis the conductors and trainmen are dealing, not with fifty-seven separate and distinct railroads, but with a few large systems; that these large systems so control the policy and direct the operation of their numerous subsidiary roads as to affect vitally their earnings and in consequence their financial condition.

"It has been shown that twenty-nine interlocking Directors of the New York Central and its subsidiary companies hold 171 positions in railroads in the Eastern territory involved in the concerted wage movement; that thirty-three such Directors of the New Haven system hold 167 positions; that twenty-eight Pennsylvania Directors occupy ninety-one directorates; and that twenty-eight men fill 114 places on Baltimore & Ohio boards.

"The result in brief is that sixteen men hold nine large railway systems and all of their subsidiary companies in uniformity of action and serve as means of communicating policies among them. These sixteen men occupy forty-two different positions in the New York Central, Pennsylvania, New Haven, Baltimore & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Reading, Erie, and Pere Marquette systems. These same sixteen men occupy seventy-nine other different positions in subsidiary companies of these systems—a total of 121 separate directorships.

The Controlling Directors.

"These sixteen Directors and the systems with which they are identified are:

E. R. BACON—Baltimore & Ohio, Pere Marquette.

OSCAR G. MURRAY—Baltimore & Ohio, Reading.

LEWIS CASS LEDYARD—New York Central, New Haven.

NORMAN B. REAM—Baltimore & Ohio, Erie, Pere Marquette.

WILLIAM ROCKEFELLER—New York Central, New Haven, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western.

R. S. LOVETT—Baltimore & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson, Erie.

J. P. MORGAN—New York Central, New Haven.

GEORGE F. BAKER—New York Central, New Haven, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Reading, Erie, Pere Marquette.

T. DEWITT CUYLER—Pennsylvania, New Haven.

JAMES McCREA (now dead)—Pennsylvania, New Haven.

SAMUEL REA—Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio.

JAMES STILLMAN—New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western.

L. F. LOREE—Baltimore & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson, Erie, Pere Marquette.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW—New York Central, Delaware & Hudson.

F. W. VANVERBILT—New York Central, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western.

H. C. FRICK—Pennsylvania, Reading.

"If we select from among the different systems the individual directors who occupy more than five different positions we find twenty men serving as 171 directors. These more important directors, with the number of positions held by each, are as follows:

Director.	Positions.	Director.	Positions.
George F. Baker	15	L. C. Ledyard	8
William C. Brown	13	William Skinner	7
J. P. Morgan	12	L. F. Loree	7
Wm. Rockefeller	11	John D. Green	7
Wm. H. Newman	11	F. W. Vanderbilt	7
Samuel Rea	9	N. B. Ream	6
James Stillman	9	Joseph Wood	6
W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.	9	James McCrea	6
		Chauncey M. Depew	6
Oscar Murray	8	W. K. Vanderbilt	6
C. S. Mellen	8

Dr. Warne emphasized the point that his showing was restricted to the fifty-seven Eastern railroads and ignored the "interlocking" of these roads and individuals in the western and southern territories.

Elisha Lee, Chairman of the Conference Committee of Managers, in cross-examining Dr. Warne, asked whether the sixteen men he had named actually controlled the roads. Dr. Warne said they had power to control.

"You merely assume that they rule these roads," suggested Mr. Lee.

"Give me the minutes of their board meetings and I will prove it," retorted Dr. Warne.

Martin Degnan of Schenectady, a freight conductor on the Delaware & Hudson, was called to tell of the increased work and responsibility of the men with the increase in the tonnage of trains. He said that on his division the tonnage had been increased so largely that nine-tenths of the trains were "double-headers," that is, were pulled by two engines.

"The trains are so long," he said, "that they frequently break in two. There is about a foot of slack between two cars, and on an eighty-car train this means eighty feet of slack, which is bound to find the weak point. The air hose often breaks when the brakes are set. I have often had to walk back the length of sixty or eighty cars, get a chain weighing from 80 to 120 pounds, and carry it to the point of the break in order to repair it."

He said the men were not able to get over the division with the heavy trains in the same time as formerly and consequently were on duty longer hours.

The hearings will go on to-day.

PUNISHES SLEUTHS IN SULLIVAN CASE

Waldo Reduces Men Who Failed to Identify Body of the Dead Leader.

DON'T FEAR WILL CONTEST

Counsel for Sullivan Estate Says He Is Prepared to Meet Action of Alleged Adopted Daughter.

Police Commissioner Waldo ordered the removal from the Detective Bureau late yesterday afternoon of the three detectives who investigated the death of "Big Tim" Sullivan, who was struck by a train on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad on the morning of Aug. 31 and was identified two weeks later and quite by accident. The men are Detective Sergeant Andrew J. Wines and Second Grade Detectives Myles J. Cavanagh and John J. Clark, all of the Bronx branch of the detective service.

Sergt. Wines, who had the grade and salary of a Lieutenant of police, will be sent to do desk duty. He was appointed to the force as a patrolman on Nov. 17, 1896, and became a Detective Sergeant on Jan. 1, 1902. He was in charge of the Bronx Bureau on Aug. 31 in Capt. Price's absence. His record is clear. Cavanagh became a patrolman on Jan. 31, 1891. He was made a first-grade detective on Dec. 10, 1907. This was revoked on Aug. 28, 1911, and he was made a second grade detective on Oct. 21, 1911. Clark became a patrolman Dec. 6, 1897, and a first-grade detective on March 18, 1908. This rank was revoked on March 10, 1913, and he became a second-grade detective on April 24, 1913. Both Cavanagh and Clark have been ordered back to patrol duty. Cavanagh, it was learned, reported himself on sick leave a few hours after the body was found on the New Haven tracks near Westchester.

In removing the three men from the Detective Bureau Commissioner Waldo acted on a report made by Inspector Faurot. The Commissioner said that he found that Wines, Cavanagh, and Clark had not done their full duty in investigating the case fully.

"Whether this was criminal carelessness or merely stupidity I have yet to determine," said the Commissioner. "I will know by to-morrow whether I will place these men under charges for trial."

The Commissioner said that he considered it extremely unfortunate that no one had washed the face of the body. The detectives, he thought, might have done this, but, on the other hand, he suggested, it might have been done in the Fordham Morgue, where "Big Tim's" body lay for more than a week. Coroner Healy himself had looked at the body without recognizing Congressman Sullivan, he recalled, and therefore it could not be expected that the detectives should have recognized it. They should have run down every clue for possible identification, however, the Commissioner said. Nothing was brought out, it was said, to support the theory that "Big Tim" was murdered.

If a missing nurse girl can be found by Erastus J. Parsons, counsel for Miss Aida Sullivan, the dead leader's adopted daughter, a contest over the late Timothy D. Sullivan's will might be started soon, it was said yesterday. William B. Ellison, counsel for the Sullivan estate, and the man who drew up "Big Tim's" will five years ago, on the other hand, said that he did not anticipate a contest, but that he was prepared to meet any claim that was presented.

Miss Aida Sullivan is an actress and is now playing in vaudeville in Wilkesbarre, Penn. If a suit is started in her behalf, it was said yesterday, it would be for a child's share of the estate. Mr. Parsons said yesterday that he had found a dressmaker uptown who had told him of a nurse girl who knew something about the early life of Aida Sullivan. Some eighteen or nineteen years ago, according to the story told yesterday by Mr. Parsons, this nurse girl came to the dressmaker with a little girl who was about two years old. She had brought the little girl there on many occasions, it was said, and had ordered many expensive dresses for her. But this time, according to the story, the nurse girl came with a request that a new gown be made in a hurry. The dress was wanted, it was explained, because the little girl would be taken to a foundlings' institution, where some persons would come to take her away and adopt her.

The dressmaker, whose identity Mr. Parsons refused to reveal, suspected that the little girl who was brought to her on that occasion was Aida Sullivan. According to Mr. Parsons the dressmaker said that the Sullivans adopted a 2-year-old girl the very next day after the dress for the girl brought by the nurse girl had been finished.

SAYS SHE WILL SUE.

Miss Sullivan Asserts "Big Tim" Made a Will Providing for Her.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., Sept. 17.—Miss Aida Sullivan, who is playing here in the chorus with the "Canoe Girls" at the Poli Theatre, says she has engaged counsel and is preparing to fight for a share of Timothy D. Sullivan's estate. Miss Sullivan asserts that she knows she was provided for in the only will "Big Tim" made when in possession of his senses.

She said that she had been prevented from seeing Sullivan while he was alive, and that she was not notified of his death by any of the Sullivans.

FIRST WHITE ENVOY TO HAITI

Madison R. Smith from Missouri Sails To-day.

When Madison R. Smith, the newly appointed Minister to Haiti, entered the Imperial and registered yesterday morning, the room clerk took a look at him, and gave a sigh of relief. The same feeling soon communicated itself to the manager's office. Mr. Smith is a white man. He is the first to be appointed to the Haitian mission in many years.

Since the new law went into effect in New York State which makes it a heavy offense for a hotel manager to refuse accommodation to a person on account of his color, more than one hotel man who caters to a fashionable or ultra-sensitive white public in New York has been pondering what he would do if a colored man applied for a room. He has felt that he could not afford to risk the departure of a lot of paying guests who objected to eating in the same room with a negro, and on the other hand he could not afford to break the law. More than once in hotels here Latin-Americans whose skins had become very much tanned, have been eyed with suspicion by travelers fresh from the South, and questions have been asked. A fear has been expressed that somebody would make a test case just for the sake of causing trouble.

Therefore it happened that when a letter was received from Minister Smith, telling of his intention to come to New York, and inclosing his card showing his new title, somebody remembered that Haiti was sometimes called the "Black Republic," and somebody else thought he remembered that usually a colored man was appointed envoy to that country. In his letter, Minister Smith had made no effort to settle the question. On the contrary, he reserved rooms conditionally, and it was gathered that he felt some doubt whether he could be taken care of.

So, as the hotel was well filled, a telegram was sent to Mr. Smith to the effect that, while the hotel was full at the time, he would be taken care of, and then, in a quiet way, efforts were made to determine whether the new envoy was of Anglo-Saxon or other origin. An appeal was made to an agency in Washington that was supposed to be up on such things. Back came the report that nothing was known of Mr. Smith, but that all the Ministers to Haiti for many years had not been Caucasians. This left the situation the same as before.

When Minister Smith arrived yesterday morning he wondered at the degree of cordiality with which he was received. Then it turned out that he had been a member of Congress from the Thirteenth Missouri District. He is a lawyer, and was formerly a newspaper man. He will leave to-day for Port au Prince on the Prinz Sigismund. He succeeds Henry W. Furness.

"In Missouri things are looking pretty favorable just now," said Mr. Smith, in answer to a question. "W. L. Hensley, who represents my old district in Congress, will be nominated and re-elected. Business is good in that district. It is the biggest lead mining region in the world. The Guggenheims are largely interested there now, and many reduction plants are kept busy. Flat River, which is the largest town thereabout, has grown to a city of 10,000 inhabitants and several men have become millionaires. We raise good crops there, too, and the wheat and corn are fine this year."

LANE FATIGUED BY WALK.

Secretary of Interior Disobeys Physician and Suffers Slight Relapse.

BERKELEY, Sept. 17.—Against his physician's orders, Secretary Franklin K. Lane, of the Interior Department, walked to-day from the residence of Prof. A. C. Miller, where he has been staying, through the University of California campus and returned much fatigued.

"The heat of the past two days has been rather trying for Mr. Lane," explained H. A. Meyer, his private secretary, later. "Mr. Lane went out for a little walk, found himself oppressed by the heat, came home and rested. He was not ordered to bed.

"As soon as the weather gets cooler we expect to run down to Monterey for a few days, perhaps a fortnight's stay."

Wife Seeking Martin McGoff.

Mrs. Martin McGoff of 823 Campouse Avenue, Scranton, Penn., has written to THE TIMES for information concerning her husband, Martin McGoff, who, she fears, may have lost his life in the recent fire in the St. Nicholas Avenue acqueduct tunnel. When he left home he was to have taken a job in that tunnel or some other in process of construction. Since the fire in the St. Nicholas Avenue shaft, at 149th Street, some weeks ago, Mrs. McGoff has not heard from her husband, and she is anxiously awaiting some tidings of him at her home.

BAR CONFEDERATES FROM G. A. R. PARADE

General Order Forces Men in Gray to Leave the Line in Spite of Invitation to March.

NO SLIGHT WAS INTENDED

Prohibition Was Aimed at Corps of Women—Veterans See Missionary Ridge Fight Reproduced.

Special to The New York Times.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 17.—By an unfortunate error the Confederate veterans of the N. B. Forrest Camp of this city were disappointed to-day in their expectation of marching arm and arm with the Ohio veterans in the forty-seventh annual parade of the Grand Army of the Republic. Twelve thousand Federal veterans and sons of veterans were in line in spite of a misty rain, and Col. Henry N. Hanson, Commander of the Forsythe Post of Toledo, Ohio, had requested the ex-Confederates to join his detachment.

About twenty-five of them accepted the invitation and appeared in their uniforms of gray at Fountain Square. But just before the parade moved off a messenger came to Col. Hanson to tell him that Gen. Alfred B. Beers, Commander in Chief of the Grand Army, had ordered the Confederates out of the line, as it was against the rule of the Grand Army for any but Federal veterans to march with it.

It appears, however, that the order did not come from the Commander in Chief. When the incident was brought to his attention in the reviewing stand immediately after the parade he said:

"I did not order the Confederate veterans out of the parade. In fact, I did not even know that they expected to march in it. This is the first I have heard of it."

The General explained that some time ago he had issued a general order to the effect that no one but Federal veterans would be permitted to parade. Under this order the Ford Post Drill Company of Women from Detroit, who also expected to march with the veterans, were not permitted in line. In a statement explaining his position, Gen. Beers referred to-night expressly to this organization. He said:

"Yesterday I learned that there was a body of women here planning to take part in the Grand Army of Republic parade. I also understood that these women were from the State of Ohio. For this reason I called the attention of the Commander of the Department of Ohio to the following extract from General Order 10, which read:

"'Women and civilians are prohibited from participating in the parade, and Department Commanders are directed to enforce this order in their respective departments.'"

Gen. Beers added that he knew nothing of the invitation to the N. B. Forrest Camp, and it was excluded not "because its members were former Confederate soldiers, but because it was the policy of the Grand Army of the Republic to have only its members in the parade, with the exception of Sons of Veterans, who were officially invited to act as escorts."

The Confederate veterans when they marched into Fountain Square in their gray uniforms were cheered all along the line by the men in blue, and received a rousing ovation from the men from Ohio. They made no word of complaint when they were told they were excluded from the parade, and they marched away just as gallantly as they had appeared upon the scene.

Col. Dickinson, their Commander, said to-night he "regretted the incident very much, but I believe our comrades, and especially those in the Forsythe Post, were even more distressed. He held no ill-feeling toward the rank and file of the Boys in Blue. The Boys in Blue are with us and for us, and we are with and for them. To show that there is no hard feeling against any one of them we are tendering them an invitation to visit our camp to-morrow night."

As a matter of fact, half a dozen Confederate veterans in uniform were taken "prisoners" by Union veterans during the parade and, amid shouts of laughter, were forced to participate in it.

In the afternoon the battle of Missionary Ridge was reproduced with the aid of Federal troops and the National Guard, and at night there was a Grand Army camp fire in the City Auditorium.

7TH AVE. SUBWAY NEARER.

Commission Approves Form of Tunnel Contract.

Another step was taken yesterday by the Public Service Commission in the construction of the Interborough's Seventh Avenue subway. The form of contract was approved for the third section, which will begin under Varick Street a little to the south of Beach Street, and will run under Varick Street and the extension of Seventh Avenue as far as Commerce Street. It will be a four-track line.

As it has been arranged that the Interborough will provide the money for the construction of the Seventh Avenue line in order to meet the money already provided by the city for the construction of the Lexington Avenue subway, it is necessary for the company to approve the form of contract before the section is advertised for bidding. The contract was consequently sent yesterday to the company for its criticisms. It does not differ from the construction contracts already let except by the inclusion of a clause showing that the contractor must looke to the Interborough for his money.

When the company has return the contract with its approval the commission will submit it to the Corporation Counsel. When he also has approved it contractors will be invited to bid upon it.

PLATFORM FALLS WITH 700.

15 of Poughkeepsie High School Pupils Posing for Picture Hurt.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Sept. 17.—A collapsible platform, sixteen feet above the ground, on which 731 pupils of the Poughkeepsie High School were grouped for a photograph, gave way shortly after noon to-day and fifteen were injured. Twelve of the pupils were taken to the Vassar and General Hospital, most of them suffering from fractured arms and legs.

The platform on which they were standing was forty feet long and had been erected an hour previously. The entire school body had been grouped by Superintendent of Schools Shear and Schuyler Fox, Superintendent of the High School, and were looking directly at the camera when the crash came.

The platform folded up like a jackknife half closed, the middle portion sagging to the ground and the ends remaining in their original position. Into the V thus formed the 731 children were hurled.

An examination of the platform showed that none of the timbers had given way but that the bolts used to hold them in place had broken.

A CLASS FOR REPORTERS.

Students in New York University to Study Practical Journalism.

New York University will offer new courses in journalism at the opening of the school year on Sept. 25. One of the innovations will be a course in reporting and writing the news which will start at five o'clock in the afternoon and last until eleven. In case of emergency students in this class may be called upon to work until midnight or even late. Ample time will thus be afforded the students to report local news events as though they were connected with the city department of a daily newspaper.

A seminary course in magazine fiction will be given this year for the first time. Other new courses are trade journalism, newspaper law and newspaper making. Instruction will also be offered in newspaper verse, magazine [illegible]

NO CLUE TO WOODS MURDER

Woman in Black, Who Visited the Body, not Found.

Special to The New York Times.

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, Sept. 17.—The mystery attending the murder of the unidentified man whose body was found in a thicket at the foot of a cliff near Warburton Avenue, a short distance south of this place, last Monday, seems as far from solution now as at any time since the body was found. It was said yesterday that he might have been killed many months, it is said to-day it might have been a year.

No trace of the woman in black who visited the body several times has been found.

In the half rotted band of the hat that was found near the box yesterday the letter "S" was cut in. The hat was bought from Samuel Cassell of Rivington Street, New York. Mr. Cassell, who has been communicated with, says that it would be impossible for him to identify the man by the hat as he had sold hundreds like it.

On a glove found near the body was stamped the letter "T," presumably the trade letter of E. H. Timms, a Yonkers merchant. On one of the buckles of the trousers was found the name of Jacobs Bros., the New York tailors. So far none of these clues has proven of any value in identification.

Sheriff Doyle also is inclined to believe that a spread found near the body was taken there by the woman who, perhaps, intended to remove the skeleton in it.

An examination made by Dr. Gedney Jenks to-day revealed that the dead man suffered from curvature of the spine, and that one of his arms might have been palsied. The police are now investigating in the hope of finding a man so afflicted among those reported missing.

BRONX STOPS ON CENTRAL.

Changes Made Owing to Additional Electric Trains.

The New York Central Railway will begin on Sunday to change its motive power from steam to electricity on seven additional trains a day at Harmon instead of High Bridge. This will make a considerable difference to residents in the Bronx, who wish to travel by some of the company's fast trains between the Bronx and up State points.

At present they are able to get on or off at High Bridge, but now the stops there of the Empire State Express and the New Yorker are to be abolished. To meet their needs, the company has arranged that the Albany local express shall stop at High Bridge at 8:11 A. M., and Bronx passengers for northern points may take that. It will reach Harmon at 9 o'clock, and the Bronxites may there transfer to the Empire State Express, which leaves the Grand Central at 8:30 o'clock, and will reach Harmon at 9:17.

In the same way southbound passengers returning from up State by the New Yorker will alight at Harmon at 6:22 P. M. instead of at High Bridge at 6:55, and, taking the Croton train at 6:35, will arrive at High Bridge at 7:33 o'clock.

FIND ALICE HOPPER DEAD IN THE RIVER

New Jersey and New York Had Been Searched for Kearny Girl, Missing Since Sunday.

POLICE CALL IT A SUICIDE

Her Skirt Rolled Back and Filled with Stones to Sink Her—Drowned Near Home.

Alice Hopper, the 16-year-old daughter by adoption of Mrs. Sarah Hopper of Kearny, N. J., slipped out of the house at 183 Windsor Street early last Saturday evening and did not return. As she did not take either her hat or coat, it was assumed at the time that she had run in for a call upon one of the neighbors, and when it grew late the members of the household made a canvass of the neighborhood and telephoned all over town for some trace of her. Sunday morning came and no sign of the girl.

The responsibility fell upon the shoulders of her young cousin, John Lever, the senior member of the household, for Mr. and Mrs. Hopper are spending the Summer abroad. The young man had heard something of the disappearance of girls and, much worried, he went to the police. Before the day was over, the authorities of all the towns in New Jersey had been notified.

The search was extended to New York and the mail was watched eagerly for some word from the missing girl. But no news came until last evening, when Frank Bowers, working on a scow in the Passaic River at Harrison, a mile and a half below Kearny, saw Alice Hopper's body float by. He brought it ashore and the identification was quickly made by the initialed gold signet ring she wore.

When the body was lifted from the water, it was seen that the gray skirt of her frock had been caught up about the waist and tied back and, just as a woman carries things in her caught-up apron, so stones were distributed in the sack formed by the girl's skirt. They were such stones as might have been picked up anywhere along the river edge, and in the aggregate, of enough weight to hamper a swimmer, but not enough to keep the body at the bottom of the Passaic.

The Harrison police, pending the physician's examination this morning, made a cursory examination of the body but could see no sign of violence and were inclined to put this down as a case of suicide. This notion was scouted at the Hopper household, where her cousins insisted that she not only had no real reason to take her own life but had been quite her cheerful normal self, in all seeming, up to the time of her disappearance Saturday evening. They pointed out that she had been the busiest and gayest in the preparations for the party which was to have been held at the house in Kearny last evening to celebrate John Lever's coming of age.

They said, too, that the girl, while she knew most of the young folk of Kearny, had had no romance.

Alice Hopper was born Alice Rollinson, an English girl. Her mother died when she was a little girl and she and her younger sister were adopted by their aunt. They made their home with the Hoppers in Kearny, as did their cousins, the Levers, whose home in England Mr. and Mrs. Hopper have been visiting. The Passaic River is only three minutes' walk from the Hopper home.

WHITMAN WILLING TO HELP.

Suggests Longer Court Sessions to End Tombs Congestion.

District Attorney Whitman returned to his office yesterday after a two weeks' vacation and expressed his willingness to co-operate with the Judges of General Sessions in an effort to relieve the present overcrowded condition of the Tombs. Mr. Whitman suggested that it would help matters to keep the courts open longer, having the sessions last from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. instead of from 10:30 A. M. to 4 P. M., as at present.

There are now 387 prisoners in the Tombs awaiting trial by the General Sessions Judges. During the greater part of the Summer only two parts of General Sessions have been open. Since the return of Judge Swann on Monday three of the Judges are sitting. Judges Foster, Malone and Crain are having vacations, and the vacancy caused by Judge O'Sullivan's death has not been filled, owing to the Sulzer impeachment proceedings. Several of the Judges have expressed the opinion that there should be more Judges.

TOLD WIFE OF SUICIDE PLAN

Husband Laughed as He Quit Mrs. Herbst to Kill Himself.

Coroner W. B. Gibson of Huntington, L. I., will hold an inquest to-day into the suicide of Charles Herbst, a painter, of Kings Park, who killed himself on Tuesday.

Herbst had a fondness for collecting weapons of all sorts, and had a great variety in his home. He threatened to take his life, his wife says, and she removed all the firearms and other implements she believed he would be likely to use, but overlooked a .22-calibre rifle. Her husband found the rifle, laughed at her, telling her he was going down cellar to kill himself, and started down the stairs. She ran out in the yard, calling for help. She heard a shot, and a few moments later Mrs. Herbst and neighbors found Herbst with a bullet through his head. He died an hour later.

"Oh!--er--oh! You Know What I Mean"

Yes, he may—but why don't YOU? The idea is in YOUR mind, you know, and you can't always expect the man you're talking to, to be a mind reader.

There's a word that expresses just what you mean, and you ought to know it. In fact, you can't afford NOT to know it. For men don't like to do business with a chap that's afflicted with "mental stammering."

They like a man who knows what he has to say—and HOW to say it. And that's the kind of a man that gets along in life.

But that talking well is not a gift, remember. It's just the result of a habit—the Webster habit. Take a hundred men who talk well—men you like to hear talk—and the chances are that ninety of them have a Webster Dictionary where they can lay hands on it quickly, and that they go to it every time they're in doubt as to a word. It's just that habit that makes the difference. And you haven't any idea how a month's RIGHT use of a Webster broadens you and improves your talking. It puts new words in your mouth—new ideas in your mind. And it makes you a man that folks like to talk to, because you know HOW to talk.

There's no getting away from it—you HAVE to have a dictionary if you're going to keep on going ahead. Webster's Revised Unabridged Dictionary At $3.50 is a thorough reconstruction of the celebrated Unabridged—for so many years the recognized authority on the English langauge. And for home use or for the office, for your personal use or for the kiddies', it's just the Dictionary you'll want to own.

There's hardly a question you can put to it but what you will get the answer. For with a complete Dictionary, giving the orthography, pronunciation, etymology and definitions of the words in the English language, old and NEW, it combines a Gazetteer that gives the names, most important facts, and the most recent statistics of over 25,000 places—a dictionary of foreign names, quotations, proverbs and expressions—tables of weights, measures, coinages, etc.—many fine color plates, superb half-tone pictures and over 5,000 illustrations.

It's more than a mere Dictionary. It's a library—a complete library of knowledge, written by experts in every line of study. And at this startlingly low price of $3.50 you simply can't afford NOT to own one of the new Webster's Revised Unabridged Dictionaries.

Important

Webster's Revised Unabridged in law buckram is one of the most serviceable Dictionaries ever published. But for home use, especially where there are children who will want to move the book freely and consult it often, you very likely will prefer the Bible paper edition. This is a much handier book—lighter—thinner—easier to pick up and use—a book that doesn't look too big and imposing for the kiddies—and a book that you can keep in your lap while you're reading and save having to get up every time you want to know what a word means.

And it's a mighty fine book from the book-maker's view. Just 2½ inches thick—printed on the finest, tough, opaque Bible paper—with semi-flexible covers. Comes in handsome cloth binding at $6, and in fine leather at $7.00. And, by the way, that leather binding is a beauty. Get the clerk to show it to you. And remember, certificate saves you $1.50 on any binding.

You lift a load like this every morning

Perhaps you think you walk so little that it doesn't matter if the heels of your shoes are made of armor-plate leather, fastened with iron nails.

Suppose you walk down to your store or office—only a quarter of a mile. You take at least 440 steps in this short walk. You lift your entire weight with each step. If you weigh 150 pounds you lift the total of 66,000 pounds—33 tons—the weight of a loaded freight car.

EVERY ounce of this great weight must come down on your heels, as you pound along over the flinty pavements. Do you think it is good for your sensitive nervous system to undertake such a tremendous task with heels shod with hard leather and metal?

Remember that every step means a shock—when your weight strikes upon your heel the impact is carried directly to your spine; upward to the base of your brain; outward through every nerve in your body.

O'Sullivan's Heels of new, live rubber absorb the shock and relieve you of the strain. They are invisible cushions of springy rubber which last twice as long as leather. They give you an easy, light, graceful stride and the erect carriage and habit of deep breathing which naturally go with a step from which the burden and strain have been removed.

As a measure of comfort and health you need O'Sullivan's Heels on all your shoes. They cost but 50 cents a pair, attached, at all shoemakers. Some shoe manufacturers put them on your shoes before they leave the factory. All shoemakers and shoe dealers will attach them to your shoes when you buy them, or at any other time. Or, if you prefer, send us 35c in stamps, with a tracing of your heel, and we will mail you a pair.

YANKEES LEAVE LAST PLACE IN AMERICAN LEAGUE--LAWN TENNIS--HORSE SHOW--FOOTBALL

New Yorks, Wedged in Last Place Since Sept. 23, 1912, Begin to Crawl.

Under the cloak of falling night, when nobody could see what they were doing, the Yankees sneaked out of last place in the American League race by beating the White Sox in the evening game of a double-header at the Polo Grounds yesterday. They chose a bad time to do it, because this important moment has been anticipated by fans for almost a year. As it was, none of the 5,000 fans could penetrate the inky darkness of the Autumn gloom, and you'll have to take Silk O'Loughlin's word for it that the Yanks won by a score of 3 to 2 in seven and a half innings.

The White Sox won the first game by a score of 9 to 3, so there is no kick on a fair exchange like that, a fair exchange being no robbery, one may learn from the classics, unless the umpires have too much to do with it.

By winning the last game—not forgetting, of course, that the Athletics laid low the St. Looey Browns—the Yanks are now one single, solitary point ahead of the Missouri unfortunates. The Yankees sank woefully into last place way back on Sept. 22, 1912, when they were chaperoned by Harry Wolverton, the famous author of "Here We Go." The Yanks had been at the bottom even since, until darkness fell last night.

The Yanks played a fine game in that tussle in the dark. Silk O'Loughlin says so, and he was right up there behind the catcher and was the only one in the park who could see. The people in the stands stood and looked into the darkness and followed the thrilling moments of the struggle with their ears. You could hear Silk shouting at the top of his lungs, "Yourr're Out!" or "Yourr're Safe!" or Tommy Connelly barking from the infield "Out!" or "Safe!"

The worst of it was nobody in the stands could tell whether the umpires were right or wrong, and so there was no chance to call the umpires names. And baseball has come to a pretty pass, when the spectators can't tell the umpires when they are right or wrong. Why, think of it, There might have been a perfectly good fight out there between the players and the umpires and nobody would have seen it. That's how dark it was.

It's a terrible nervous strain sitting in the grand stand at a ball game without being able to see who is winning out on the field. The spectators stood it as long as they could and then one citizen could restrain himself no longer, so called out to O'Loughlin in the clear, deep tones of a fog horn:

"For heaven's sake, Silk, call the game. My wife don't know where I am and I've got to go home."

This was enough for Silk. He called the game.

Careful and conscientious investigation of what occurred in that second game reveals something like this: Ray Fisher was pitching for the Yanks and Eddie Cicotte for the Sox. In the first inning, Maisel singled and was forced by Holden, Whiteman rolled to Harry Lord, who tried to force Holden at second, but he threw the ball into right field and Holden went to third.

Williams pushed one on the carpet to Hal Chase, who threw Holden out at the plate. Cicotte tossed to Chase to get Williams napping, and Chase made a miserable throw to third to head off Whiteman. Whitey scored promptly.

The Sox tied it up in the second, when, with one down, Ping Bodie doubled to right and went to third on Chappell's single. Bodie and Chappell perpetrated a double steal, and Bodie tallied. In the last half hour of the same inning Gilhooley singled to right and went to third when Collins threw the ball back to second by way of the grandstand. Gilhooley while Peck was being tossed out at first.

It was pretty dark now and difficult to guess what was taking place. It seems that Cicotte was fired from the pitcher's job to admit a pinch hitter. Smith was also sent to the stands. With one out in this chapter, Gilhooley singled to centre and stole second. He went to third on Peck's infield hit and scored on Gossett's sacrifice fly.

In the eighth you could hear Silk O'Loughlin calling through the darkness, "Russell hitting for Smith." But you couldn't see him. The dull thud of wood against the horsehide was heard and news was relayed in that Russell had made a two-bagger to left. Another sharp whack and Weaver, it was announced, was on first base and Russell at third. Then, while Harry Lord was being exterminated at first, Russell galloped over with another Sox run. The next inning was settled without a struggle and O'Loughlin called the game.

In the face of that glorious midnight victory, the defeat of the first game amounts to merely nothing. No one cared to look at the dethroning of Russell Ford, but it was partly daylight then and the spectators couldn't help seeing it. The Sox blistered Ford for fourteen hits in seven innings, and then there was introduced for public inspection one Mr. Cy Pieh.

Mr. Pieh didn't come quite up to the standard of the best French pastry. His début lasted two innings, and in that time he gave four bases on balls, allowed four hits, and peeled off one life-sized wild pitch. Outside of that, he was there.

Ford was pounded hard in the seventh, and the Sox gathered three runs and four hits. Previous to that they had obtained two runs by the simple method of hitting the ball and running to beat the cars after they hit it. Chicago's ring-around-the-rosy game was greatly encouraged by huge Yankee errors, distributed here and there.

Pieh was hit hard in the ninth, and thought it wouldn't make matters much worse to give the Sox a few more runs. He walked Scott in this inning, and after giving him four balls he kept right on speeding over a few more balls until Umpire Connelly stopped him and allowed Scott to amble.

No, it wasn't much of a game, but the second one in the dark was an occasion which will go down in history. What does it matter if the Yanks had been in the cellar for one year or two years? They are out now, and Frank Chance says they will never go back. Knock wood. The scores:

Senators Lose Twice to Detroit.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Detroit inaugurated its farewell appearance of the season here to-day by taking both games of a double-header from Washington, 5 to 1 and 4 to 2. Bunching of hits in two innings—the fourth in the first game, and the first in the second—proved Washington's undoing. Outside of these two innings Detroit failed to score. The scores:

Cleveland Shuts Out Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 17. — Cleveland shut out Boston 2 to 0 to-day, many brilliant plays being made. Boston was in a position to score on several occasions, but Falkenberg refused to allow the needed hit. Chapman scored the visitors' first run when he went to second on Yerkes's bad throw in an attempt to make a double play, and crossed the plate on Jackson's double back to third base. Johnston, who forced Jackson at second, following the latter's single in the sixth inning, scored on a triple to right by Bates. Speaker captured a terrific liner from Graney's bat in the ninth inning with one hand, thereby cutting off an apparent home run. Capt. Wagner had his hand spiked by Falkenberg during the third inning, and retired in favor of Janvrin. Wood pitched the final inning. It was Wood's first appearance in the box for several months because of an injury. The score:

Three Hurt in Philadelphia Game.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—Batting rallies in the sixth and eighth innings gave Philadelphia a victory over St. Louis here today by 8 to 4. Manager Rickey assumed command of the St. Louis team this afternoon. Harry Davis, the veteran first baseman and former manager of Cleveland, got into the game through an injury to McInnis. Davis drove in the first run for his club and started the rally in the eighth with another single. Three players were hurt during the afternoon. Outfielder Clarence Walker of St. Louis had his forehead split by running into the left-field bleachers during practice. It was necessary to take several stitches in his head. Pitcher Brown of Philadelphia wrenched his knee fielding a grounder in the first inning. Brown then threw wild to first base, and McInnis, in trying to make a one-hand catch, collided with Pratt. Brown left the field at once, but McInnis, whose left arm was injured, remained in the game until the fourth inning. Shortstop Dinland, formerly of Atlanta, played his first game with St. Louis, while Outfielder Wallis from Kentucky, made his American League debut as a pinch hitter in the ninth inning and fanned. CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—"King" Cole, the former Chicago National and Pittsburgh pitcher, whose good work this year has been a factor in Columbus's play in the American Association, denied here to-day that he was displeased at being drafted by the New York Americans. On the contrary, Cole declared he would be glad to play with the New York Americans, and said he "would give them all he had."

PRISON FOR DIGGS AND CAMINETTI

Former Sentenced to Two Years for White Slave Offense, Latter to 18 Months.

HEAVY FINES IN ADDITION

Ten-Day Stay Granted to Perfect Appeal — Prisoners Object to Going to San Quentin.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Blaming their plight upon the laxity of social conditions, the lack of proper parental control, and the saloons and road houses, United States Judge Van Fleet to-day sentenced Maury I. Diggs to two years in the Federal prison on McNeill Island, Wash., and to pay a fine of $2,000, and Drew Caminetti to 18 months in the same prison and to pay a fine of $1,500.

This was the penalty imposed upon Diggs, ex-State Architect, and Caminetti, a son of the United States Commissioner General of Immigration, for violating the Mann White Slave act in taking Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris from Sacramento to Reno, Nev., for immoral purposes.

In designating the prison where sentence should be executed Judge Van Fleet first named San Quentin Penitentiary, a State institution. When objection was made to San Quentin, where Diggs and Caminetti would associate with housebreakers, highwaymen and pickpockets, he amended the sentence to read McNeill Island, subject to the concurrence of the Attorney General, which he did not doubt he should obtain.

A ten-day stay of execution of sentence was granted and for that period Diggs was admitted in $15,000 and Caminetti in $10,000. Meanwhile the defense will perfect an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Though he singled out Diggs as the leader in the escapade which ended at Reno, Judge Van Fleet declared that the difference in the verdicts did not mark any real distinction between their crimes. Diggs was convicted on four counts and Caminetti on one.

Sought to Mitigate Sentence.

Before sentence was imposed Robert T. Devlin, for the defense, argued that, should the sentence exceed one year, it lay in the discretion of the court to designate a State or a county jail, rather than a Federal penitentiary. But Judge Van Fleet said he could find no authority for such a contention.

Diggs and Caminetti both seemed unconcerned when sentence was pronounced. A few minutes later they laughed and chatted with the newspaper men over their plight. The mother and brother of Caminetti and the wife and father of Diggs were in court. The mother and father listened with bowed heads to Judge Van Fleet's words. Mrs. Diggs stared blankly at the Judge, giving no sign that she realized what his words meant. Mrs. Drew Caminetti has left the city and returned to her parents.

"This was a crime of opportunity," said Judge Van Fleet in passing sentence, "I mean that the laxity of social conditions and the lack of parental control made it possible. All through this case there is evidence that drink had its paralyzing influence upon the morals and the minds of these men and the young girls with whom they went on that trip to Reno. The terrible, debasing influence of the saloon and the roadhouse is too disgustingly apparent, and I make the observation here that society must pay the price for permitting the existence of these highly objectionable places.

"This does not help me to exculpate these defendants. I agree with counsel that the degree of the offense committed by these men is not as grave as in cases where men transport women from one State to another for purposes of gain. The act originally did not contemplate cases of this character."

National Notoriety.

In the two trials both Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris testified for the prosecution and both wives for the husbands. The defense's chief effort was to show that there had been no criminal intent; that the elopement to Reno was an "escapade" to which the men and girls were driven by fright of scandal and the threats of their families.

Prior to the trials the cases jumped suddenly into national notoriety when John L. McNab, United States District Attorney, resigned, saying in an open letter to President Wilson that political influence was being brought to bear on the Attorney General to prevent the cases from coming to trial. McNab's resignation was accepted by the President in a brief note reprimanding him for breach of discipline. Special prosecutors then were named and the trials began on Aug. 5.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Federal Judge Landis to-day, in sentencing Frank Schultz, a vaudeville singer, and Alec Heiser, a bartender, convicted of bringing two girls from Detroit to Chicago for immoral purposes, in violation of the Mann White Slave act, to one year in a Federal penitentiary, characterized them as "typical panderers" and declared they were a "disgrace to their sex."

DEAD IN AN OPEN LOT.

Children Played Around Francis Pearn, Thinking Him Asleep.

A middle-aged man was found by school children yesterday morning lying dead, face down, in a vacant lot in Tremont Avenue, near the New York, New Haven & Hartford tracks. The children had seen the same man there the day before, but had said nothing about it, for they thought he was asleep, and after amusing themselves by tossing pebbles at him they had gone on their way.

The dead man was found in the same Bronx precinct where "Big Tim" Sullivan was found, and Detectives Landvoe and Johansmaher, mindful of the trouble that had come to the detectives who had so sorely bungled that case of identity, went to work with thoroughness on this new one.

They took the hat manufacturer's name and the laundry mark, which consisted of the name "Pearn" in indelible ink, and with the two clues soon established the dead man's identity as Francis Pearn of 205 Casse Place, Brooklyn, a court clerk, who had been missing from his home since Sunday, when he went to the Bronx to visit a son in the Catholic Protectory.

There were no signs of violence on the body, and it is believed that he died of kidney troubles. He was 56 years old.

REV. H. R. BATES'S WILL.

Estate of $50,000 Left to Aunt, Sister, and His Widow.

The will of the Rev. Herbert Roswell Bates, formerly pastor of the Spring Street, Presbyterian Church, who died in Peru on July 16 while on a tour of mission inspection, was filed for probate in the Surrogates' Court yesterday. From his estate, which is said to be worth $50,000, he gave $20,000 to an aunt, Mrs. Ella A. Holmes, and $10,000 to his sister, Mary Rhodes Bates of Buffalo. The residue he bequeathed to his wife, Mrs. Edith Charlotte Talcott Bates of 71 West Eleventh Street.

Mrs. Edith C. Bates is the daughter of James Talcott, the wealthy banker and philanthropist, who is one of the founders of the New York Christian Home for Intemperate Men and a Trustee of the Young Women's Christian Association of New York and of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. A friend of the family said yesterday that it was at his wife's request that Mr. Bates, when pastor of the Spring Street Presbyterian Church, always returned his salary to the church treasury. Mrs. Bates is the sister of Mrs. Warner M. Van Norden.

SYNOD HEARS HARVEY CASE.

Hold Secret Session on the Charges Made by Dr. A. B. Leavitt.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 17.—The General Synod of the United Presbyterian Church of North America, in session at Ocean Grove, considered to-night charges preferred against the Rev. Joseph L. Hervey, pastor of the Enfield Street Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn, formerly pastor of the Washington Heights Presbyterian Church of Manhattan. The charges were brought by Dr. Alvin B. Leavitt, a dentist, of 248 Audubon Avenue, New York City, who was an elder of the Washington Heights Presbyterian Church. In general, they accuse the minister of untruthfulness in his relations with the Washington Heights Church, and in particular of being a member of the Long Island Lodge 382 of the Masonic Order, in violation of a denominational law forbidding Presbyterian ministers to belong to the Masonic order.

The Judiciary Committee of the synod, after considering the charges in secret session, adjourned till to-day without reaching any conclusion.

About a month ago Dr. Harvey brought suit for $25,000 damages against Dr. Leavitt and these nine other elders of the Washington Heights church: Thomas A. Sewart, James Hart, Robert C. Burgess, Walter P. Cuthey, Bert E. Marshall, Winfield W. Robinson, Samuel M. Hanley, Robert H. Ruth, and Howard M. Danforth. He sued also to collect the salary which he said was due him after he had been succeeded in the pastorate of the church by the Rev. R. W. Kidd. He charged that at various times he had been called "a serpent's tooth."

Dr. Leavitt brought a counter suit for slander, alleging that Dr. Hervey had referred to him as a receiver of stolen goods and a consort of thieves.

The papers of both suits were laid before the Judiciary Committee of the Synod to-night. The Synod is the highest governing body of the Presbyterian Church next to the General Assembly.

JURY BELIEVES THE POLICE.

Finds Brooklyn Bookmakers Guilty Despite Lawyer's Attack.

Emmanuel Cohen, also known as "Manny" Cohen, and five others, who were arrested in a raid made in May last on the Windsor Club, in Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, were convicted yesterday of bookmaking after a trial before Justice Jaycox in Part V., Supreme Court, that borough. The others convicted were William Feele, Abraham Cohen, Ellis Marshall, James Reagan and James Brook.

Testimony against the defendants was given by Detectives Rickson and Jessop, who took part in the raid. They got inside the club and testified that they had seen gambling.

Dr. Philip A. Brennan, counsel for the defendants, attacked the testimony of these witnesses. Turning to the jury, he asked: "Who would believe a policeman?" He answered the question himself, saying "nobody." The attorney said that the case against the defendants was a frame-up. He also criticised the anti-gambling law, because he said it enabled policemen to graft.

Assistant District Attorney Warbasse, in summing up, called Brennan's arguments "the usual popular tirade against the police."

"He calls our witnesses blackmailers and grafters," said Warbasse, "without an iota of proof for his assertions. There has not been a person to contradict the testimony of the two policement, whose records are without a stain. Racing charts, paying of money to the winners, and gambling were seen."

The jury after deliberating a short time returned a verdict of guilty against all the defendants.

JAIL TERM WON'T HELP HIM.

Court Holds Roberts Can Be Sentenced Again for Not Paying Alimony.

Failure to pay alimony pending trial and failure to pay alimony ordered at the end of a divorce trial constitute two separate acts of contempt of court, Supreme Court Justice Delany decided yesterday in the case of Theodore Roberts, the actor. On account of his failure to pay $400 temporary alimony Roberts spent six months in Ludlow Street Jail.

This jail term Roberts thought absolved him from further payment of alimony, and when he was called upon to pay $1,750 alimony which had accrued in his confinement, the actor refused. Justice Delany held that Roberts could be sent back to Ludlow Street Jail for another six months if he refused to follow out the court's decision. Roberts will appeal.

75 In World's Baseball Tour.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Seventy-five persons will go on the around-the-world tour to be made next Winter by the New York Nationals and the Chicago Americans. President Comiskey of the local club announced to-day that there would be fifty in his party when the steamer sails from Vancouver Nov. 19, and the New York delegation will number twenty-five. Each tourist's fare will amount to at least $1,500, but there will be many minor expenses in addition. Each player will be required to post $300 to guarantee his appearance on the ship, but the money will be refunded when the boat sails. Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants and Comiskey to-day completed a payment of $2,2400 to cover part of the expense, and on Oct. 10 will make a payment of equal amount, which will carry the party to Port Said.

NO BREAKFAST TEA, IMMIGRANT CHARGE

MADE BROADER COMPLAINT

Inspector's Testimony That He Feared to Report Bad Food Not Supported by Records.

The first written complaint from an immigrant to be placed before the Commission of the Department of Labor since the investigation of the Commissary Department at Ellis Island was started two weeks ago, was received yesterday. The complainant, John Clark, an Englishman, who arrived on the steamship Carmania on Sept. 4, accompanied by his sister, Margaret, stirred up the Department and the Bureau of Immigration because he had been deprived of tea fo rbreakfast. His sister became ill, and is now in the hospital, and Clark was temporarily detained pending her recovery. On Sept. 9 Clark wrote a letter to his brother, Joseph, at Bridgeville, Penn., in which he made this statement:

Sister Maggie is in the hospital. Well, Joe, this is the worst place I've ever seen; they feed you here like a lot of cattle. I am half hungry; sister Maggie is half hungry. Do not write back, for it is waste of time to Ellis Island.

After the letter had passed through official channels of the departments at Washington, it was referred to Byron H. Uhl, the acting commissioner of immigration at this port, and then went to the commission. It looked serious, so the commission called in Percy A. Baker, the superintendent and government inspector of the immigration dining room, who had questioned Clark about his complaint.

"Clark told me that he had asked for tea for breakfast, and some one gave him coffee," testified Baker. "Clark said the food was all right, though the cooking might be a little different from what he was familiar with. I ordered that he have his tea, found out that his sister would soon be able to leave the hospital, whereupon he thanked me and said he had no further complaint to make."

Superintendent Baker, questioned further by Examiner Taylor, said he had never had a complaint about the immigrant food at Ellis Island, except on Aug. 1, on the visit of the investigators from the Bureau of Municipal Research, when his attention was called to some meats which were pronounced unfit for food by Alfred W. McCann, Dr. McCombs and others of the party. Baker said he had no personal knowledge of the condition of the meats complained of on that date.

"I examine the immigrant food daily, tasting it at meal times, and always found it good; I would have reported it otherwise."

"Did you ever receive instructions to report food apparently unfit for the table?" asked Mr. Taylor.

"Never."

In reply to Attorney Hardy for the Bureau of Municipal Research, Baker said the immigration employes had no secret organization, but most of them were members of the United States Immigration Service Beneficial Association.

William Bock, an inspeceor in the registry department at the Island, who had told the commission he was "pounded" because he had made a report of unfit food ten years ago, and thereafter refrained from making similar reports for fear of "more pounding," failed yesterday to substantiate his charge. The files did not contain his alleged report, though search for it was made as far back as the time the buildings at the Immigration station was destroyed by fire.

The commission found that Bock's transfer by ex-Commissioner Williams had nothing to do with his reduction in salary, which was made by the Keep Commission, appointed by President Roosevelt to readjust salaries. A number of other witnesses testified to the serving of good food to the immigrants by the present contractors.

Chairman Hughes and his associates of the commission late yesterday afternoon made an inspection of the railway terminals on the Manhattan and Jersey shores, waiting rooms for immigrants, and the accommodations provided by the railways for the transportation of immigrants, who are sent from the discharging station at Ellis Island in barges.

Iron Founder's Estate Goes to His Daughter and Grandchildren.

George William Quintard, founder of the Quintard Iron Works, who died on April 2 at his home, 922 Fifth Avenue, left an estate which is valued at $2,220,285 in the report filed yesterday by the Transfer Tax Appraiser. Mr. Quintard's assets were divided into bank accounts, $237,354; insurance, $4,061; promissory notes, $69,200; loan to the Quintard Iron Works, $110,000; realty, $163,000; personal chattels, $81,000, and securities, $1,623,594.

The largest beneficiary under the will is Mrs. Laura Adele Palmer, a daughter, who receives $942,561. George W. Quintard, a grandson, receives $235,940; Frances A. Safford Carnochan and Florence E. McGregor Rowland, granddaughters, receive $236,016, and other grandchildren get legacies ranging from $5,000 to $30,000.

The most valuable holding of stock in the appraisal was 2,093 shares of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, valued at $398,589. Other investments in securities included 720 shares of the Pennsylvania Railroad, $42,840; 1,450 shares of Reading Company first preferred stock, $66,337; 500 shares of United States Steel preferred stock, $54,125; $117,000 in bonds of Louisiana & Texas Railroad; $50,000 each in bonds of the Ann Arbor Company, the Erie Railroad and of the municipality of New York, and $20,000 in bonds of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Mr. Quintard, it was shown in the Appraiser's report, was a heavy investor in stocks which were scheduled as being of nominal value. Among these were 1,000 shares of the Steam Syphon Company, par $10; 2,000 shares of the Fulton Mining and Manufacturing Company, par $10, and 8,332 shares of the River Famine Gold Mining Company, par $100.

The decedent's steam yacht Saranac was appraised at $500. In regard to this the estate's executors said that the boat had been out of commission for seven years because no buyer could be found. Mr. Quintard also owned 4-64 part interest in the schooners Rachel W. Stevens and Ellen G. Folwell. These interests, the executors said, had not been purchased as investments but in order to help the ships' captains when they became impoverished. Each interest was appraised at $400.

The realty held by Mr. Quintard comprised the southeast corner of Twelfth and Dry Dock Streets, valued at $33,000, and property at the intersections of Avenue D and Eleventh and Twelfth Streets, $146,730.

WOMAN KIDNAPPER INSANE.

Maria Rappa Accuses Attendants of Trying to Poison Her.

Maria Rappa, the woman who was convicted with Stanislao Pattenza of kidnapping 5-year-old Joseph Longo, and was sentenced to twenty-five years in Sing Sing, was declared insane yesterday by Judge Dike in the County Court, Brooklyn. She was then committed to Matteawan.

The Rappa woman became insane in the Raymond Street Jail while awaiting a new trial on the kidnapping charge. A commission, consisting of Dr. Anna M. King and Dr. Theodore Adlerman, was appointed three weeks ago to observe her. Judge Dike questioned the prisoner. She told the court that the attendants at the jail tried to poison her. She said they beat her, bound her and then gave her poison to drink. Pattenza was sentenced to forty years in Sing Sing. The Appellate Division reversed the verdict, and at the second trial he was acquitted.

Traffic Club Golf at Haworth.

Sixty or more members of the Traffic Club of New York ran off a series of competitions yesterday over the links of the Haworth Country Club. Gross and net prizes were awarded in two classes of the handicap. There was a tie for the net trophy in Class A between G. A. Page and H. E. Maynard, with respective cards of 90, 20—70 and 88, 18—70, Page winning the eighteenth hole match play-off by 1 up. W. E. Conklyn won the gross prize with 84. In the second set I. S. Fife, with 101, 26—75, was the net winner, while the gross went to E. D. Rapp with 95. A competition over three holes was run off for beginners, and J. A. Trumble won with 27. Mrs. W. J. Klugg with 33, 5—28, was successful in the women's putting. A special prize was offered for Traffic Club members who are also affiliated with the Haworth organization. G. A. Page was the

ENGLISH GOLFERS BEST AT BROOKLINE

R. S. McDONALD IN A TIE

Cincinnati Professional Equals Reid's Score of 151—J. T. Travers Far Down List with 165.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 17.—Great Britain has yet to lose its supremacy in the world of golf, even though now defending that title in the stronghold of the "enemy." Edward Ray was as good to-day as was his compatriot Harry Vardon yesterday at the Country Club, Brookline, for he led the field in the second day's qualifying play for the national open golf championship. His total, 148 for 36 holes, was three strokes better than the total with which Vardon topped the field the first day. In fact, there were two other scores yesterday that were equal to Vardon's figures of the first qualifying round, for Wilfred Reid of Banstead Downs, England, and R. G. MacDonald of Cincinnati had 151 for their total of the day.

Van Cortlandt Park in New York seems to be a pretty fair sort of training ground for golfers. Read what happened to Joe Sylvester in to-day's play—his total of 157 tied the total of W. Hagin of the Country Club of Rochester for fourth place in the field. Jack Hobens of Englewood had some hard luck in the afternoon, or he probably would have been right along with this pair. He lost a couple of strokes at the seventeenth hole through the interference of a photographer who was unacquainted with the etiquette of golf.

The field in to-day's qualifying round was faster than that of the first day, as was expected. Not only was this shown in the fact that the top score was three strokes lower and that two other scores were as good as Vardon's low figure of Tuesday, but it took lower scoring for the field as a whole to get in the qualifying division of 32. Scores which aggregated 170 were good enough Tuesday to bring eligibility for the championship proper, whereas to-day it took 166 or better to qualify. Four strokes is quite a reduction, especially in view of the fact that there was no appreciable difference in the condition for scoring.

The big gallery to-day—though not as strong numerically as that which followed Vardon yesterday was content to keep company most of the day with Edward Ray, who was partnered by Jack Hobens of Englewood. Some forsook Ray in the afternoon to troop along after Reid, in view of the latter's 72 in the morning, but those who stuck to Ray had the satisfaction of being with the winner.

They found Ray in the scoring mood both in the morning and in the afternoon, he making 74 in each round, and, what proved an additional pleasure, they found the Englewood professional keeping so well up with the Britisher's pace in the forenoon that there was only a difference of one stroke when the pair finished their morning activities, Hobens getting a 75. Another thing that made this pair interesting to follow was the manner in which Hobens kept well up to Ray in the driving. Beside Ray, Hobens looked small indeed, but those who noticed the forearms of the Englewood professional had no cause to wonder how he could get such splendid tee shots, even by comparison with the English giant. Hobens did not play quite so well in the afternoon, but he managed to keep his place well up with the leaders.

Jack Dowling of Scarsdale, who has made a host of friends since the young and sterling home bred came to the Country Club for practice, might have been up among the first four at the end of the day had it not been for just one hole. At the twelfth hole in the afternoon Dowling hit a tee shot which started off all right, but the ball took a sudden turn in its flight as if it suddenly had become lopsided, and its resting place proved to be in a deep footprint in a trap. Before he got the ball out of the trap Dowling had played seven, and he took it for the hole. He began the next hole badly, but he gritted his teeth, pulled himself together, and finished with an 85, decidedly respectable under the circumstances. With his 77 in the morning he had a total of 162, whereas even a 5 for the twelfth hole, assuming he had emerged from the bunker in one stroke, would have put him in a tie with Hagin and Sylvester. Whatever Dowling may do in the championship proper, it is a safe bet that he will steer clear of that trap.

J. J. McDermott, the national open champion, did not exert himself either morning or afternoon. He played a studied, cautious game, contenting himself with figures that insured qualification, but saving his reserve power for the real battle to come. His total for the day was 161. He had good company, for M. J. Brady, playing a trifle erratically, had the same total.

An amateur, Heinrich Schmidt, was another 161 man. The leader of the amateurs, however, was John G. Anderson, runner-up to Jerome D. Travers for the national amateur title. He had rounds of 81 and 76, with four putts on the seventh green the unnerving and as many for the tenth hole on the same round. Travers also qualified with 165, but was quite disgusted with his putting. The pairings for to-morrow are as follows:

Karl Keiffer, Royal, Ottawa, and Francis Quimet, Woodland; Dave Ogilvie, Morris County, and B. S. Evans, Braeburn; W. Maguire, Houston, and Matt Campbell, the Country Club; Alec Smith, Wykagyl, and J. R. Thomson, Phil County; Jack Hobens, Englewood, and Louis Tellier, La Boulie; H. H. Barker, Roe Buck, and George Sargent, Chevy Chase; J. G. Anderson, Braeburn, and J. M. Shippen, Maidstone; Fred McLeod, Columbia, and Fred Hereshoff, National Links; Herbert Strong, Inwood; A. H. Murray, Kanawaki C. C., and Wilfred Reid, Barnstead Downs; Jack Dingwell, Stanton Heights A. C., and Otto Hackbarth, Hinsdale; Walter Hagin, Rochester C. C., and Joe Sylvester, New York Golf; J. M. Anderson, Commonwealth, and A. G. Lockwood, Allston; Jerome D. Travers, Upper Montclair, and Walter Fovargue, Skokie; P. Doyle, Myopia H. C., and Tom Vardon, Onwentsia; Charles Thorn, Shinnecock, and Tom Kerrigan, Deshon; W. MacFarlane, Scagkill, and D. Black, Riverhead G. C.; Norman Clark, Westmoreland, and MacDonald Smith, Wykagyl; Harry Vardon, South Herts G. C., and Tom Bomar, Mecklenburg C. C.; Gilbert Nicholls, Wilmington, and J. J. McDermott, Atlantic City; J. O'Brien, Westbrook, and R. G. MacDonald, Hyde Park C. C.; W. C. Fownes, Jr., Oakmont, and Elmer L. Loring, Aredia; Harry Hampton, North Andover, and George Cumming, Toronto; Jack Cooke, Calumet, and C. R. Murray, Montreal; Tom Mulgrew, Otsego, and Jack Dowling, Scarsdale; Edwin Towns, Hartford G. C., and Carl Anderson, Winthrop; Alec Ross, Braeburn, and Jack Hutchinson, Allegheny; Robert Andrews, New Haven, and George Low, Baltimore; M. J. THE DANGER OF HASTE.

Chairman CARTER GLASS says in his report of Sept. 9 that the work of the Monetary Commission has "little "bearing on the present state of "things in the credit market," and that in the publications of the commission "there is practically nothing "of original value or of direct aid "bearing upon the details of remedial "legislation." We make bold to say that if Chairman GLASS had not had before him a copy of the Commission bill he would have been quite unable to prepare his bill, or at least this bill in its present form. The general structure of the Commission bill was borrowed bodily, and many sections are taken over in large part without change of phraseology. Full Government control and the substitution of Treasury notes for National Reserve Association notes are, of course, original with the authors of the present bill.

We have an impression which it would require some evidence to remove that the Monetary Commission bill was prepared with fuller knowledge, a clearer understanding of banking and currency problems, and with greater diligence and care than the present Federal Bank Reserve bill. It was not a perfect measure—undoubtedly it would have been materially amended before enactment—but it was a beginning. It put before men engaged in banking and in business, before the whole country, a definite plan. Vague discussion of needed reforms gave place to the study of a specific measure. The present bill is one of the fruits of that study. The present state of public opinion and the now general belief that a bill must be passed are directly traceable to the work of the commission.

Let merit be acknowledged where acknowledgment is due. The Monetary Commission bill had merits, the present measure has very great merits. It has been much amended, and most of the amendments have made it better. Its defects, its departure from sound principle and practice, have been made evident. It is for that reason that men who are best able to foresee the deplorable consequences of error in so important a law have become convinced that the risk incurred by the postponement of the bill until the regular session would be almost negligible compared with the far greater peril involved in error and oversight due to haste. The bill is in some of its sections crude. It ought to pass under the revision of men highly skilled in drafting legislative bills, and the suggestions of change made by the bankers should have much more careful consideration than they have yet received. Postponement for a few months will give time and opportunity for the scrutiny which ought to be given to a bill creating a new banking and currency system. It would be perilous, it would be foolhardy, to rush to enactment a measure objected to by responsible authority on the ground that the attempt to put it in operation would invite a disturbance of the country's business.

REPUBLICAN PARTY REFORM.

There is no reason why the Republican Congressional Committee should not try to reform the machinery of the party. It is quite as representative a body as the National Committee, and its members are probably better informed as to the sentiment of the party. And the dullest and most stubborn of standpatters must admit that the party machinery badly needs reforming.

The first and chief point to which those in the committee direct their efforts is the establishment of representation in the National Convention on the basis of the actual voting strength of the party in each State. This is stoutly resisted by those of the members who owe their power to the old, bad, and rotten system, mostly Southerners. But the reform is just and urgent. It was all very well, from the sectional point of view, to give the South far more votes in conventions than the Republican strength warranted so long as the North could keep the party in power. That can no longer be done, and the revolt against the corrupt machine rule will keep the party out of power unless, and until, that gross abuse is done away with.

The other measures of reform are in line with this, but less important. One is that delegates to National Conventions elected at primaries in accordance with the laws of their respective States shall be seated. There is no good reason why they should not be. We think direct primaries for the choice of delegates are a pretty poor device for getting the best representations, and they would be no defense against machine manipulation, but where the State law provides for them it should obviously be respected. The same is true about the State laws regulating the choice of National Committeemen. Neither of these sets of laws will bring in a political millennium, but the managers of any party will be very foolish who flout them when a considerable portion of the party insist on them.

The plan of the reformers in the Congressional Committee aims at a truer representation of the voters of the Republican Party. That is an aim that every sincere Republican must desire to attain, and every sensible citizen of whatever party will wish that it may be reached. The difficulties in its way are great. The spirit of greedy chicane which opposes it is not confined to any faction. It was just as strong, as reckless, and as indecent in the Roosevelt faction last year—and is yet—as in that of the standpatters; but every honest effort to overcome and defeat it is commendable.

SULZER AND MURPHY.

To The New York Times:

I do not care to renew my subscription to THE TIMES till after the Sulzer trial is finished. The attitude of THE TIMES in its combining with MURPHY to the crushing of SULZER is very offensive to me. Even granting the truth of all the charges that are made against the Governor, the peril to the State from those who are pursuing him is ten times greater than from the Governor himself, and the pressure of THE TIMES's censure ought to rest primarily at the point of greatest danger. C. H. PARKHURST.

Lake Placid, N. Y., Sept. 15, 1913.

Does the Rev. Dr. PARKHURST really believe that THE TIMES has combined with MURPHY to "crush" Gov. SULZER? Does he believe that the entire press of the city is acting in combination with MURPHY to effect that purpose?

Even if it be true that the peril to the State from the operations of Tammany is ten times greater than from the Governor himself, is there no way to combat Tammany save that of condoning all of SULZER'S faults and marching to the fray behind that inspiring leader, brandishing in one hand his Wall Street margin accounts and in the other his incomplete affidavit of campaign receipts and expenditures? Because MURPHY is known to be a sinner, must the Sulzer transgressions one and all be overlooked? Would there be no moral harm in suppressing the impeachment charges because of the need of belaboring Tammany?

Clerical ethics are sometimes past understanding. A Brooklyn minister told his congregation the other night that SULZER must be honest because he had exposed Tammany graft. These contentions are baffling to reason and morality.

THAW AND THE LAW.

Federal Judge ALDRICH could find nothing in the books, Mr. JEROME had found nothing in the books, bearing upon the question whether a State holding in custody an insane person may successfully demand of another State the extradition of that person on the charge that he has committed a crime in conspiring to escape, insane persons not being supposed to be capable of committing a crime because they do not know the nature and quality of their acts. Therefore Judge ALDRICH at Littleton, feeling, as he said, "that the case involves a novel proposition," simply suspended action on the writ of habeas corpus pending the action of the Governor of New Hampshire in the extradition proceeding. If the Governor grants extradition, therefore, action may still be taken before Judge ALDRICH under the habeas corpus writ to put further obstacles in the way of THAW's return to Matteawan.

Sometimes when English and American Judges find nothing in the books they put something in the books by a decision that becomes law and establishes precedent, until overruled. Here is a man who has killed a human being. Acquitted of the charge of murder on the ground of insanity, the sentence of the court was that he be confined in Matteawan until he became sane. Three times in habeas corpus proceedings the attempt has been made to show that he was sane, and has failed. According to the records of courts of New York the man is insane. Under the full faith and credit clause of the Federal Constitution we suppose the New Hampshire Executive would hardly raise the question of THAW'S sanity. Federal Judge ALDRICH does not raise that question, though he suggests that it may be taken up, but he distinctly does raise the question whether it can be admitted that THAW'S conspiracy to escape from Matteawan was a crime, he being, according to Mr. JEROME'S contention, still insane. Is not this spinning the thread of legal theory pretty fine? Is it imperative, is it necessary, that so plain a case thin-spun theory shall obstruct or defeat the process duly begun in the public interest? Who would have criticised Judge ALDRICH had he declared that the cause of justice, of public interest, and the rights of the prisoner would not be prejudiced by leaving the matter in the hands of Gov. FELKER, and that being a matter between two sovereign States he saw no reason for the interference of a Federal court? And if the matter of THAW'S mental condition had been referred to at all, would it have been improper to ask THAW'S counsel whether they supposed that Mr. THAW did not know the nature and quality of his act in laying and executing plans for escape from Matteawan? Or if Judge ALDRICH had swept aside points of law so fine as to be indistinguishable from comminuted tomfoolery, and had declared that inasmuch as the man before him was a maniac known to be so dangerous that the public safety demanded his return to custody in the State of New York, he could see no reason for taking action which might lead to any other disposition of the case, who would have found fault with him or his law?

The marvel of the bedevilment of the law by THAW and his money grows more strange from day to day. Even the crowds cheer for him in an idiotic way, although it has been supposed that the plain people resented marked difference in the treatment of a rich offender and a poor offender.

THE COST OF LIVING.

The statistics just furnished by the United States Bureau of Labor, showing actual prices for May and June, 1913, and for May and June, 1912, record little diminution. Of fifteen articles for which quotations are given, bacon advanced 16.1 per cent. within the year; smoked ham, 14.1 per cent; pork chops, 13.4 per cent.; hens, 11.8 per cent.; eggs, 11.7 per cent.; round steak, 10.1 per cent.; sirloin steak, 9.8 per cent.; lard, 7.2 per cent.; rib roast, 6.8 per cent.; butter, 5.8 per cent., and milk, 4.1 per cent. But the fact that potatoes declined 31.9 per cent., sugar 13.2 per cent., wheat flour 7.7 per cent., and cornmeal 3.9 per cent., may indicate that the reign of high prices for necessaries has culminated.

The prices of foodstuffs consumed by the families of workingmen were at a higher level on June 15 than at any other time during the last twenty-three and a half years, excepting Nov. 15, 1912, when they were slightly above it, but on June 15, 1913, prices had increased to an average of 59.2 per cent. above the prices for the ten-year period from 1890 to 1899, and 14.4 per cent. above the prices of June 15, 1911. A decrease in tariff rates from an average of 45 per cent. to 26 per cent. on all foreign goods taxed, should have an effect in reducing or wholly checking the rise in the cost of living. Ultimately, of course—since the competition of foreign materials and labor will be felt in proportion to the margin of reduction—prices ought to go down.

HUMAN HEREDITY.

In his popular lecture during the session of the British Association at Birmingham, entitled "Recent Work on Heredity and Its Application to Man," Dr. LEONARD DONCASTER, who heads the Museum of Zoology at Cambridge, said:

> The question in its under bearing is probably more important than those over which political parties rise and fall, and it is not unlikely that our descendants will look back on this generation in amazement for wasting its energies over matters which to them will seem trivial, while a problem of this magnitude is waiting for solution.

Defective mentality, for example, is inherited, with strong tendencies to epilepsy and alcoholism. The Prohibition Party, which is founded to destroy alcoholism, has never taken cognizance of this fact. Dr. DONCASTER opposes to the common belief that feeble-mindedness in children is due to excessive drinking on the part of parents, the equal possibility that "the craving for alcohol is a symptom of weak-mindedness," and is caused by it. It is of supreme importance to an individual, far exceeding his interest in politics or finance, that he should avoid marrying into a family that transmits one of the abnormal mental qualities. If he, also, belongs to such a family, all his children might in that case be feeble-minded. This is one of the reasons for the objection, which has crystallized into law, against the marriage of first cousins.

Deaf-mutism is almost certainly a hereditary character. The daughters of a color-blind man will have normal daughters, but color-blind sons, and other afflictions of the eyes, such as night-blindness and nystagmus, which causes the eyes to move rapidly to and fro in a horizontal direction, may be transmitted in this peculiar manner from grandfather to grandson, together with deficient pigmentation of eyes and hair. There are heredity taints "in the blood," which are handed on to the children, whether they are of rich or of poor families.

The problems of eugenics, excepting for the simplest and most obvious, have yet to be worked out. Already the British Government has recognized their importance in its inquiry into the validity of the suspicion that the English people are deteriorating mentally and physically. The time will surely come, we think, when Governments will decide that money spent on research in the field of sound human breeding is quite as much for national defense and betterment as money spent on dreadnoughts or armies.

COLD STORAGE.

A report of the Department of Agriculture estimates the receipts into cold storage in the United States during one year at 131,000,000 pounds of fresh beef, 20,000,000 pounds of fresh mutton, 176,000,000 pounds of fresh pork, 157,000,000 pounds of butter, and 10,000,000 cases of eggs. None of these products was kept in storage over ten months.

Cold storage has been abused. Rightly conducted, it is a measure of national health and economy, since it provides a variety of foodstuffs in such a way as to make their prices moderate and stable. There is no glut, there is no famine, during the smooth working of the system. The Journal of the American Medical Association approves the findings of the Government with respect to the chief commodities stored for future consumption, and agrees with the conclusion of the Government expert that the business of the food warehouseman has been "of incalculable benefit to consumers."

IMPORTING A PLAGUE.

The letter from ALEXANDER KONTA, printed elsewhere, demands the serious attention of the Government, the medical profession, and of all good citizens. According to our correspondent not enough precautions are taken by the immigration officials to exclude from this country the black plague, the seriousness of which we have only just begun to recognize, a chief cause of insanity and the crime it brings with it.

That the percentage of recognized and excluded cases of lues in the latter-day immigration is far higher than it was a quarter of a century ago is one of the statements made in the voluminous report of the Senate Committee on Immigration, published last year. It may be safely assumed that the disease has always entered this country, but it is as safe to assume that it never before reached its present volume. It is to a large extent a filth disease, and the standard of cleanliness among the ignorant, backward immigrants of the present day is deplorably low.

If the control of the disease at Ellis Island is really lax, it is high time that something should be done. It is the first duty of the Government to protect the nation against contamination, and any means to this end are legal, or can be made legal without difficulty.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Gangsters Promptly Bailed Out.

What would have been a primary election day entirely dull and uninteresting acquired something of excitement through the proceedings of rival gangsters who for hours rode in automobiles from polling place to polling place in one part of the city, systematically terrorizing presumably honest citizens and voting in their names. As nobody else interfered with them, either through pure love of sport or better to earn their pay, these instruments of our renovated politics twice drew their "guns" on each other and, with characteristic disregard for the innocent bystander, engaged in brisk interchange of bullets. Then the police woke up and arrested a few of the ruffians.

Were the prisoners alarmed or did they languish long in confinement? Not at all! They waited in dignified silence and composure for the help they confidently expected. It came promptly, in spite of the fact that avowable excuses for sympathizing with their predicament and assisting them out of it are practically unimaginable. And to make their immediate bailing out the more mysterious, it was done by two "leaders," one of them long known throughout the city as an active Republican, and the other a Tammany man of fame limited to his own district, but still not obscure.

From this proceeding, observers unfamiliar with the established customs and recognized duties of district leaders might draw the conclusion that the giving of bail for such fellows was little if anything less than cynically open confession of having employed them to do work as "repeaters." That inference is not entirely justified or safe, however, for in districts like this one it is not the fashion for leaders to make deep, or even any, scrutiny into the cause of a constituent's arrest before going to his rescue. He does it as a matter of course, and draws no character lines as to the nature of either the offense or the offender.

Even on that understanding, however, this bailing was sufficiently remarkable to be provocative of serious thought as to the present state of our local politics. The temptation to apply to the episode in all its phases and implications the epithet venenifluous is irresistible, for it certainly reeks with poisons highly dangerous to the community in which it occurred.

Desperate Chances Were Taken.

One is in doubt whether to view with wondering admiration or just plain wonder the courage shown yesterday by our aged and estimable neighbor The Tribune in printing on its first page a story about a lost watch. The story was good—there's no denying that, if the right sense of the many which "good" posesses be selected and stuck to—but we know what THE TIMES's readers would have thought if we had "stood for" that tale, and we are deeply apprehensive as to possible consequences to The Tribune.

The tale came—unaccompanied by affidavits, apparently, for no reference to them is made—from a special correspondent down in Uniontown, Penn., and was to the effect that ALBERT MILLER of Chalk Hill two years ago dropped his gold watch into a swiftly-running trout stream, and there it remained till this week, when Mrs. MILLER, happening to walk along the bank gathering wild flowers, saw something glisten on the sandy bottom, reached down and recovered the missing timepiece. All that is plausible, and of a measurable, though mild, interest. The shock comes with the succeeding statement that the watch, after its long submersion, was still running and marked the correct hour of the rescue!

Mrs. MILLER'S theory—Mr. MILLER seems not to have been consulted—is that the rapid movement of the water in the brook had somehow kept the watch wound up. Whether The Tribune's correspondent or The Tribune itself accepts this explanation is not stated, either in the dispatch or editorially, but none other is suggested. Hence the conclusion that both of them do is hardly to be avoided.

Now, though Republicans will believe almost anything, we feel sure they will not believe that. The difficulties in the way are even greater than those that oppose acceptance of the theory that foreign manufacturers pay the duties on the wares they send us, and Republican credulity is no longer what it used to be. Hence the justification for fears that The Tribune is in for trouble. Exclusion from the mails will probably be spared it, but there must be grave loss of reputation, which is the most valuable form of capital.

A Privilege Open to Objection.

Down in Maryland the Democrats are advocating a change in the State Constitution that will, it made, relieve the vote-seller from fear of any punishment except that which his own conscience may or may not inflict upon him. Present penalties for vote-buying, it seems, are not to be abolished—not yet, at any rate.

The proposed distinction between bribe-giving and bribe-taking has at least the charm of novelty, for not a suggestion to make it was ever even offered, so far as can be recalled, in any country. However, something can be said in favor of the plan.

Bribe-givers are always few, while brike-takers are sometimes many. Perhaps they are in Maryland, and it is embarrassing to a State when, as happened not long ago in Ohio, large fractions of the voting population escape imprisonment only by confession of crime, and even in that way do not escape the humiliations and deprivations of disfranchisement. With some plausibility, too, it can be held that the sin of the bribe-taker is less, as his need is greater, than that of the bribe-giver. Probably it is, sometimes, but not everybody would like to accept leniency on the ground of being a moral imbecile or wholly uninstructed as to civic proprieties and obligations.

Those are the terms on which immunity for vote-selling is offered to the Marylanders, and there will be interest in seeing whether they take it or not. One rather hopes that they will scorn the offered boon.

NOT AN IMMORAL PLAY.

Mrs. de Forest Replies to Prof. Muensterberg's Article.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

After reading Prof. Muensterberg's six columns through carefully, I was so impressed by the fact that his comments did not apply to "The Lure," although he mentioned that play specifically by name, that I telegraphed him to ask whether he had seen it. I received the following reply yesterday: "No; my article concerned only with principles, not with particular play."—Hugo Muensterberg.

After reading THE TIMES editorial saying that "Prof. Muensterberg deals only with positive scientific facts," it was a keen disappointment to wade through six columns of mere opinions, and a still more amazing revelation to find that the learned Professor had calmly branded "The Lure" as filled with sexual thoughts, sexual instruction, and sexual emotions, without ever having seen it. He goes on to enumerate a lot of problems with which the jury judging "The Lure" will be faced—problems that would never enter into the heads of people who had seen the play. Is this scientific?

"The Lure" does not give sexual instruction; it does not appeal to the sexual instincts; there is not one thrill from the beginning to the end of it. There is no "lure" about it. "The Lure" would have done to white slavery what "Uncle Tom's Cabin" did to black. It deals with one phase of white slavery, the preventable causes which lead girls into prostitution, namely, economic necessity, false offers of marriage, and actual kidnapping. Prof. Muensterberg states that "in another fraction of cases material need pushes a girl into the path of misery." A fraction might be anything up to the whole. The Bedford Reformatory placed it at 14 per cent., but Havelock Ellis, in his "Psychology of Sex," places it much higher. What does Prof. Muensterberg mean by a fraction? Whatever the fraction is, it is surely worth saving. Although the problems which Prof. Muensterberg discussed were not in "The Lure," as he thought, they are, all the same, very interesting. He starts out by criticising the reformers for always choosing the physical instead of the psychological means of prevention. To this many of us agree. But imagine my amazement in reading the sixth column to find that the Professor advises the following remedies:

> Reintroduction of puritanical discipline.

Pray, are these psychological preventives? Does Prof. Muensterberg really think that a girl who has been kept away from wholesome contact with boys and subjected to puritanical discipline and ignorant of sex relations, except for "those feelings of shame and decency which belong to the steady learning of a clean child," is well fitted to withstand the temptations of the world? Anyhow, what proportion of the boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 18 does he think he will separate by doing away with coeducation? Does he really think the majority of boys that go wrong between those ages have had relationships with their schoolmates?

Where are those much-heraled facts to support his claim that the abolition of coeducation in high schools and colleges would lead to less immorality? Does he claim that co-education at Cornell, for instance, has led to immorality? Does he claim that Vassar women are more moral than Cornell women? When a man of Prof. Muensterberg's prestige makes a statement that "co-education is unfit in high schools and colleges for the eastern part of the nation in the atmosphere of to-day," he should be called upon to give in full the statistics on which it is founded. The unjust condemnation of a play he has not seen is a trivial matter in comparison to this branding of the great principle of co-education.

Prof. Muensterberg starts out by saying that he is on the unpopular side. I sincerely hope so, as to my mind the application of his remedies for immorality would be a disastrous failure. They have been tried in Europe since the dawn of history, and surely European morality is not to be bosted of.

A Dangerous Elevated Platform.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to call the attention of the Public Service Commission through the medium of your columns to an accident which occurred last week on the elevated platform at Fourteenth Street and Third Avenue, and which resulted in the death of a student of Stuyvesant High School.

This is a very busy station, and is used a good deal by the students of Washington Irving and Stuyvesant High Schools. At certain times there is an unavoidable rush and push on the platform. The platform is a narrow one. No guard rails are provided, hence the danger to life and limb. Why wait for more victims?

AN IMPORTED PLAGUE

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The hidden disease, a danger, so we are told, to the very existence of the race, has been dragged into the light. The conspiracy of silence that has so long been maintained has been broken. It has become a duty to speak about it in all its phases. It is for this reason that I wish to draw attention to the laxness in this regard of the medical examinations of immigrants at Ellis Island.

That syphilis is being imported into this country by the immigration from Europe is proved by the percentage of the aliens in our insane asylums. That it is a disease which hides easily in its later stages, that even the average general practitioner finds it difficult to recognize it by surface indications, is a well-known fact. Even the specialist has to resort to a complicated and expensive test, which is reliable positively, but may, at certain periods, betray him negatively. But in its first stage the disease is unmistakable, and readily recognized. The weekly examination in the barracks of military Europe proves that. Is such an examination of immigrants made at Ellis Island? I have never heard of it; in fact, I know that it is not made. The public health is not safeguarded at the gate. The great destructive power of this disease lies in just this: that the sufferer usually takes treatment at the beginning, and then believes himself cured.

I am writing as a layman who has made a long study of immigration questions, but before writing this letter I consulted a physician, who confirmed my opinion of the steadily rising percentage of this disease among immigrants. What can be done to safeguard the health of the nation as much as possible?

Would it not pay this country to station specialists at our chief ports of entry to examine and exclude at least the more serious cases in their later stages, which now go unperceived?

AMERICAN ADVERTISERS.

Want a Chance to Show Their Skill at the Leipsic Exhibition.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The world is looking to the United States as its instructor in almost all branches of advertising. Advertising men throughout Europe acknowledge our general supremacy, though rightfully claiming for themselves leadership in certain branches of the work.

Yet the United States Government has so far withheld its support from American participation in the coming Leipsic Exhibition of Graphic Arts, where advertising in all its branches will play so prominent a part.

As Chairman of the Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs in charge of the exhibit of advertising at Baltimore, I know the avidity with which makers and users of advertising accept an opportunity to show their material, and I know the great stimulus which resulted from our showing, beside the best products of American advertising skill, selected specimens from Great Britain and the Continent. Many of these showed a degree of character and technical skill rarely equaled on this side of the Atlantic.

So, as an advertising man, I cannot conceive that the Government will not finally be aroused to a participation in this commercially important exhibit. Then Americans identified with advertising interests will gladly take the chance to teach Europe to come to us for advertising material, as they already do for advertising inspiration.

THE LATE PROF. VAMBERY.

A Friend Tells of His Love for Hungarian Music.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just read your fine tribute to the memory of my dear friend, Prof. Vambery. After reading it I felt prompted to add a few lines of my own to your tribute, acquainting you with Prof. Vambery from a side that perhaps no other American has learned to know him.

The little incident I refer to was told by him in the following way:

One evening I was in the company of a good many dervishes, who were relating folk lores, queer stories from the mountain strongholds of Tibet. I listened to these stories with much interest, but as the night drew close I became weary and lay down to rest in my tent. As if in a dream I heard some one singing a quaint melody, one that resembled my favorite Hungarian song so greatly that I jumped to my feet and rushed to the entrance of my tent. I stood there dazed for a few moments, looking about for the source of the mysterious echo. Alas! it was in vain, for the beautiful melody was but a part of my dream.

From that day on I had to overcome the great desire of humming this song very often, for, as you know, I was playing the part of a dervish, and the least sign of detection would have perhaps cost my life among those fanatics. For years I roamed in parts where no Western civilized man has ever been, but through all my struggles I have carried that melody with me, and it served as a balm on many an occasion, when I was weary of my trials and losing hope of ever seeing the land of the Magyars.

We sat at the open window, overlooking the mountains of Budapest. Prof. Vambery gazed over them for a few moments, then, as if anxious to be carried back again through the scenes of his youthful roamings, he took me by the arm, led me into his salon, where he was surrounded by thousands of mementos and relics of those strange lands and asked me to play the quaint melody that appealed to him stronger than all the masterpieces of the great composers. Perhaps never before in my life was I inspired to play as I did then, for within me arose foreboding shadows that this was the last time I would meet this great man. And, sure enough, my playing proved to be a farewell song to him.

Antidote for Poison Ivy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of the article in this morning's TIMES telling of the prevalence of the poison ivy vines at the Van Cortlandt golf links, the writer (long a victim of the plant) has been saved many hours of torture and misery through the use of the following lotion: One pint Jamaica bay rum, one tablespoonful powdered boric acid, ten drops carbolic acid, and one teaspoonful baking soda. This formula was obtained from a high medical authority some years ago, and since that time I no longer dread coming in contact with this very poisonous vine.

A Pankhurst Plot.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Among other wild antics planned by Mrs. Pankhurst and her followers recently was a plot to damage irretrievably the lights in various lighthouses on the English Coast. Two important flashlights on the Channel were temporarily put out of commission before the plot was discovered. Had this diabolical plan succeeded and a liner full of American tourists been lost, would this have constituted moral turpitude?

ALL ARMOR BIDS REJECTED.

Unless Combination Yields, Contract May Go to Foreign Concern.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Secretary Daniels to-day finally rejected the armor plate bids received from the Midvale, Carnegie and Bethlehem Steel Companies, which were identical. It is not the Secretary's purpose to readvertise for new bids. Under the law he has authority to invite new offers by mail. The Secretary will keep the matter in his own hands. He has relieved the Bureau of Ordnance from responsibility in regard to it.

Thus far the Midvale, Carnegie and Bethlehem companies have not responded to the invitation of Mr. Daniels to give him information as to the cost of making plate. At the Navy Department officers say that the notification soon to be sent out means that the Secretary will give the contract for heavy plate to a foreign concern if he does not receive a bid that he thinks honest from an American concern. They said it was expected to be the last chance of the American manufacturers to get a contract for plate for battleship No. 39.

Secretary Daniels said to-day that he had no intention to shut out the American bidders but would "give them a chance to return while the lamp held out to burn." But he does not expect that they will bid again with any modification of their prices. The result will be, it was said at the Navy Department, that all the contracts for Classes A and B steel, which are plates up to five inches in thickness, and bolts will go to new firms.

CHANCE FOR ARMY CULPRITS

Garrison Has Plan Reinstating Those Jailed for Military Offenses.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—A tentative plan for restoring to the status of army recruits the enlisted men confined in the military prison at Leavenworth, Kan.; Alcatraz Island, Cal., and Fort Jay, N. Y., is embodied in a general order signed by Secretary Garrison to-day. Its aim is to segregate felons and misdemeanants from prisoners who are under sentence for purely military offenses, and organize the latter into companies and battalions under military discipline and training while in prison.

The men eligible for this privileged condition will not be compelled to work with prisoners found guilty of felonies. They will be housed in separate buildings and have a separate mess. They will also be permitted to give military salutes to their officers and to converse with each other while at work. Their tasks will be greatly lightened, and they are to wear a distinctive uniform without facings or insignia and of an obsolete pattern. Their rifles will have the firing pin removed, to be restored only when target practice is required.

Secretary Garrison is hopeful of imbuing into such military prisoners a spirit of self-helpfulness and finally lead them to acquire settled habits of well doing. He has found officers at every post he visited the last Summer favorable to this policy of leniency and willing to co-operate with him in carrying it out.

FEDERAL COURT RELIEF.

Favorable Report on O'Gorman Bill to Aid the New York Judges.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Senator O'Gorman's bill to relieve congestion in the New York Federal Courts by the temporary importation of District Judges from other circuits was favorably reported to-day by the House Judiciary Committee. The bill, which has passed the Senate, is approved by Attorney General McReyonlds and is being urged by United States Attorney Marshall of New York, where a great amount of litigation is overwhelming the Federal Judges.

The Attorney General discussed the situation and the provisions of the bill with President Wilson, and found him in sympathy with its purpose. The measure would permit the senior Circuit Judge of the second circuit to designate District Judges of other circuits to sit in second circuit courts to dispose of crowded calendars when their own work was not pressing.

WILL OBEY EXPRESS ORDER.

But Companies Ask Longer Time to Prepare Lower Rates.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Application was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission to-day by the express companies for an extension of time in which to put into effect the new express rates ordered in August. It was represented to be impossible to comply with the order by Oct. 15, the time named.

Walker D. Hines, speaking for the five large express companies, expressed their willingness to comply generally with the order and to put in the proposed rates. He suggested, however, certain modifications not affecting the order in principle.

Little doubt exists that the commission will grant the application for an extension.

FOR OUSTING WOODEN CARS

Bill in Ordering Roads to Withdraw Such Coaches from Use.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Representative Allen of Ohio has introduced a bill providing for the compulsory withdrawal from use of all wooden railroad coaches in five years, or twenty per cent. each year.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, under the bill, would supervise the change.

Another Railroad Suggestion.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with much interest the letter from your esteemed correspondent of New Rochelle, in which he suggests running collapsible flat cars in front of and at the rear end of trains.

The idea is most stimulating.

Why not go a little further and make a good job of it? I suggest collapsible cars and locomotives. At the moment of impact, for instance, each car will rear up into a sort of conning tower. Simultaneously each passenger will have set before him, automatically, bandages, coffee, tea, or spirits—according to whichever he may have ordered before leaving the station—and a pretty stenographer all ready to take down his statement while he enjoys the view of the surrounding country from his vantage point. All this at the railroad's expense.

SICK TRANSIT.

ON THE GAME TRAIL.

Game hunting in the woods of Maine
Is healthy sport, and great.
The chief thing, though, to guard against
Is coming home as freight.
For really, of an absent friend
It is most sad to hear
This message sent in by a guide—
"Mistaken for a deer."

Now, in this great, progressive age
There's surely one who can
Invent a scheme to tell a deer
From the pursuing man.
The man might sound an auto horn
Once ev'ry minute, say,
And wear a hunting suit with bells—
Deer don't appear that way.

Of course this plan might scare the deer
And make them vanish far,
But then the hunter could return
Aboard a Pullman car.
He might not bring home any game,
Yet he would have more fun
And thankful be that he escaped
The other fellow's gun.

INCOME TAX CLAUSE A BOND SALE CHECK

Bankers Point Out That Collection "at Source" Must Restrict the Foreign Market.

INJURY TO WHOLE COUNTRY

A. J. Hemphill Heads a Committee Which Will Try to Have Objections Removed in Conference.

The collection of the income tax "at the source" of the income so far as possible, as provided by the Underwood Tariff bill, will not only put an enormous burden of work on banks, trust companies and other corporations, but will militate against the sale of American securities abroad, in the view of prominent New York bankers.

A committee representing the trust companies is endeavoring to have these provisions modified in conference, where the Underwood bill now is. This committee consists of Alexander J. Hemphill, President of the Guaranty Trust Company; Otto T. Bannard, President of the New York Trust Company; Edward O. Stanley, Vice President of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, and Calvert Brewer, Vice President of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company. Joseph M. Hartfield, of White & Case, is counsel.

"Some of the administrative provisions of the proposed income tax law in their present form will have a much more serious effect upon the prosperity and business of this country than is generally appreciated," said Mr. Hemphill yesterday.

"It is certainly not my purpose, at this late date, to quarrel with the principles of the income tax, or with the rates as provided in the bill, but there are two economic propositions generally conceded by the thinking business men of this country that the provisions of the law overlook.

"The first is that the United States is not yet a lending country. It is necessary for it, in the development of its resources, to borrow money from foreign countries, and a very large amount of the bonds of railroads and other corporations are now held by institutions and individuals living in foreign countries.

"The second point is that the ability to sell securities abroad is not a sectional matter peculiarly helpful to New York, but each and every part of the country is affected. I am a great believer in the undeveloped resources of the Southern and Western portions of this country, and any legislation that prevents the sale abroad of well secured first mortgage bonds will seriously retard the development of these resources.

"The provisions to which I refer are the so-called 'stoppage at the source' provisions, which provide that in all cases where the bonds are not issued under a contract which requires that the payment of interest shall be made without deduction by reason of any tax imposed the corporation or its agent must reserve one per cent. of the annual interest until it is determined whether or not the owner of the bond is required to pay an income tax or has paid the tax due to the Government.

"Investments can be obtained abroad, paying almost the same rate of interest as American securities. In my opinion there is no question but that if the law in its present form is passed many holders of American securities will attempt to dispose of them, and that hereafter it will be more difficult, if not impossible, to sell securities abroad.

"Of course, criticism without a suggestion of an alternative plan is never helpful. The Government can, however, entirely safeguard the collection of the tax from residents by substituting for the 'stoppage at the source' plan a means of 'information at the source' by requiring any bank or trust company receiving coupons for collection to obtain the name of the owner of the bond, and this information should be immediately furnished to the Government.

"This amendment, while assuring the Government full knowledge of all persons owning bonds, so that no bondholder properly taxable can escape his obligation, will also inure to the advantage of the small holders of securities in this country. It is unfortunate, and works a hardship that a man with an income of $2,900 or less a year should have a portion of his income retained by the corporation until he, by affidavit, has proved that he is not a taxable person. Under the plan suggested above, no part of the income would be retained, but the Government would have definite information as to just what bonds were owned by him."

One of the specific provisions of the bill that the bankers believe will injuriously affect the market for American securities abroad is that requiring them to withhold the tax in paying interest on bonds which are owned in foreign countries but are left in their possession in order that they may collect the coupons and perform other services for the owners. The income tax laid by Great Britain does not apply to securities held here and many English investors have put money into American bonds for this reason. Many millions of such securities, it is estimated, are held by the banks and trust companies here. If they are to be subject to our own income tax, this special inducement for the investment of funds in this country will be gone.

The House bill originally contained the provision for taxing the income of non-resident aliens from securities held for them in this country, but when its probable effect was pointed out the provision was eliminated. In the Senate it was put back again in different form and is now contained in the bill, as it went to conference. The present provision is "that the tax herein imposed upon individuals with respect to their incomes shall likewise be levied upon all interests as such which may be due or payable to any non-resident alien, subject to the exemptions and deduction provided in this section, which shall be made at the source in his behalf."

IMPERATOR HERE WITH RECORD CROWD

859 Passengers in the First Cabin of the Hamburg-American Liner.

GREAT CRUSH ON THE PIER

Throng So Large the Porters Have Difficulty in Getting Baggage Off the Ship.

The Hamburg-American liner Imperator, with 4,981 passengers, arrived last night at her pier in Hoboken. Her 1,492 cabin passengers came ashore soon after 8 o'clock. When the passengers filed down the gangways from the first and second cabins they looked down upon a sea of upturned faces on the pier, to which 2,000 persons had been admitted by ticket to meet their relatives and friends. The crush was so great that it was very difficult to find any one, and the porters could not make their way along with the baggage. As all the heavy baggage, which included 5,500 trunks aand fully 6,000 pieces of smaller baggage, had to be all landed in slings or carried by porters and stewards, it was more than two hours before it was all out of the ship. When the revenue cutter arrived alongside the Imperator at Quarantine the customs officials and immigration Inspectors were allowed to go on board by special permission of Health Officer O'Connell, before the ship was cleared, in order that they could get through their work before the ship docked.

There was less delay in inspecting the baggage of the 859 first-class passengers on the Imperator, which is the greatest number ever brought to this port on one ship, than there is usually on one of the liners arriving with one-third of the number.

Eight Inspectors sat at small tables in the Rose Room or social hall on the sun deck and as the passengers walked in they were interrogated and had their landing tickets stamped without any crowding. Four Immigration Inspectors were detailed to examine the 633 passengers in the second cabin in the same way. In the small drawing room leading off the social hall Acting Deputy Collector Sprague, who was in charge of the customs on the ship sat at a table to interview the persons on board who made such declarations which duty had to be paid to a considerable amount. It was said later that about $25,000 was collected in duties, and the highest declaration did not amount to more than $3,000.

The passengers were all very pleased with the ship and said that the decks were not overcrowded. For the first two days after sailing from Cherbourg, they said, the Imperator encountered a heavy head sea, and practically no one of the passengers were seasick, but after that the weather was perfect. Passengers who had crossed theAtlantic more than 100 times in ships of all sizes said that no shipbuilder, however skilful, could design a vessel that would be impervious to the heaving of the ocean. The Imperator's runs from Friday noon to Wednesday noon were 524, 536, 531, 522, and 536 knots. She made the passage from Cherbourg at an average speed of 22 knots an hour.

There was a ball on Monday night in the rose room, and 500 men and women were present, whose accumulated fortunes were estimated to amount to close upon a billion dollars. They stood around while Maurice, the teacher of the tango and other modern dances in New York and Paris, danced a tango with his wife and a new dance which he called a skating waltz. The floor of the ball room was so slippery when the carpet was taken up that the men had to waltz with rubber tennis shoes on, and it was decided to replace the carpet.

Judges, lawyers, bankers, merchants, and doctors were among those in the first cabin, and it was noticeable that owing to the size of the ship there had been little intercourse between the passengers on the voyage, except among the doctors who had been to London to attend the International Medical Conference in August.

Among the prominent passengers were J. S. Bache, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Baruch, Edgar Baruch, Mrs. J. W. Baruch, Mrs. O. G. Bigelow, Dr. and Mrs. Henry George Biggs, George B. Biggs, Harry S. Black, A. Donald Brandeis, Miss Leole Brandeis, Miss Helen Clark, Dr. and Mrs. John Watson Cox, John Watson Cox, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Crocker, James Cutting, James Deering, John R. Drexel, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Elliott, Judge and Mrs. Elbert H. Gary, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Garver, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Gerard, Mr. and Mrs. Malvin Gutman, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. A. Hall, Col. and Mrs. George Harvey, Miss Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Heinz, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Horwitz, John G. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pratt Judson, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Morawitz, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Plant, Dr. Judson Daland, Mr. and Mrs. M. Schwartz, Miss M. Scott-Jarvie, Robert E. Strawbridge, Mr. and Mrs. J. Stindler, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Swarts, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Marion L. Taylor, Louis C. Tiffany, Mr. and Mrs. R. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wise, Mrs. William Vanderbilt, jr., and Mrs. Henry Payne Whitney, Miss Flora Whitney, Larry Waterbury, and Isaac Gimbel.

JUDGE GARY OPTIMISTIC.

Chairman of Steel Corporation Says Trade Outlook is Bright.

Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, returned last night from a trip of ten weeks in Europe on the Imperator much benefited by his rest and optimistic view the business outlook for this country in the immediate future.

In an interview with the reporters in the imperial suite as the liner was coming up from Quarantine to her pier, Judge Gary said that there was a better spirit in America to-day in regard to general business conditions and that there could not be much the matter with a country that took nine billion dollars' worth of crops out of the ground in a single year. With regard to the tariff the head of the Steel Corporation said that he did not think it would be wise on his part to discuss that question at present.

In speaking of the condition of business abroad Judge Gary said that he had spent his time motoring through France, Germany, Italy, Holland and Belgium and had visited London. He did not meet many of the leading steel men over there but from what he heard the state of industry was pretty good.

"I think that all lines of business throughout Europe and Great Britain," he said, "were very much affected by the Balkan war. There was a general feeling of depression due to the war and the public seemed to be afraid of the near future.

"Before I came away, however, the news that the war was ended caused things to brighten up everywhere and business in Europe will soon regain its normal footing and be as brisk as it was before the Balkan war disturbed things.

"France was still distrustful of American securities. Foreigners do not seem to understand the attitude of Congress in interfering in business affairs and they are very much afraid. They think it very strange that the government should undertake to control matters that are purely financial."

"The death of Mayor Gaynor came to me as a great shock," said Judge Gary, "and in my opinion the City of New York lost a great man. Mr. Mitchel is a nice, bright young man, but Whitman would have been the strongest candidate the Fusion Party could have nominated to run against Tammany Hall. I think now that McCall will be elected Mayor."

"What do you think of Secretary of State Bryan's appearance in a tent show with yodlers, acrobats, jugglers, conjurors, and musicians?" he was asked.

After carefully helping himself to a couple of hot house grapes from a plate beside him on the table and taking a small bite of chocolate, the steel magnate looked at the reporters and then replied, "I think the same you do."

In regard to the Mexican affairs, Judge Gary said that he had talked with public men abroad in every country he had visited and found that they were all in sympathy with the United States and would support the Government at Washington in any movement it deemed necessary to adopt to restore peace to the republic.

MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT ARRIVES

Suffrage Leader Entertained Mrs. and Miss Pankhurst in France.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont returned yesterday on the Imperator from a stay of four months in Europe. She said that while in Paris she met Christabel Pankhurst and asked her to stay with her and her daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough, at Deauville, the fashionable French seaside resort. Mrs. Pankhurst visited her there, too.

"I cannot see why," said Mrs. Belmont, "the immigration authorities should refuse to admit Mrs. Pankhurst, as she is only going to deliver lectures here and does not intend to become a resident. Before Mrs. Pankhurst went to France the last time the question came before the Chamber of Deputies and the Deputies decided to admit her at once. It would be foolish of the Federal authorities to exclude her, as she is the brainiest woman in the world to-day.

"Suffrage is getting along in England, and there is only one man there in the way of its becoming law and that is Asquith. The militants have made a lot of trouble for the Government, and I believe that later on Asquith will get tired of it all and let the women have their way."

Mrs. Belmont said that she would be at her office at suffrage headquarters, 15 East Forty-first Street, at 10 o'clock to-day.

SCARLET FEVER SAFEGUARD.

Rubbing Patient with Eucalyptus Oil Prevents Contagion.

Dr. J. B. Murphy, the noted surgeon, who cared for Col. Roosevelt in Chicago when he was shot, returned yesterday on the Imperator from London, where he attended the International Medical Congress. It was demonstrated at the meeting that rubbing the patient with eucalyptus oil in scarlet fever cases prevented contagion, he asserted. "If a child is rubbed daily with the oil directly the case of scarlet fever is discovered," he said, "no one else will contract the fever, and there is no need of going to the expense of quarantining the house or separating the child suffering from the fever from its parents. The discovery made by Dr. Henry Head of the London Hospital was that insanity eradicates itself in the third generation."

Dr. Murphy added that it was agreed at the congress that the work of the Colin F. Huntington Research Fund in the mouse cancer test was the greatest advance made toward curing cancer in the last fifty years. Other doctors on the Imperator who had attended the congress were Dr. Hudson Daland of New York, Dr. E. Laplace, Dr. J. A. Witherspoon, President of the American Medical Association; Dr. V. Morawitz of the Rockefeller Institute, Dr. Morris Manges, Dr. S. J. Meltzer, and Dr. Bernhard Mohr.

20 INVADERS FAIL TO STIR VENEZUELA

ALL FRIENDS OF CASTRO

Grasping Governor of Province Slain by Natives Deprived of Right to Collect Rubber.

News of an invasion of Venezuela which had not reached New York, and of a desperate slaughter in the Indian district on the Orinoco, was brought here yesterday by an American who is in business in Trinidad and in eastern Venezuela, and who, for the latter reason, does not wish his name given. The invasion took place during the recent troubles arising from the report that Castro was in the Caribbean, starting another revolution.

The invasion was planned in Port of Spain, Trinidad, and the invading force numbered just twenty. When the reports went about that Castro was about to start a revolution and wanted all his adherents to flock to his standard, these twenty who had been waiting in exile for several years for something to happen, chartered a small motor boat, and armed themselves started across the intervening forty miles to the mainland.

The main object of the expedition was to attack the nearest Venezuelan Custom House, but the attacking force never got anywhere near it. Federal troops were waiting for them at the place where they had planned to land, so they went a short distance along the coast and took to the bush when they were shot at. About half of them were killed or captured, and the rest, after being chased about for a week, during which time they almost starved to death, gave themselves up.

The Governor of a province on the Upper Orinoco had the right to collect and sell rubber, and the grafting man and the late incumbent had succeeded in making a great deal of money for himself and his friends. Of course, he kept other people from making money out of the same business. After that the people who lived in the region had considered they had a right to collect rubber too, decided to take the law into their own hands.

The Governor and his rubber collectors were at the time in the jungle about 200 miles above Ciudad Bolivar, and between forty and fifty men banded together and started after them. In the middle of the night they surprised the Governor and his party and murdered every man in the outfit. Nothing has ever been done to apprehend those responsible, it would be next to impossible to fix the guilt.

"There is little going on in Eastern Venezuela just now. One Canadian gold mining company is working at Imataca, but none of the agricultural and lumbering enterprises that a few years ago were planned for the region at the mouth of the Orinoco have come to anything as yet.

"The 'revolution' in Venezuela did not amount to much. There were only two places, one in the State of Coro and the other at Puerto Cabello, on the Peninsula of Paria, where there was any disturbance whatsoever. The people in Coro have been on the verge of starvation. It is a sterile place under favorable conditions, and there have been severe droughts. Many people have escaped, and that the announcement that Castro was starting a new revolution would arouse enthusiasm and cause many to flock to the standard of revolt, but the people down there had almost forgotten Castro.

"In Trinidad the sugar crop has been bad the last two years, owing to dry weather, the frog hoppers, and other pests. The cocoa crop is not good, and business generally has been poor, and money very tight. There are about 300 Americans on the island, a few of whom are planters."

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Potatoes Spoiled on Arrival; Must Still Pay Full Duty.

The Board of United States General Appraisers, overruling a protest by J. & G. Lippmann, Inc., held yesterday that the customs tribunal has no authority to compel the New York Board of Health to supply to importers promptly the dates on which vegetables unfit for human consumption were destroyed. The question arose over 1,658 bags of potatoes which upon arrival at this port were seized and destroyed by the health authorities.

Collector Mitchel exacted full duty, although it was conceded that the vegetables were not entered into consumption. The Collector asserted that the importers failed to notify him of the destruction within the twenty-four hours specified in the tariff law, and the importers testified that they made repeated inquiries at the pier as to whether the goods had been seized. Information was refused until several days after the potatoes were destroyed. Judge Waite, deciding, held that the General Appraisers have no jurisdiction over the Board of Health, and that the importers were liable for the regular duty.

The request of Secretary Palmer of the Board of Education that the examination to be given to 1,000 engineers, Grade 1, be held this week has been denied by the Municipal Civil Service Commission. BARS INSURANCE CONCERNS

Four Stopped from Being Business by Delaware on Fraud Complaints.

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, Del., Sept. 17.—Four fire insurance companies chartered under this State have been ordered from doing business in this State by Chancellor Curtis on the application of the State. It was charged at a hearing that none had only $100 in assets to pay liabilities of $1,250,000.

The Chancellor restrained three of the concerns from doing business, while in the case of the fourth company, the Pennsylvania Underwriters, he ordered a receiver appointed. The receiver, Frank Ellis, of Georgetown, Del., was directed to take charge of the assets and collect the premiums. It was charged that the companies were backed by promoters. MOTOR 'BOOSTERS' HAVE A FIELD DAY

Old-Time Bicycle Enthusiasts in a Race—Discussion of Motor Trucks.

Most of "Automobile Row" was still talking yesterday about the outing of the "Big Village Motor Boosters," held under ideal conditions at Fred J. Wagner's farm at Smithtown, L. I., on Tuesday. Secretary of State May, for the day a "Booster," was one of those who took part in the outing. In all there were 47 carloads of "Boosters." The outing began with the run of fifty-odd miles over the Jericho Pike, most of the cars starting from the Manhattan Automobile Club in West Fifty-ninth Street. Before 10 o'clock nearly all the machines had been parked at Wagner's farm and the athletes began to limber up. Tennis was soon under way and a doubles tournament begun, which ended in the triumph of David Beecroft and Lay.

Ball teams, led respectively by R. H. Johnston, George H. Robertson and William C. Poertner were soon showing that they knew the game, Johnston's team in the end won by a comfortable margin, thus gaining a leg on the big trophy offered by the Manhattan Automobile Club.

It was not long before the field sports also got started under the management of Sharps and Dieges. Dan C. Swander promptly won the 25-yard fat man's race. W. A. Woods took the cup presented by Emanuel Lascaris for the winner of the 50-yard dash, making the distance in 6 seconds. The three-legged race was won by Carroll and Sullivan, the sack race by E. R. Waterman, the wheelbarrow race by Charles Smith and William Wolff, the shoe race by S. Meyers, the potato race by I. Isaacson, the hop, step and jump by Gene Sullivan, with 33 feet 7½ inches, and the tire rolling contest by A. Gremler.

The event which attracted the most attention was the bicycle race for those who had been cyclists before the Spanish-American war. A trophy was offered as a prize by Charles F. Martin and bicycles had been supplied by Col. George Pope. Three preliminary heats were ridden, the winners being Charles Wells, C. A. Sinsabaugh and Fred Titus, respectively.

In the final there was a bit of "hippedotroning" which everybody enjoyed and John C. Wetmore, an added starter, won. The race was watched with much interest by Frank L. Kramer, the veteran wheelman.

The Automobile Chamber of Commerce has decided to publish a pamphlet on the causes of wear of solid tires. It has also readopted the truck standards laid down by the N. A. A. M. last year.

At its monthly meeting, held last night, the Motor Truck Club discussed parcel delivery by motor truck. Several experts, including the delivery superintendents of three of the large department stores, took part in the discussion. This is a field in which the automobile is gaining rapidly.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Colored Hosiery Scarce.

An unusual demand for colored hosiery is a feature of the present market. These goods are very scarce in first hands and jobbers are finding it difficult to get enough stock to fill their orders. A number of shades are wanted, of which the most popular is "Kelly" green. In the opinion of one jobber there is a record run due on this color and he said yesterday that he could dispose of 5,000 dozen pairs of green hose in three days if he could get them. Purple is second best in the colored goods, with navy, red, lavender, light blue and pink also wanted. The Fall vogue for contrasting colors is held responsible for the variety of shades wanted.

Trade Press Convention To-day.

The eighth annual convention of the Federation of Trade Press Associations in the United States will open to-day at the Hotel Astor. The general subject of the morning session will be "Business Promotion Through Trade Press Efficiency," H. M. Wilson, President of the New York Association will make the address of welcome, which will be followed by the annual address of the President of the federation, H. M. Swetland. "Outlook addresses" will be made by the Presidents of the Boston, Chicago, St. Louis and Philadelphia associations and a representative of the unaffiliated papers. The afternoon session will be given over to the discussion of editorial matters. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 in the Publishers' Building, on Thirty-ninth Street, and will be followed by an inspection of the plant and offices of the Federal Printing Company. At the business meeting on Saturday morning M. C. Robbins, General Manager of The Iron Age, will introduce the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Federation of Trade Press Associations favors the passage of a Federal law compelling publishers of periodicals enjoying second-class mail privilege to publish in his columns twice a year a sworn statement of circulation; and that the violation of this law, either in evasion or misstatements, become a penal offense.

Want Leather Duties Made Plain.

W. L. Douglas is continuing his efforts to have the new tariff schedules affecting leather put back into substantially its form adopted by the House. "All confusion, complication, ambiguity and opportunity for litigation," writes ex-Gov. Douglas to the Secretary of the Boot and Shoe Manufacturing Association, "can be avoided by agreeing in conference to the simple, explicit and indisputable wording of the House bill. * * * The dutiable list can easily be enlarged to include fancy leathers, &c., but the principle and plan of the House bill should be insisted upon—that all leather should be free except those itemized kinds specially provided for.

Glove Market Waking Up.

The coming of cooler weather has aroused a demand in retail circles for leather gloves that has already been felt in the local wholesale trade. Practically all kinds of leather gloves share in the business so far. Doeskins, both in white and naturals, are reported active but higher in price than last year. Both long and short gloves are being taken now, but the only question regarding the business that will be done on the former when the weather gets cold. Importers' salesmen are being kept from their regular Spring trips until the tariff is definitely settled, as it is practically out of the question to name prices at the moment. It is said that imported leather gloves will be slightly higher to the retailer if the rates in the bill as it came from the Senate are left unchanged.

New Tendency in Tailored Skirts.

The newest tailored skirts seen in the French models show a tendency toward some sort of plait, while still adhering to the peg-top and straight-line silhouettes. One model in taupe velveteen has a double skirt, the upper one being long enough to cover the knees and being composed entirely of two-inch side plaits. Another shows a three-inch box plait in the centre front and at one side of the back two deep side plaits, all extending from belt to hem, altogether the tailored suit styles are less form-revealing than they have been.

Minimizing Delivery Refusals.

A local manufacturing concern that has experienced considerable difficulty in effecting deliveries to smaller grocers in some sections of the city now sends the salesman who originally had taken the order with the truck making the delivery. It was found the firm's dealers were often influenced by the salesman to order goods not really needed and also that during the time between placing of the orders and their delivery they were often influenced to order similar goods from the competitors. According to the sales manager it was not unusual to have 50 per cent of the goods returned that were sent out for delivery, but with the salesman present at the time of delivery the dealer is less likely to refuse the goods, or, if he does, the salesman has the chance to resell the articles.

LIGHT ON NEW HAVEN FUNDS

H. Larue Brown Tells of $50,000,000 Discrepancy in Road's Assets.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—The hearing on the petition of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad for the approval of an issue of $67,000,000 of bonds, was resumed to-day. A resolution presented at a meeting of the railroad Directors by Morgan G. Bulkeley, suggesting that the bonds be sold without underwriting, was read to the commission.

A comparison of the capital stock and funded debt on June 30, 1907, and June 30, 1913, was submitted by H. Larue Brown, counsel for the commission, showing an increase in the capital stock of $58,000,000, and in the funded debt of $26,000,000. It also was shown that the floating debt had increased $89,000,000 in the six years, and that the increase in premiums amounted to $19,000,000.

Mr. Brown said he had found a discrepancy of $50,000,000 between the total securities and the total possessions of the road. Vice President Kochersperger said the company would have a statement prepared to explain the matter.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

A local costumer is showing an evening gown of pink charmeuse with a white tulle corsage and a triple-flounced tunic. The flounces are all wired and bound with pink panne velvet. The gown is finished with a panne velvet girdle.

Epaulet collars in embroidered batiste and Platen goods are a dominant feature in the neckwear market.

Veilings in conservative patterns on exceptionally dainty meshes continue in good demand. Floral patterns are unusually strong for the Fall and Winter seasons. In many of the best numbers the designs are outlined in silk or with silk cords and gems lead the mesh demand by a good margin.

One of the newer styles in sport shoes for men is one consisting of a combination of white buck and russet. The more exposed parts of the shoe, the toe cap, heels, back and eyelet stays are of dark russet, and the rest of white buck.

A new Fall suit for women is one of light brown velour de laine. The skirt is slightly draped in the front, the bottom is unslashed, and the corners are round. The jacket is a long Russian model, which blouses at the waist line. On the back of the slightly flaring skirt are two lines of rows of silk cord, finished each side with buttons trimmed with cord. The sleeves are three-quarter length, trimmed at the back with cord and buttons extending nearly to the elbows. The neck and fronts to the waist line and bottome of the sleeves are trimmed with bands of fur.

BUSINESS IS GOOD IN SOUTH AMERICA

Better Demand There, Too, for Goods Manufactured in the United States.

OLD PREJUDICES DYING OUT

But to Win and Hold the Market Agents Must Be Kept on the Spot, Says F. R. Johnson.

An expert view of business conditions in South America generally and in the West Indies was given to a TIMES reporter yesterday by F. R. Johnson, manager of the export department of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh, who had just returned from a trip of six months, during which he covered both coasts of South America, as well as Barbados, Jamaica, and Cuba.

"I went down the east coast and up the west," said Mr. Johnson at the Wolcott yesterday. "I covered Brazil, the River Plate district, including Montevideo, Buenos Aires, and the principal cities of Argentina. Then I went across the Andes and visited the main cities of Chile. I went by boat to Callao and Lima, and next to Panama. From Colon I crossed to Kingston, Jamaica, and then landing at the east end of Cuba I went through to Havana, making several stops.

"On the whole, I found business very satisfactory. Of course I was concerned only with plumbing and sanitary goods and enameled iron ware. In fixed sanitary conditions improving everywhere, not only in the large cities, but in many small places. And not only were the hotels, small and large, going in for modern conveniences, but the same thing was true of clubs and private residences, which were being brought up to date.

"I was received everywhere with the greatest courtesy and hospitality. The acute anti-American feeling that used to exist had practically disappeared. Until recent years American manufacturers had not covered the ground properly and some concerns unfortunately had sent men down there who did not speak either Spanish or Portuguese, which lack, of course, was a handicap. Others had sent men who had practically no experience in doing export trade, and some of these salesmen had persuaded merchants to buy things which they could not afterwards sell.

"However, better steamship connections have been opened up, and new concerns have started doing business. I found this time that a traveler representing a reliable American concern was received in a very friendly manner.

"The merchants told me that their money was rather tight. In Cuba the last crop of sugar, though a bumper, sold for very low prices, consequently the people in the country are restricted for funds, and the wholesalers are trying to collect and expanding credits as little as possible until they can get their money in.

"On the West Coast Chile leads. The Chileans are called the Yankees of the West Coast. They are energetic, hard working and intelligent. The Peruvians take things a little more easily. The largest South American market is the River Plate region. Argentina, from my point of view, leads in that respect. Brazil is important, too, and Chile is of most importance on the west coast. Of course, Cuba is a good buyer.

"As for getting about in South America, the railway services now are pretty good. You have excellent trains over the Andes, three times a week each way, and you can now find good hotels. Of course practically all the travel on the West coast has to be done by boat.

"In Cuba they have put express trains with sleepers on many of the roads, where formerly accommodations were rather limited. There are many good hotels in the island now.

"Politically, I found everything quiet. I just missed the troubles in Peru. I want to say that it is a mistake for people who have not visited South America recently to think those countries down there are backward. The market down there is growing from year to year. I noticed a great improvement in everything since my last visit three years ago. I go to Cuba once a year."

"It is necessary for a salesman going down there to speak Spanish, though English is becoming more and more generally used. I was astonished at the number I found speaking it, especially in business and commercial circles. Of course there are many English and Americans down there, but the German business men speak the language as well. In Cuba you can travel over the island from one end to the other without having to speak anything else.

"The field in South America is so large that an American firm expecting to do business down there has to have somebody on the ground to keep in touch with the merchants and to watch competitors. Formerly it was possible to do business by mail, but it cannot be done that way now. The English and German manufacturers, who are our principal competitors, all have agents on the spot. They call on the trade day after day, and if there is any business coming, the man on the spot gets it."

BUSINESS NOTES.

The semi-annual report of the Silk Association of America, concerning the American silk trade, is now being distributed. One of the features of the report is a detailed estimate of the world's production of raw silk for 1913-14.

Exports of domestics and cotton duck from the Port of New York for the week ended Sept. 13 totaled 3,024 packages, valued at $210,675, against $805,580 for the week before. The greatest amount shipped a single country, $53,268 worth of merchandise, went to Cuba.

According to a report on the olive oil situation, there is every reason to expect a satisfactory olive crop. Stocks of the qualities are being practically cleared, especially in Italy.

Willett & Gray report the sugar movement at the six principal Cuban ports, in tons, as follows: Receipts one week, 20,000; corresponding week with 18,000 last week, 30,000 last year, and 4,000 two years ago; stock, 117,000, against 144,000, 94,000, and 8,000 respectively; receipts for the entire island, 6,000, against 8,000, 4,000, and 8,000 respectively. There are two centrals grinding, against three last week, one last year, and one two years ago.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

With the decrease in sheep raising in Russia, that country, once one of the principal wool-exporting nations, is gradually becoming an importer of that product. As a result, the number of "solganka," or rendering establishments, is steadily diminishing.

The entire product, about 1,500,000 tons per annum, of the eleven briquet-making plants of the Welsh coalfield is exported. One-third goes from Cardiff and the remainder from other South Wales ports. The Mediterranean countries are the chief customers, although France uses some patent fuel in her navy and a certain quantity for locomotives.

A proposal has been made to the Senate of the Province of Buenos Aires whereby a guarantee of 6 per dent. during a period of ten years would be made on capital invested in factories for the elaboration of agricultural products. The object of the proposed law is to encourage the production of certain primary articles which at present have to be imported from abroad, by the utilization of by-products which so far have been entirely wasted.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Yield Under Realizing Sales After Sharp Advance in Reading.

Following the outwardly aggressive buying movement which carried some stocks up sharply in the early trading yesterday prices yielded quite sharply and showed at the day's close the largest net decline in the general level of quotations which has occurred on any one day since the beginning of the forward movement which recently infused new life into the market. The impression prevailed with many at the close of the day that there had been a good deal of distribution of stock while Reading and a few other issues were being bid up. That stock itself was conspicuously the leader in the advance and in the subsequent decline. The early strength, notably that of Reading, which sold up to a new high price for the year, centred around reports that the dividend on Reading common would be increased from 8 per cent. to 10 per cent. at the meeting which the Directors were to hold in the afternoon. This report was seriously questioned even while it was proving effective in stimulating trading operations in that stock, and there was no real cause for surprise when announcement was made in the afternoon that only the regular dividend had been declared.

The action of the market the previous day had shown that a somewhat deceptive appearance of strength was given by brisk forward movements in a few issues, while the general level of prices actually lost ground, and what occurred yesterday was a logical enough sequel to the course of prices on Tuesday. What happened in the late trading at least fitted in with, if it did not fully support, the view that under the cover of upbidding of prices here and there in the list an opportunity had been found and taken for a large amount of profit-realizing sales. Throughout the session a good deal of attention was attracted by the downward movement in the Rock Island Company stocks and Rock Island Railroad bonds, which ran to two points or more in all these issues. The rumor on which these declines were predicated, or which itself was predicated on the decline, was denied in behalf of the company. It was not a new one, having been wildly current at the time of the passing of the St. Louis & San Francisco into receivership. Before the day was over some recovery occurred in both issues of the stock as well as in the bonds. This incident of the day's trading, though it played its part in checking the rise, could hardly be regarded as a very large factor in the afternoon's reaction. That was due more specifically to disappointment over the too readily accepted rumor regarding the Reading Company, and in a broader sense to the increasing pressure of profit-taking sales.

It is a customary thing for the market to grow impatient over delay in the fulfillment of reports upon which it bases a forward movement in prices. Many still expect some form of Reading distribution as well as a substantial disbursement to the Union Pacific stockholders, but neither has materialized as quickly as the Stock Exchange had predicted, and both stocks have reacted. The merits of the matter have in neither case been altered, and recurrence of the reports may doubtless be looked for when the market is again in mood to give heed to them. The Stock Exchange seemed to be preparing for another possible disappointment in accepting rumors that gold would be immediately imported from Europe. Those who have been following the probabilities in this matter have not been looking for gold imports at this time, but two or three weeks hence at the earliest. Should they come before that it will be contrary to the expectations of those who first began to point out the chance of New York banks obtaining increased reserves from abroad. Yesterday's movements carried us a little further away from, rather than any closer to, the gold import level. Discounts were a trifle firmer at London, and here exchange was a shade higher, while money was if anything easier. This was shown chiefly in the freer offering of four months money. Philadelphia banks were lenders here.

Government 2 per cent. bonds showed some improvement after having sold late on Tuesday as low as 97. A few sellers have recently pressed their bonds for sale, and the market has been so narrow that it has yielded rather easily under this liquidation. New York State 4s were in some demand yesterday at 99. At their low point this Summer they sold between 95 and 96. Their more recent improvement has been in part due to what is known as tax demand, which now, however, is much less a factor in the market for State and municipal securities than it was before the enactment of the law which enables the owners of railroad and other bonds to make them tax exempt in this State upon the payment of one-half of 1 per cent.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2¼@2¾ per cent., with the last loan at 2½ per cent. The renewal rate was 2½ per cent.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Bi-Monthly Settlements.

Stock Exchange members were led to challenge yesterday the opinion presented by a New York attorney before the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency to the effect that bi-monthly instead of daily settlements of transactions in securities would work to conserve the resources of banks and Curb speculation. It was suggested to the committee that the Exchange be compelled to follow the practice of the London and Paris Exchanges because, by having settlements at longer intervals, bank funds would not be required in large amounts every business day for the stock market. The idea did not make any appeal whatever to those brokers who discussed the proposal. They said that instead of checking speculation fortnightly settlements would tend to expand margin trading for the reason that speculators, with the day of reckoning a week or more ahead instead of a few hours, would be naturally tempted to test their luck further than they are able to do under present conditions. The product would be a great deal more speculation with a greater strain on the banks and traders when settlement time came around. New York has never witnessed such outbursts of speculation, the brokers said, as London and Paris and the chief reason they advanced for the larger activities abroad was the fewer times of settling up.

More Trouble for Brokers.

If the British method of squaring up accounts should be introduced in the local market, brokers agreed yesterday, their responsibilities would be increased many fold. For one thing, they would have to be eternally vigilant against the over eagerness of their customers when a big market was on, lest they extended themselves too far. An important phase of the brokerage business, then would be the refusal of orders instead of their acceptance, an unusual condition of affairs for Wall Street, to say the least. Failure to maintain a close scrutiny on customers' accounts would quickly bring the delinquent brokerage houses into difficulty with the banks, for, assuming that the present method of calling loans were still left in operation, the banks would exercise sharp precautions toward the extension of credit and would be likely to bring their borrowers up with a round turn if their credit was overdrawn. All this is from the brokers' point of view. It might be used by interests inimical to trading in stocks as a further argument to show that the introduction of foreign procedure would, without question, aid in checking out and out speculation.

***

A New Haven Comparison.

New Haven, at the lowest price ever recorded yesterday, 87⅜, stood 42½ points below its maximum figure of the year and the depreciation represented by its decline showed a loss in aggregate market vaule of $86,725,000. This was not far from the amount of money the company hopes to realize from the debenture bond issue now being considered by the Massachusettes Railroad Commission.

***

Reading in Old-Time Form.

Reading opened yesterday in the way it used to do when it acted as a leader in the days of big trading. There was considerable excitement around the post when the gong sounded, but not all of it represented enthusiasm on the part of the traders. Some of them, having a ninkling that the price was going to start off with a forward rush which might reach greater proportions later, stood around waiting for chance to buy to advantage. They were the short sellers of a few days ago. There was an accumulation of buying orders for the rise on the floor before business started, and the first transaction reported on the ticker comprised 12,000 shares, at prices ranging from 169½ to 169⅝, the latter price being a gain of 2 points from Tuesday's closing price. Nobody knew why the stock should score so substantial an advance in initial trading, except that it was up nearly 2 points in London, where it had been bought on a large scale on orders supposed to have originated chiefly on this side. Reading is by no means a prominent speculative stock with the British market, and the sudden demand for it filled traders on the short side with fears of some important development at which they had not been able to guess.

A Change of Directors.

Wall Street was not surprised to hear rumors yesterday that the two directors who have represented Pennsylvania Railroad interests on the Baltimore & Ohio board would probably resign at to-day's meeting of Baltimore & Ohio directors to make place for men identified with the Union Pacific. The exchange of the big block of Baltimore & Ohio stock by the Pennsylvania for Southern Pacific stock held in the Union Pacific treasury, to carry out the decree of the Supreme Court for separating the Harriman roads, practically implied that such a change would be made. It is an established custom of roads holding substantial amounts of stock in another road to be represented in the management.

Our Stocks Scarce in London.

Quotations sent over from London seemed to indicate that some American stocks were scarce on the English market. The opening price for Union Pacific there was the equivalent of 158⅛ in New York, yet there was no selling of the stock from London on the local Exchange, as far as could be learned, until Union had reached 160. Brokers reasoned that if there had been even a moderate number of shares in the British market there would have been a fair amount of selling by cable, at least, to take advantage of the substantial profit held forth by New York prices. When Reading was selling here at 169¼ it was 169 bid in London with none offered under 170⅛. Transactions for London account were estimated at 10,000 shares for the day, about evenly divided between sales and purchases. Selling pressure seemed to be directed against the industrial list while the railroad shares were in demand.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

A great display of strength in Reading marked the opening of business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Before 10 o'clock 2,240 shares of that stock had changed hands at 169¼ to 169¾, the latter being its final price on the Consolidated call and representing an advance of 2 points compared with Tuesday's closing quotation. In the trading after the call Reading touched a high of 170. This compared with a New York Stock Exchange big of 170¼. The rest of the market, however, hesitated, showing signs of reaction as the session progressed. In a number of stocks special weakness had developed early in the day, notably in the Rock Island shares, Missouri Pacific, and New Haven.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Nicholas S. Brady was elected a Director of the New York Air Brake Company yesterday, to succeed his father, the late Anthony N. Brady.

A bondholders' committee to protect the interests of owners of O'Gara Coal Company first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds has been organised with the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company as depository. Henry L. Cohen is Chairman.

Announcement was made yesterday that holders of the preferred stock of the Electric Properties Corporation would shortly receive dividends on the preferred stock of the old Electric Properties Company for the period extending from Feb. 1, 1910, to Sept. 1, 1913. This is in accordance with the plan adopted by stockholders of the company when the Electric Properties Corporation bought the properties of the Electric Properties Company on Aug. 20. The dividends will be paid partly in cash and partly in five year 5 per cent. notes of the corporation.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Activity and firmness marked the grain markets yesterday. Wheat did not move forward as vigorously as corn, but some of the options closed ¼c. above Tuesday's final quotations. Corn advanced from ⅝ to ⅞c. net, after selling still higher. Oats gained fractions. In the cotton market a bullish demonstration carried prices up to a range not far below the high record of the year. Provisions and cotton oil were easy.

WHEAT.

The operations in wheat continued along very moderate lines yesterday, the total range of prices for the day being within a limit of about ⅝c per bushel, and the close unchanged to ⅛c above the previous night. The market was inclined to be a little heavy toward noon, when a sudden upturn in corn produced a sympathetic rally, which proved to be the only strong point of the day. Prices advanced about half a cent above the close, but were not well sustained.

The Canadian official report on the crop of Canada was 11,000,000 bushels more than last year. Arrivals for the day at Winnipeg were 98 cars, and at all three big Spring wheat markets 2,218 cars for the day, compared with 1,702 cars a year ago. There were 698 cars of No. 1 Northern in the Winnipeg arrivals. At Liverpool there was an advance of ½@¾d, but Berlin was unchanged to ¼c lower, Budapest, ½c lower, and Antwerp unchanged. In the local market No. 2 red wheat was quoted at 98½c, elevator, and 98c, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, 98½c, free on board, afloat.

CORN.

Midday strength and an advance of ⅞@1¼c over the previous night was the feature in corn yesterday. Part of this was lost in the final hour, but closing prices were, nevertheless, ⅝@⅞c net higher, and the undertone seemed to be quite firm owing to the more bullish character of Western news, particularly The Price Current estimate of only 2,250,000,000 bushels, which may be reduced. Cash houses were good buyers of December at the West, partly on reports of a good cash demand at Kansas City. Meantime the interior movement is ahead of last year, and the Liverpool market was partly ¼d lower, influenced by continued good reports from Russia and Rumania, and talk of liberal Argentine shipments for the week. Export corn in the New York market was quoted at 83c, free on board, afloat.

OATS.

A firmer tone prevailed in the oats market up to the close, which was at practically the best point of the day and ⅛ to ¼c over the previous night. Much of the improvement was due to the strength of corn, as receipts continue large and country offerings are liberal. Cash oats here were quoted as follows: Standard white, 49 to 49½c; No. 2 white, 49¼ to 50c; No. 3 white, 48 to 48½c; No. 4 white, 47½ to 48c; ordinary clipped white, 47½ to 48c, and fancy clipped white, 50 to 51½c, all elevator.

COTTON.

There was an active and somewhat excited buying movement in the cotton market yesterday, on which prices sold practically $3 per bale above the low level of last Friday and within 8 or 10 points of the high records established shortly after the publication of the September condition figures. December contracts sold at 13.25, and, while the market met heavy realising as well as considerable Southern selling around this level, offerings were well taken, and the close was firm within 5 or 10 points of the best, at a net gain of 21 to 25 points for the day. After the official close there were private sales of December at 13.30, and New Orleans advised further gains on reports of higher Southern spot markets.

The buying movement in the local market appeared to reflect increasing reports of damage to the cotton crop continued rains in the South. The firmness abroad evidently took the local trade by surprise, and, while some explained it on the ground that Liverpool had received a rumor pointing to a Giles report making the condition of the crop 61 per cent., the publication of the actual figures showing a condition of 67 per cent. failed to check the buying movement.

The local market opened firm at an advance of 15 to 20 points and quickly sold 24 to 26 points net higher. Subsequent fluctuations were somewhat irregular, but demand improved on moderate reactions, and in no time during the day did the market show any weakness.

The Giles report indicated a falling off of 2.9 per cent. in the condition of the crop, as compared with two weeks ago, which was rather a more favorable statement than the Memphis report issued earlier in the week. Southern spot markets were generally ⅛c to ¼c higher. The range of contract prices in the local market was as follows:

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil showed a good deal of firmness early in the day on reports of a better European demand and scattered covering, due to lighter crude offerings and the strength of lard and cotton. Near the close, however, the market was easier, owing to pressure from refiners and further liquidation in nearby deliveries. Closing prices were

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Southwestern disturbance has reached the lower St. Lawrence Valley, but a trough of moderate low pressure still persists southwestward in to Northern Texas, with the result that rains continued in the lake region, the Central Valley, and the South, and extended into the Middle Atlantic States and New England.

In the Northwest, Southwest, and extreme West the weather was fair.

Moderate temperatures prevailed generally except in the Gulf States and Oklahoma, where they are rather low, and in the Northwest and extreme West, where they are abnormally high, although they have fallen somewhat since Tuesday along the coast. At Los Angeles the maximum of 108 degrees equaled the September record, while at San Diego and San Luis Obispo maximum readings of 110 degrees were the highest of record for any month. San Diego having exceeded the previous high record of March 22, 1883, by 6 degrees.

There will be rains Thursday in the Ohio Valley, the Atlantic and East Gulf States, followed by generally fair Friday. In the lake region and the West the weather will be generally fair Thursday and Friday. It will be warmer Friday in the Central Valleys, and probably cooler by Friday in the Northwest.

Winds along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate west and northwest; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate variable, becoming northwest; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate, mostly east and southeast.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York—Generally fair Thursday; probably showers in extreme southern portion, slightly cooler; Friday, fair; moderate northwest to north winds.

Southern New England—Cloudy and slightly cooler Thursday, probably rain in extreme southern portion; Friday, fair; moderate west and north winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Local rains Thursday; Friday, probably fair; light to moderate winds, becoming north.

Western New York—Partly cloudy and slightly cooler Thursday; Friday, fair; moderate northwest to north winds, becoming variable.

Northern New England—Fair Thursday, except showers in Maine and Northern New Hampshire, cooler in Vermont; Friday, fair; moderate west to northwest winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission has approved the following:

Report of Examiner Ihlseng, on the request of Acting Commissioner Olvany of the Fire Department, for the certification of the list of mechanical or electrical draughtsman, from which to appoint one draughtsman in the Fire Alarm Telegraph Bureau at $1,050 a year. Mr. Ihlseng reports that each of the five persons remaining on the list of draughtsmen (electrical) has declined appointment at $1,200, and that the only appropriate list suitable for the purpose is junior architectural draughtsman; that one list contains the same, and a sufficient number of eligibles for certification. He recommends certification of these lists in the order named.

Communication from Dr. Keno, saying with reference to the letter from the Health Department, relative to the transfer of Dr. William E. Youland from pathologist to bacteriologist, that, in his opinion, the examination held on May 17, for the former place, was not a fair qualifying test for a bacteriologist.

Letter from the labor clerk, recommending that the name of Henry De Latre of Valley Stream, L. I., be restored to the list of licensed firemen, (preferred list.)

Letter from the labor clerk, saying that Antonio Zito of 42 Oak Street was over 21 years of age at the time of his father's naturalization, and recommending that he be summoned to show cause why his name should not be removed from the list of laborers.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination for hospital interne, for men only, to be held at New York on Oct. 8, to fill several vacancies in the Public Health Service at New York, Chicago, and San Francisco, at entrance salaries of $50 a month, with quarters and subsistence, and vacancies as they may occur in places requiring similar qualifications. As insufficient eligibles were obtained as a result of the examination held for this place on July 2, qualified persons are urged to enter this examination. Competitors will be examined in:

Letter writing, anatomy, physiology, surgery, surgical pathology, chemistry, materia medica, therapeutics, bacteriology, hygiene, general pathology, theory of practice of medicine, obstetrics, gynecology, training, and experience. Applicants must be graduates of recognized medical schools. Students, who are members of the graduating class of any recognized medical school, will be admitted to examination, but their names will not be entered upon the eligible register until they furnish a certificate from the Dean of the college that they have been graduated. Applicants must have reached their twenty-second but not their thirtieth birthday on the date of the examination.

Further information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Manhattan Club to Buy Its Madison Avenue Home from Jerome Estate—Another Times Square Subway Entrance—Skyscraper Planned Overlooking Battery—Long Island Acreage Deals.

All doubt concerning the fate of the Manhattan Club Building on the southeast corner of Madison Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street, regarding which there have been many rumors as to its prospective sale for business uses, was set at rest yesterday when it was ascertained that the club itself has practically closed negotiations with the heirs of the estate of Lawrence Jerome to buy the property.

The building is one of the few old-time structures remaining in that part of the city and it has long been used for club purposes, having been at various times the home of the American Jockey Club, the Union League Club and the University Club. The Manhattan Club took up its quarters there several years ago when it left the old Stewart mansion on Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street.

A special committee representing the club members was appointed a short time ago to arrange the terms of the sale with the Jerome estate heirs. Ex-Justice Morgan J. O'Brien has conducted the negotiations for the club and the firm of Bowers & Sands has represented the estate, as attorneys.

The club house occupies a plot 49.5 on Madison Avenue and 175 on Twenty-sixth Street opposite Madison Square Garden. In connection with the purchase the club has had plans prepared by the architects, Hoppin & Koen, for extensive alterations to the interior rooms. The property is assessed by the city for $415,000. The Manhattan Club was organized in 1865 and its president is Justice Victor J. Dowling.

Another Times Square Subway Entrance.

An entrance to the Times Square subway station is about to be made from the basement of the Fitzgerald Building on the southeast corner of Broadway and Forty-third Street. Walter B. Mable & Co., the renting agents for the building, state that contracts are being let for the work, which will afford an entrance to the subway both from Broadway and from Forty-third Street through an arcade in the basement.

The basement has been leased to a restaurant concern formerly identified with similiar projects in Western cities. There is a subway entrance in the basement of the Long Acre Building on the Forty-second Street corner, adjoining the Fitzgerald Building.

22 Story Building on State Street.

Another big office building in the lower part of the city is about to be erected. It will occupy the site on the northwest corner of Whitehall and State streets, long famous for its old fashioned houses when State street was a fashionable residential place. The property was purchased yesterday by William H. Chesebrough, and the new structure which will be twenty-two stories high, will be put up by the South Ferry Realty Co., of which Mr. Chesebrough is president. The plot runs through to Pearl street, where the frontage is 39.10 feet, but on that plot the building will be only two-stories high.

The twenty-two-story structure will have a frontage of 131.1 feet on Whitehall street and 123.9 on State street. It will have a facade of brick and terra-cotta with a Mansard roof. Starrett and Van Vleck are the architects, and have placed the cost at $700,000.

SCHILDKNECHT LURE ONE OF KELLY GANG

Effie McMinn Admits He Gave $10,000 of His Stealings to Her to Spend.

SENT $500 TO HIM SEPT. 5

Drew $750 from His Bank and Kept $250—One of His Cars Now in Paul Kelly's Garage.

Efforts to trace to the notorious Paul Kelly gang some of the $55,000 embezzled by John C. Schildknecht, the $20 a week clerk of the Washburn-Crosby Flour Company, who disappeared on Aug. 29, were made yesterday at the bankruptcy hearing before United States Commissioner Gilchrist when William Lesser, attorney for Receiver Marshall S. Hagar, cross-examined Effie McMinn, the fair-haired twenty-two-year-old Tennessee girl with whom Schildknecht had lived in luxurious quarters at the Garden City Hotel. Mr. Hagar was recently appointed receiver of Schildknecht's property in an effort to get at the remnant assets.

The girl, it developed, was the boon companion, both before and after her alliance with Schildknecht, of Nicholas Vacarelli, brother of Tony Vacarelli, the "Paul Kelly" of the notorious gang bearing his name. Some of Schildknecht's belongings already have been traced to brother Paul, and the investigators hope to trace more of them and to prove that Nicholas Vacarelli's girl was used to divert the young clerk's ill-gotten gains to Vacarelli and his associates.

Alert and shrewd, the young woman yesterday divided her glances between the questioning attorney and the sallow, pudgy-faced gangsters, who, in company with two of the Vacarelli brothers, crowded about the long table in the room where the hearing was being conducted. Nicholas Vacarelli was there, and his beady black eyes were turned alternately upon the woman on whose tongue so much depended for him and the lawyer who was vainly trying with the thunder of his voice to frighten out of her some damaging admission that could connect the missing clerk's rich plunder with the plunder-loving Paul Kelly gang.

His Auto Bills $300 a Month.

The best Lesser could do, however, was to compel her to admit her intimacy with "Nick" Vacarelli; that after Schildknecht's disappearance she had gone with "Nick" and her colored maid to a safety-deposit box in the Corn Exchange Bank, near the flat Vacarelli had put her in at 425 West 114th Street; that she and Vacarelli frequently met at the corner of 125th Street and Eighth Avenue "for social chats" in the months that Schildknecht was lavishing his stolen money upon her, and that one of the two automobiles left by Schildknecht after his flight had been turned over to Vacarelli by Ler for disposal, and was now at the Stag Garage, said to be owned by Paul Kelly, on Forty-first Street, near Seventh Avenue.

Claud W. Landers, Superintendent of the Garden City Garage, was the first witness yesterday. He testified that Schildknecht had kept two cars of his own there, besides hiring three or four others for trips about the country. Schildknecht's bills, he said, averaged between $200 and $300 a month at the garage. One of the cars he owned, according to Landers, was a Pope-Hartford specially made for the Vanderbilt Cup race and worth originally $20,000. The other car was an Abbott-Detroit roadster. Landers said the missing clerk owed the garage about $600 for storage and upkeep of the cars he used, and that in order to recover the amount due an attachment had been levied upon the Pope-Hartford car left at the place after Schildknecht's disappearance.

"Did anybody call at the garage in regard to Schildknecht's cars within the last few weeks?"

"Yes, an Italian, who said he kept a garage in the city," he replied.

As "Wife" She Got $10,000 Cash.

Effie McMinn was then called to the stand, and questioned about the jewelry the runaway clerk had given to her. One pair of diamond drop earrings, a horseshoe pin, and a bar pin, she said, represented his gifts to her in this line, but she said she didn't know where they were now.

"I used to give them to Mr. Schildknecht for safe-keeping," she said, "and whenever I was not wearing them he had the jewels in his pocket."

Without the least embarrassment she admitted that she had lived with Schildknecht as his wife both at the 114th Street flat and at the hotel in Garden City, and that it was understood that he was to pay the bills. She told of attending the races at Belmont Park with him and of his "playing the ponies," but whether he won or lost his inscrutable face gave her no idea.

She was born, she said, in Tennessee, where her parents still lived. She refused to tell their names or where-abouts. Close questioning brought out that Schildknecht had given to her sums of money that might total $10,000, although she was inclined to think $5,000 or $6,000 would be nearer the mark. This, she said, she had spent in part for herself and in part for her parents.

"Did you ever give money to Nicholas Vacarelli?" she was asked.

"No."

She admitted that she had authorized Nicholas Vacarelli to sell for her the Abbott-Detroit roadster which Schildknecht had bought for $2,100, and had left when he fled. She said she got $320 for it from him, but didn't know who bought it. The car, according to counsel for the receiver, has been attached at the garage of Paul Kelly on Forty-first Street, where it is held in the name of a man named Weber.

Sent $500 to Absconder on Sept. 6.

Mr. Lesser brought out that on Sept. 6 she had received a telephone message purporting to come from Schildknecht, asking her to send $500 by a messenger he would send to her home, since he (Schildknecht) needed the money badly; and that she had done so, drawing out an account of $750 he had in the bank and spending the remaining $250 herself.

"You hired a safe deposit box in the Corn Exchange Bank?"

"Yes."

"To keep jewels in?"

"No. Private papers."

She testified that there was nothing in the box now, and was then excused until Saturday morning.

Irene Mitchell, her colored maid, testified that she had been in "Miss Effie's" service for five years, first at the Hotel Albany and later at the 114th Street flat and the Garden City hotel. She first saw Schildknecht in the flat in December last, when her mistress was known as Mrs. William Taylor. She accompanied them to the hotel in Garden City in May last. She heard Schildknecht say he was going to marry "Miss Effie," and took it for granted that they were married. She had met Vacarelli before she knew Schildknecht, and had used to call every day or so at the 114th Street flat.

"Did he ever call when Schildknecht was there?"

"Well, maybe he did. Yes, he did, sometimes. But I never saw them together."

She said Vacarelli used to call in the afternoons, while Schildknecht was there only at night.

Maid Was Scolded for Talking.

Schildknecht, she said, had telephoned the Garden City Hotel that he had run over some one and would have to go away for a few days. Thereupon her mistress authorized her to pay the hotel bill of $197 out of money left in the top of a trunk there.

"Isn't it true that there was $5,000 or more?"

"No, Sir! I never see so much money. No, Sir; only about $200."

"Now, when representatives of the creditors called at the 114th Street place, after Schildknecht left, you met them and talked to them?"

"Yes."

"And you were reprimanded for doing so?"

"Yes, they gave me an awful calldown inside."

"Who?"

"The men inside of Mrs. Schildknecht's flat. I don't know who they were. It wasn't my business to know."

The maid denied she had been coached as to the testimony she should give. The hearing was then adjourned until this afternoon.

Late yesterday afternoon William H. Lyons, representing the receiver, visited the flat in 114th Street and there received from Nicholas Vacarelli and Miss McMinn the clothes they said Schildknecht had left there. These consisted of four suits, a full dress suit, two Tuxedo suits, a fur coat, two automobile coats, a raincoat, etc., pairs of shoes, and seven hats.

To-day at 2:30 o'clock Nicholas Vacarelli will be called to testify, and to-morrow, in all probability, his brother Antonio, otherwise Paul Kelly, will be a witness.

Burns detectives who have been working on the case think that Schildknecht is in hiding with a woman named Mrs. Strong, whose whereabouts, however, have not been ascertained.

H. J. REILLY ENJOINED.

Cannot Dispose of Securities Until Frias Case Is Settled.

Supreme Court Justice Weeks signed an injunction yesterday against Hugh J. Reilly of 149 Broadway, the railroad contractor, restraining him from disposing of his holdings of securities in various Cuban enterprises until the settlement of his difficulties with ex-Senator José Antonio Frias of Cuba, who was associated with him in Cuban enterprises. Frias was arrested a short time ago on a warrant in which Reilly charged that his name had been forged on certain papers purporting to surrender a half interest in Cuban concessions.

Frias made disclosures at that time to the effect that William Sulzer, while a member of Congress, had conducted negotiations on behalf of Reilly and his associates in Cuba with the State Department. In answer to this Mr. Sulzer replied that he had not been associated with Mr. Reilly except in an official capacity. Mr. Reilly gave testimony on Tuesday before the Assembly Board of Managers conducting the trial of impeachment against Mr. Sulzer, that he had at various times lent Mr. Sulzer sums amounting to $26,500.

The injunction, as issued by Justice Weeks, restrains Reilly from disposing of half of the stocks and bonds of the Cienfuegos, Palmira & Cruces Electric Railroad and Power Company, a half interest in the Espada Cemetery, in Havana, and in sums amounting to $557,681 which the Government of the Republic of Cuba paid on the Cienfuegos sewerage and water supply contract made by Reilly. Frias alleges that his services to Reilly as his Cuban representative entitled him by contract to these securities and part of the payment made by Cuba.

The contract as exhibited by Frias, Reilly says, is a forgery, and he has begun a counter-suit asking for the abrogation of the agreement.

TRIED FOR KILLING HUSBAND

Mrs. Moser Said Pistol Went Off in the Course of a Struggle.

Mrs. Mabel Moser was put on trial yesterday in Newark before Chief Justice Gummere, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, charged with having killed her husband on May 3 in a furnished room house at 47½ Stirling Street. After several witnesses had been called Prosecutor Hood announced late yesterday afternoon that the State would rest its case.

Mrs. Moser was alleged to have shot her husband while they were quarreling. She says her husband, Ferdinand C. Moser, took a pistol from a bureau drawer and that it was while she was struggling to wrest it from him that it was discharged.

Among the witnesses called by the State was Miss Marie Ledos, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Ledos, landlady of the house in which Moser was killed. The witness said she heard Mrs. Moser say: "Now I'll kill you!" The witness testified that she heard the shot and then ran up to the room and found Mrs. Moser standing over her husband's body crying, "What have I done!"

It is expected that the case will go to the jury to-night.

ILL, LOSES DEATH RACE.

Mrs. Decker Expires Before Son, Hurt in Train Wreck, Gets to Her.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, N. J., Sept. 17.—In an effort to get to the bedside of his mother before she died, Richard F. Decker of Summit, who was injured seriously in the wreck of the Bar Harbor express, was carried from a hospital in New Haven yesterday afternoon to a special train and brought to Manhattan. He was then conveyed in an ambulance to Hoboken, put on a special car and taken to Convent Station. As an ambulance was conveying the man to the home of his father, Charles M. Decker in Mountain Avenue, it was intercepted and Mr. Decker was told that his mother had just died. He was then taken to his home at 11 Fernwood Avenue, Summit.

Mr. Decker was returning from a vacation in Maine and was asleep in his berth when the White Mountain Express crashed into the train on which he was riding. One of his legs was broken in several places. Mr. Decker's mother, Mrs. Harriet Louise Decker, was the wife of Charles M. Decker, head of the retail grocery firm of Charles M. Decker & Bros., which operates a chain of stores in Northern New Jersey.

IN NEW JERSEY.

ROSELLE.—Charged with having broken into the Second Baptist Church, of which he was pastor, the Rev. Thomas J. Henderson was to-day held under $200 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. The complaint was made by Deacon Henry Williams before Justice of the Peace Charles B. Trimmer. The resignation of the clergyman has been demanded. The complaint is the outcome of a factional controversy, which has split the congregation.

PLAINFIELD.—Miss Florence Murphy of St. Paul, Minn., arrived in town to-day in search of her aunt, Mrs. Sarah O'Brien, whom she has not seen in ten years. Later in the day Mrs. O'Brien was found at the home of City Judge W. G. Demeas, where she has been employed. She plans to return to St. Paul, in response to that wish of her sister, Miss Murphy's mother, where it is understood a comfortable home and an ample income await her. Mrs. O'Brien is 70 years old.

CAMDEN.—Eleanor Massey, 5 years old, died in the Homeopathic Hospital this morning from burns. Her clothing took fire as she was playing at a bonfire last night. Emma Massey, 50 years old, her grandmother fell while running to the child's aid and broke one of her ankles, but she dragged herself to the child and battled with the flames, being badly burned herself. She is in a serious condition at the Homeopathic Hospital.

STOKES AS MOOSE STALKER.

Seeks to Coax Progressive Votes Into the Republican Poll.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 17.—Determined to get out a full vote at next Tuesday's primaries, if possible, and also desiring to make it known that all Progressives who want to affiliate with the Republicans this year will be warmly welcomed, former Gov. E. C. Stokes has written to each of the Republican County Chairmen asking them to make the law plain to the voters. He argues that a man who voted for a majority of the candidates on the Republican ticket last year is still a member of the G. O. P. and entitled to all party privileges.

The former Governor also announced to-day the members of his Advisory Committee. In making public the list Mr. Stokes said:

"I have asked a number of people of the highest character throughout the State, and of unselfish interest in affairs, to act in the capacity of an advisory committee. I have long felt the shortcoming of our Government was the failure of many of its representative citizens to participate in public affairs and to exercise their influence to the public good.

"In framing this committee I have appealed to this class of citizens and I have been most gratified by their prompt and ungrudging response. When men of this character are willing to permit the use of their names in a campaign it must necessarily result in raising the standards of political life and develop a spirit of civic patriotism."
